—There is to be a fine program of Easter carols, anthems, etc., in Grace church on next Sunday night. This will be the May musical evening with free seats for every one. Among the pieces to be sung will be a solo by a boy chorister, and some anthems by the whole choir. A popular Easter carol, the music written by a son of the Rector, will be rendered as solo and chorus. The closing of this successful series of special musical evenings will be Ascension night May 24, when "The Holy City" will be given.

—At the residence of Mr. George S.
Noden on Nonantum place last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock occurred the funeral of Mrs. Christine Anna, wife of Mr. David G. Noden who died the previous Thursday night. A particularly sad thing was the christening of the infant daughter by Rev. Franklin S.
Hatch of Eliot church, just before the funeral. Rev. Mr. Hatch conducted the services and the Mendelssohn quartet
sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "Asleep
in Jesus," and "Wonderful Peace."
There were many relatives and friends present and the floral tributes were numerous and of beautiful design. Rev.
Mr. Hatch was in charge of the committal service at Newton Cemetery.

—At the Hunnewell Club on Wednesday afternoon, May 2nd, a musicale was given for the benefit of the Wellesley College library fund under the auspices of the Wellesley alumnae of Newton.
The program included vocal selections
by Miss Bertha Murray Hart, Wellesley
root, soprano, piano solos by Mrs. H. P.
Ballard, '95, songs by Mrs. May Sleeper Ruggles, '86, contralto, and readings by Miss Adelaide Jump. The music was of a high order and was received most cordially, while the readings by Miss Jump were greatly enjoyed by all present. She is especially good in the little girl parts.
An interesting feature of the afternoon was two selections sung by Mrs. Ruggles, composed by Miss May Belle Willis, also a Wellesley graduate, who played the accompaniments. One of them,
"Lil' Drum", is as yet unpublished and was used through the courtesy of the composer.

Mr. Alonzo S. Weed.

Mr. Alonzo S. Weed, a resident of Newton for thirty five years, died at his home on Park street, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, after a brief illness with pneumonia. Mr. Weed had returned from a trip south only a few days before and had been out and about only two days previous to his death. Mr.
Weed was born in Sandwich, N. H. in 1827, but early removed to Bangor, Me., where he was engaged in business for some years. He was a member of the Bangor city government, a trustee of Bangor Seminary, and prominent in religious circles of the Methodist denomination. In 1871 Mr. Weed became publisher of the Zion's Herald and made his home in Newton. Through his connection with this organ of the Methodist church, Mr. Weed became of great importance to the denomination and active in all religious work. He was for many years a director of the Boston Y. M. C.
A., and has served as a trustee of the Home Savings Bank, and as a director of the Little Wanderers Home. He was a member of the Common Council of Newton in 1875-76 and served on the School Committee for three years from 1888. He retired from active work some seven years ago. He is survived by two sons and two daughters, Mr. George M.
Weed and ex-Mayor Alonzo R. Weed
of Newton, Mrs. Grace Eckfield of Concord, Mass., and Miss Thalia Weed of San Francisco.

Funeral services will be held from his late residence on Park street tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 and the burial will be at Bangor, Me.

BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.

If anything on the earth, above the earth or under the earth can be likened to the session of the Massachusetts legislature between, about April 20th and May 20th, it would be interesting to read a description of the thing. When Sir David Brewster invented the kaleidoscope he undoubtedly had a certain satisfaction that he had accomplished the best design yet discovered with which to illustrate chance, but Brewster's device was not in it as compared to the legislature of Massachusetts this year.

The two Chambers devoted to legislation are separated by only about 200 feet of space, and yet it would take a man in an automobile, going at a speed in excess of the legal rate, to follow legislation these days in both Chambers, if he desired to keep up with the changes. As one Senator said on a certain day regarding the changes upon a certain bill, "what might we expect if this matter was postponed till next week?" Or, as Representative Grady said about the 12 o'clock bill, "Sunday is considered a day of rest, but if this bill should be put over until Monday it would not be much of a day of rest to the members of this House." Until about the middle of April we get legislation as some take bitter medicine, through a quill, but after that time we take legislation as it is said the Danvers' Insane Asylum takes the water out of the Danvers' Reservoir. The Senate and the House go through the calendar now a days a good deal as fire goes through dried grass. As Senator Garrett says, "We do business so fast now that I am dizzy till four o'clock in the morning." However, the Senate took time enough on the Danvers' Water Bill the other day, to which reference has been made, to prove how little efficacy there is sometimes in debate. Probably that three hours' discussion did not change a single vote by the breadth of a hair. Legislation may be said to be brought about in another way now a days, and one is inclined to say, when the ways are considered, "more's the pity."

Pe-ru-na received some advertising in the House last week for which a bill will probably never be sent in to the manufacturers. That widely advertised "medicine" got a dose when the bill to which allusion was made in this column a week ago, was up for discussion, which was more effective than the majority of doses are even if taken externally, internally and eternally. In the paper the wards of Representative Peabody of Cambridge, are quoted here. Mr. Peabody represents the First Middlesex District and his home address is in the Directory. He was born in Cambridge March 3rd, 1874, and is, therefore, well within the Oler age limit, when a man may be considered responsible for what he says. The Cambridge gentlemen said:

"We have come to know that so-called non-alcoholic malt extracts are made by distilling companies; that so-called Peruna is simply a cheap form of whiskey; that the average patent medicine which purports to cure all ailments to which flesh is heir, are stronger in alcohol than wine or sherry, and stronger in some of them than in direct liquor. We know that the advertisements published by these firms are absolutely untrue, and we asking only for a fair bill which will enable the public to know that the medicines which they are taking are not spring tonics but are, in fact, alcoholic stimulants. The Peruna Company, the most dangerous of all, has already made preparations to change their formula in a manner to avoid the present bill."

There are a few things that should be corrected in the House of Representatives before they have had longer opportunity to sink their roots into the soil of common practice. Some of the methods connected with pairing are extremely loose and bring that legislative process into bad odor very early in the morning. Speaker Cole has called the attention of the legislature to this feature more than once. Take, for example, the votes the other day on the 12 o'clock bill; Mr. Jackson of Lynn was announced as paired in favor of the bill. The next day that gentleman took the floor and stated that the announcement was made without his authority, and that if he had been present he should have voted the other way from that announced in the pair. The statement by Mr. Jackson should have brought the matter up for the Speaker's consideration. Another feature is that of addressing the Chair, and sometimes making a speech of considerable length, by members who are not in their duly assigned place on the floor. This procedure is more common this year than ever perhaps. Not many years ago a Speaker refused to recognize members when they addressed the Chair in any other than their proper place. Speaker Cole has his charge pretty well in hand, and he can procure a reasonable degree of order if he has the will, but if he leaves the Chamber for any length of time, all order and decorum leave with him, and the racket begins. Recently the Speaker called a certain member to the Chair for a few moments and while Mr. Smith (there is no member this year by the name of Smith) was in the Chair he devoted the entire time in visiting with a man who sat in the seat adjoining. Of course, the House took advantage of the fact that there was no Speaker present and proceeded to hold a mock session until Speaker Cole returned.

There were two reasons at least why the Governor's veto of the First of the Emigration bill was sustained in the House last week by a vote of 124 to 88. One reason, of course, was that the bill should have been voted, and the other was the character of the opposition. It is nothing to be a pretty well defined fact that the measure of a measure in the House should, more upon its being opposed by a certain element than the support it may receive, however able it may be endorsed. There is one man in the House who would defeat the Golden Rule by supporting it if that righteous precept were up for legislative endorsement.

In justice to the exact facts it should be stated that another Automobile Bill has been reported to the legislature since the matter was mentioned in this column last week. The bill referred to provides that an imprisonment penalty may be inflicted and it might as well be mentioned also that whenever the word "may" appears in a statute it produces the same effect that it does to water capital stock. To put "may" into an automobile imprisonment penalty brings the same result as it would to say "may or may not be imposed." The bars seldom close upon any of the automobile class in this land of the free and home of the brave-do.

It seems to be up to Virginia now to prove that she has learned after forty years, to treat the negro with one "g" in his name, as he deserves to be treated. The legislature of Massachusetts has given a clean bill to the appropriation for Jamestown, and the Bay State will water with some interest the proceedings from now on. To be sure, it is very likely true that the Massachusetts negro is more of a man than the Virginian; that is doubtless owing somewhat to his environment. After all, it should be borne in mind that the greatest man the South has produced since the Civil War is a negro, who was, when a boy, a slave.

EDGAR J. BLISS.

Newton Home for Aged People.

The Annual Reception will be held Saturday, May 5th, from three to five in the afternoon. All friends of the Home are cordially invited to be present.

Newton Vacation Week.

Those who so generously aided in making the last year's work of the Newton Vacation Week the most successful of its history, may be interested to know through what channels the two hundred and seventy dollars received from donations and the sale, have been disbursed.

$95 paid the travelling expenses of eight adults and five children, to visit friends who willingly entertained them during their vacation season. $25 paid to the Seashore Institute at Beachmont secured the entertainment for a week of four tired out mothers and seven young children, while four boys from the same family were cured for at Sharon Farm, for which courtesy the sum of $20 was paid. A donation of $250 to the Mothers' Rest at Newton Centre gave the privilege of two weeks' entertainment to two mothers each with three children. A gift of $30 to the Newton Home for Aged People gave to each guest a weekly electric ride during the summer months, and $5 to the Pomroy Home provided a delightful outing, while double that sum gave to twenty stay-at-homes a pleasant day at Lexington Park. A worthy, but moneyless boy, given a healthful influence of the Y. M. C. A. Camp at an expense of $10 and for the same sum two aged and feeble women were given their rent for the month of August. Ten family picnics $20, and a hundred electric rides $10 more leaving $10 to aid in placing a little girl enfeebled in mind by long illness at the Home in Baldwinville. Emergency cases in the Associated Charities have called for $10, and there still remains a small sum in the treasury for the month of August. Another summer will bring to our notice cases similar to those already mentioned—cases in which a little money wisely invested can give much cheer and invigorate for the hard work of another year. Any who would like to aid, either by work, donation, or patronage, the Sale, which takes place May 31st at Y. M. C. A. rooms, are invited to consult the committee, Mrs. J. H. Robinson, Mrs. H. E. Hubbard, Mrs. A. R. Bassett, Miss Elizabeth Spear.

Newton Hospital

May Day at the Newton Hospital this year was observed with a donation party and an opening of the new Edison Hall for nurses and the Harriet Gould Paine Administration Building. This event brought out a large attendance both in the afternoon and evening and it was made quite a society function. The guests came by automobile, by carriage, by trolley and by train, and were all loaded down with bundles of many and various kinds. The reception room in which the gifts were placed became a well-stocked department store before the affair was over, and the Hospital was the richer by many gifts of linen, sheets, towels, napkins, jellies, preserves, soap, flour, pins, pitchers, books, blankets, and other useful articles and not the least of which was $50 in money. This department was in charge of a committee consisting of Mrs. John S. Allen, Mrs. C. P. Hall, Mrs. S. L. Powers, Miss Lovett, Miss Louise Lovett, Mrs. L. B. Kenfrew, Mrs. W. A. Young and Mrs. J. F. Stanley. The visitors were taken in charge as they entered the building by a corps of ushers under direction of Mrs. Chas. A. Davenport, consisting of Misses Butt, Katherine Holmes, Gertrude Holmes, Loring, Cousins, Edmunds, Elms, Richardson, Gould, Perrin, Peterson, Baker, Allen, Prudden, Kidder, Paine, and Mesdames J. A.

Lowell, A. O. Shaw, C. S. Cook Jr., F. E. Jones, E. R. Speare, Henry Whitmore, E. C. Hinkley, E. K. Hall, L. B. Kent, Harold Greene, H. J. Carlson, J. J. Mitchell, A. R. Maynard and Arthur Howland. They were shown the different wards, the surgical operating room, the new kitchen with its modern cooking appliances, cold storage and perfect ventilation; the nurses home and the new Edison Hall with its beautiful furnishings and conveniences. In the Nurses Home the guests were received by ladies and gentlemen prominent in the management of the Hospital, the receiving party being divided into relays during the afternoon and evening. Those receiving were Mr. W. P. Tyler, vice president of the trustees, Mr. G. S. Bullens, and Mesdames H. H. Carter, Perrin, Ellery Peabody, E. W. Redpath, E. B. Haskell, L. G. Pratt, J. P. Tolman, J. W. Carter, H. P. Bellows, L. R. Speare, W. H. Coolidge, W. H. Gould, A. C. Farley, J. A. Lowell, Miss Bullens and Miss Riddle, the Hospital matron in the afternoon and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Denison, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Day, Dr. and Mrs. W. O. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Travelli, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Carter, Mr. W. C. Bray, and Mrs. N. E. Paine and G. E. May. The ushers in the afternoon were Mesdames Ellery Peabody, W. H. Gould, C. L. Smith, J. A. Gould, G. H. Byfield, S. L. Eaton, G. H. Wilkins, Marcus Morton, W. C. Richardson, F. Manson, B. E. Taylor, F. A. Gay, H. H. Bemis, E. P. Hatch, H. P. Converse and E. W. Howe. In the evening members of the hospital staff introduced the guests.

Refreshments were served in the dining room by a corps of young ladies under the direction of Mrs. L. R. Speare and Mrs. G. H. Talbot. Mrs. David E. Baker arranged an enjoyable musical program for both afternoon and evening consisting of selection on the violin by Miss Gore and Miss Mildred Fenno, singing by Miss Van Waeenen, Miss Crandall, and Mr. Waldo W. Cole and a piano duet by Mrs. A. P. Carter and Mrs. L. B. Kenfrew.

The affair was a huge success in every way, and great credit is due the ladies of the Hospital Aid Association for the excellent manner in which every detail for the comfort and convenience of the guests was carried out.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES.

The large and fashionable audience which thronged Armory Hall last Friday evening, on the occasion of the Claflin Guards first minstrel show, was very gratifying, inasmuch as it showed that the people of Newton were ever ready to back a good company in any or all of its undertakings, and the company is very appreciative of this fact.

The company may be seen Monday evenings out on the highway practicing marching movements in preparation for Memorial Day, when they have the honor to act as escort to the Charles Ward Post, G. A. R. in their annual parade, an event the company always looks forward to with pardonable pride.

Russ-Graves.

The most brilliant wedding of the spring season took place last Tuesday evening at Channing Church when Miss Bertha Graves, the only daughter of Mr. George A. Graves of this city, was married to Mr. Percy Plummer Russ of Boston. The beautiful church was crowded to its doors with the many friends of the popular young couple and the ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, the pastor.

The bride who was escorted to the altar by her father was gowned in white princess satin with Duchesse lace and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Gorham Snow of Newton, as maid of honor and these bridesmaids, Misses Louise Emerson, Wendell Benson and Myra A. Southworth of Newton, Grace Merrill Prescott of Dorchester, Amelia R. Gilbert of Roxbury and Alice Jones of Rochester, N. Y., all gowned in princess liberty silk and carrying maiden hair fern.

The groom had Mr. Harry Russ of Boston as best man and the ushers were Messrs L. Porter Crosby of Jamaica Plain, Chas. Irving Porter of Boston, Dr. Arthur A. Cushing of Brookline, Ernest F. Russ of Newton Highlands, Robert S. Burgess of Boston and Albert S. Graves of Newton.

A largely attended reception to which 400 invitations were issued was held at the Hunnewell club house immediately after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Russ were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. John Frank Russ of Boston, Mr. George A. Graves and the bridesmaids. The clubhouse was beautifully decorated with potted plants, ferns and flowers, and at the close of the reception the young couple were showered with confetti.

Mr. and Mrs. Russ will make their home for the present with Mr. Graves.

Runaway Accident

While a buggy belonging to Potter's stable, Watertown, was approaching Newton on last Tuesday night at about 11 o'clock, in charge of a driver named McCarthy, the horse ran away. The driver was thrown out and the animal ran through Newtonville to Newton Centre. The door of Holden's stable on Beacon street stood open and the horse started to enter. The carriage struck the side of the building and was badly damaged.

The police and stable drivers made a search for the driver, but were unable to find him. It is thought he escaped with only slight injuries and went home. The horse was but slightly injured.

A Hair-Raising Story
Prominent Boston Man Passes Up from the Baldheaded Row.
Our readers will be interested in the story of Mr. Henry Routley, a popular tailor of Boston, Mass., which he relates below. It seems that Mr. Routley has for years been very bald, in fact he has for years been the mark for the jokes of his acquaintances, who have gazed him unmercifully about it—but read his story:
"For fifteen years I have been growing bald and my friends have made me a mark for all kinds of jokes, particularly about my being the dean of the 'baldheaded row.' I used every known means of inducing a growth of hair, but found nothing which would help me. I was told about Dr. Wilson's English Life To The Hair and the work it was doing—I tried it—used six bottles and a fine new growth of hair appeared and my hair is today as good as ever it was. Six months after beginning the use of Wilson's Life To The Hair the new hair is still growing and I have induced many of my acquaintances to try, all with success. It is the finest hair grower in the world."
Dr. Wilson's English Life To The Hair grows new hair, cures falling hair, dandruff, itching, scaly scalp and eruptions. It has a pleasant odor, will not color the hair, but will restore the natural color. It is not sticky nor greasy. Price 50 cts. per bottle at druggists, or sent on recd. of price by Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass.
Sold by ARTHUR HUDSON, 265 Washington St., Newton, and others. Trade supplied by all Boston wholesalers.

That BOY in GEORGIA

WILLIAM MALLORY is eight years old and lives in a Georgia town of less than 15,000 people. Within eight months this eight year old boy made enough money IN SELLING THE SATURDAY EVENING POST to buy himself a house and lot which bring him in nearly $100.00 a year rent.

Think about this you boys of 12 and 15 who complain that you don't have enough spending money! You boys who can "do things," who want to make money, who want to learn how to do business!

We Want You We will pay you handsomely and at the same time help you to become good salesmen—good business men. Some of our boys make $15.00 a week. Think of what you could do with $15.00 a week! It wouldn't take you long to get that camera, or bicycle, or horse, or even a house and lot. We give the first supply of POSTS free—so that it costs you nothing to start. There are many prizes besides the regular commissions—camping parties, tours, college courses—and cash prizes. If you are one of the boys who mean to succeed in life we want you to write us.

Accident.

Last Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock a large touring car, numbered 11795, operated by Mrs. Gertrude Bradford, suddenly swerved from its course on Tremont street, and after running down Rev. F. W. Burrows and his son, Fred, five years old, crashed into the fence in the rear of the Hibbard estate and demolished about 20 feet of it, finally coming to a stop a few feet from a large tree.

When the machine dashed up onto the sidewalk, narrowly missing a lamp post, it struck a small tree, about 3 inches in diameter, which bent without breaking in such a way that the machine passed completely over it. Some of the branches of the sapling became entangled in the various valves and bars under the body of the car in such a way that they set the brakes and at the same time cut off the gasoline supply, bringing the machine to a sudden stop. Dr. Burrows was pinned under the forward part of the car in such a position that had it gone any further and collided with the large tree he would have been crushed between the two. The little boy's injuries consisted of several bruises about the body. The heavy car had passed over Rev. Mr. Burrows' body which was cut and bruised in many places. The Burrows family reside at 298 Tremont street, having moved there from Braintree a little over two weeks ago.

Neighbors telephoned for Dr. Reid who was shortly on the scene and attended the two. Mrs. Burrows and another child were in Braintree at the time and neighbors took charge until her return.

Accounts of the accident differ but from the statement of Mr. Burrows and of eye-witnesses it would seem that the chauffeur was at fault. According to the injured man's story, he and the little boy were walking to the square trundling a small bicycle which they were to have repaired. They heard the machine coming up behind them but received no warning of danger until suddenly struck from behind.

Mrs. Bradford is a professional chauffeur and demonstrator with a record of over 15,000 miles. With her in the machine at the time of the accident were another woman and a little girl, both of whom were badly frightened. The car was damaged considerably.

Mr. Burrows was formerly pastor of a Congregational church at Braintree but resigned several weeks ago and accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Boston Transcript.

Entertainment Club.

The large audience present in Channing church parlors Friday evening testified to the popularity of the Entertainment Club. The organization added new laurels to its reputation both as regards the selection of a play and the finished manner in which it was produced. "Frenzied Finance," is a bright and laughable farce in three acts and some new scenery, made by members of the Club, was used on this occasion for the first time. The well balanced cast was made up of Messrs. Herbert C. Frazer, Ernest W. Wright, Walter Gregg, A. L. Wakefield, Bancroft L. Goodwin, Philip H. Ball, William P. Fowler, Mrs. Edward Everett Hayward, Miss Helen A. Mead, Miss Marguerite Brown and Mrs. Norman Farquhar. The stage manager was Mr. Bancroft L. Goodwin and a delightful musical program was rendered during the evening by an orchestra under the direction of Mr. A. H. Handley.

The many friends of Mrs. William J. Hylands, who has been seriously ill at her home on Carleton street, will be pleased to learn that she is now improving in health and is now able to get out.

Mrs. Samuel Wright Simpson of Hummell terrace was elected a trustee and a member of the board of directors at the annual meeting of the New England Home for Deaf Mutes held in Boston last of the week.

At the Methodist church next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Epworth League, the graduation exercises of the Bingham Academy will be held. A number of entertaining features are promised and the affair will be one of unique interest.

Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson of Tremont street was among the speakers at the Congress of Unitarian Sunday School Children held Sunday afternoon at the Children's Mission, Tremont street, Boston. A delegation went in from the Channing church in charge of the superintendent.

In the assembly hall of the Hummell Club Saturday afternoon a piano-forte recital was given by pupils of Mr. Henry T. Wade assisted by Miss Alice Mabell Stanaway the popular alto. The program was a most artistic one, the selections being from some of the best known composers, and all of the pupils showed careful training, an accuracy and firmness of touch and a confidence in their ability to play the selections assigned to them. Those taking part were P. Sayford Bacon, Marguerite Engenia Porter, Margaret Bacon, Florence Elizabeth Hartop, F. Ashley Day Jr., Hazel Chast, Augusta Patton, Marion Hazel Morse, Gardner Tucker and Mildred Shepherd Drake.

The annual meeting of the Inman Baptist church was held Friday evening in the vestry. The annual reports were read and the following officers chosen for the coming year: clerk, Clarence V. Moore; treasurer, J. W. Blaisdell; recorder, William H. Short; auditor, Stephen Moore; advisory committee, G. D. T. Ordway, S. A. D. Shepard, Stephen Moore, John P. Lothrop, C. H. Cotton, F. W. Chase, Frank B. Matthews, Clarence V. Moore, Mrs. L. E. Moore, Miss Georgia Duce, W. A. Wharton, Mrs. J. C. Ivy; baptismal committee, Mrs. Stephen Moore, Mrs. J. W. Brigham, Mrs. Harry Titus, Mrs. Jerome Sundericker; delegates to Boston Baptist Bethel Society, Stephen Moore, Charles H. Cotton.

The Polymnia.

The Polymnia gave its last concert
of the season at the Newton Club Thursday evening, April 26. The assisting artists were Mrs. Daniel Downey of Worcester (a familiar name to the frequenters of the Worcester festivals), Miss Jean McLellan and Mrs. Margaret L. Locke from the Boston Polymnia, Madame Isidora Martinez and the Misses Morse, horn players.

A local club can seldom command the services of so thorough an artist and so fine a conductor as Madame Martinez,
and while the "Oberon" chorus lost much of its effect by the timidity so often incident to the opening number of a program, the later work of the evening gave proof of the really good work she has done with The Polymnia. The Nymphs Chorus especially was sung
with a dash and spirit that was irresistible.

The "Birth of the Opera" and the "Song of the Nuns" are beautiful and intricate compositions that demand and repay careful study. They are unusual music for an amateur chorus to attempt,
and it speaks volumes for The Polymnia's training that they make so marked a success with them. It is really wonderful while to study such music, and it means much to sing it well.

Mrs. Downey's singing created much enthusiasm, and deservedly so. Her fine voice showed to particular advantage in the "Song of the Nuns," and the soft rich effect added by the French horns
made that number really a noteworthy performance, the chorus singing with intelligence and brilliancy.

Mrs. Locke's voice shows unusual range with a warm contralto quality in the lower register that gives great promise for her future. We may expect to hear of her later.

The event of the evening was, naturally, Madame Martinez playing her prize composition, for which the publishers kindly gave permission. It is a dan-cable, tiny-bit of music, and Madame's
exquisite playing gave it added charm.
And then Madame sang. I have heard and enjoyed her singing many times,
but I have never heard her sing so marvelously well as on this occasion. All breathless attention testified to the delight of the audience in her lovely voice and artistic singing, and in response to an enthusiastic recall she sang
a lullaby song that took the audience
by storm.

Miss Helen Bassett at the piano was a very important factor in the evening's success, accompanying with sympathy and skill. The Polymnia is to be re-congregated on three things: their talented director; their sympathetic accompanist; and the loyalty of its members.
May it live long and prosper! K. T.

Among Women

The Ladies Home Circle will have a whist at the home of Mrs. Wiggins, Bourne street, Auburndale on Wednesday, May 9. The last regular meeting for the season will be held May 10 with Mrs. Drake on Waltham street. At the annual meeting on May second, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. C. H. Stacy; vice-presidents, Mrs. H. W. Pratt, Mrs.
Jacob Childs; recording secretary, Mrs.
W. F. Hadlock; corresponding secretary,
Mrs. Bertram Childs; treasurer, Mrs.
Arthur Kimball; auditor, Mrs. H. H.
Hunt. The Circle voted money for the California sufferers.

The Social Science Club held its last meeting for the season on Wednesday morning at the Hunnewell Club. The session was the regular monthly business meeting and included reports of committees and a report of the meeting of the State Federation at Middleboro by Mrs. Hornbrooke. Delegates were appointed to the Biennial meeting of the General Federation. The committee on the Nonantum School announced that (through the kindness of friends) this year a school garden will be carried on in connection with the school. The garden will be located on the Potter estate
on Jackson road between Washington and Pearl streets and will be watched with interest.

GAS RANGES

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise,
He bought a GAS RANGE for his wife
To bake her cakes and pies.
Says he, "Now, when your baking's done,
To keep your kitchen cool,
Just turn the burner RIGHT STRAIGHT OUT,"
An economic rule.

Now wifery did as hubby said,
And much to her surprise,
She finished up her cooking—
Her bread, her cake, her pies—
And still had time for social calls
And much time of her own.
And ALL because her hubby
Bought a Gas Range for their home.

A meeting in the interest of the Congo Reform Association will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 in the Lincoln Park Baptist church. Excellent speakers are to be present. Probably Rabbi Fleischer will speak. All interested are cordially invited.

Word has been received of the safety of Mr. Chester R. French of Henshaw street, who was in San Francisco during the recent earthquake. Mr. French states that he saved nothing except the clothes he wore and he is in the refugee camp awaiting employment in rebuilding the city.

At the family residence on Berkeley street last Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock the funeral of Mr. Herbert C. Hall was held. There were many relatives and friends present including representatives from Boston Commandery K. T. of which deceased was a member. Rev. W. H. Pierson of Somerville was the officiating clergyman and at the close of the service the remains were removed to Mt. Auburn Cemetery for interment.

Mr. Peter Martin, an old resident of Newton, died at his home on Derby street Saturday aged 85 years. He was a farmer by occupation but more recently had been connected in business with his son at the factory of the Martin Manufacturing Company. He is survived by one son and two daughters. Solemn high mass was celebrated at St. Bernard's church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock with Rev. L. J. O'Toole as Celebrant, Rev. C. J. Galignan, deacon and Rev. Francis Cronin sub-deacon assisted by several visiting clergymen. The bearers were George Cox, George Reynolds, William Reynolds, Thomas Reynolds, William Burns and all of West Newton and Mr. Bresnahan of Lawrence. The interment was in Holy Hood Cemetery, Brookline.

There are three trains leaving Boston daily for St. Louis, Chicago and other points West that are not excelled in equipment or character of service in all New England.

The "PITTSBURGH AND CHICAGO SPECIAL," via Lake Shore, leaving Boston 10:45 A. M., due Chicago next day at noon, Pittsburgh 6:35 A. M., carries Buffet, Smoking and Library Cars, equipped with bathrooms, Barber Shop and Booklovers' Library. Drawing Room Sleepers, and affords unequalled Dining Car service en route.

The "WOLVERINE," via Michigan Central (Niagara Falls Route), leaving Boston 2 P. M., due Chicago 3 o'clock next day, St. Louis 9:45 P. M., is similarly equipped and service is of the same high order. It depends only on the hour one wishes to leave or arrive, as to which is the better service.

The "PACIFIC EXPRESS" leaves 8 P. M. daily, due St. Louis 7:10, Chicago 10:30, second morning, with but one change of sleepers, viz., at Buffalo at noon. Dining Cars en route.

Additional trains leave Boston 5:00, 8:30, 10:15 A. M., 3:30, 6:02 and 11:35 P. M. over

Spring Meeting of the State Federation

The annual meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be held on Friday, May 11, at four o'clock. Supper will be served at six and will be followed by a platform entertainment.

By invitation of the Cabot Club the Massachusetts Federation held its spring meeting in Middleboro on April 27. A special car was attached to the 8:43 train from Boston which carried a large number of officers and delegates to the meeting. At Middleboro the Club had made every arrangement for the comfort of their guests. Carriages and automobiles conveyed the delegates to the Congregational church where the meeting was to be held. From ten to twenty Mr. Harry Wood presided at the organ. At ten-thirty the meeting was called to order by Miss Helen A. Whit- tier, president of the Federation. Mrs. Marion G. Pratt, the president of the hostess club, gave the greeting and told a little of the history of the town and of the work of their club. To this greeting Miss Whit tier responded graciously and thanked the clubs who had generously responded to the appeal for aid for the California sufferers.

The first speaker of the morning was Mr. Henry Lewis Johnson, chairman of the Billboard Committee of the Massachusetts Civic League, who spoke on the abuse of billboard advertising, and whose address will be published next week.

The speaker also read a letter from Mr. Henry Lewis Johnson, chairman of the Billboard Committee of the Massachusetts Civic League, who spoke on the abuse of billboard advertising, and whose address will be published next week.

The other speaker of the morning was Miss Alice Henry of Australia who told of "Child-saving Methods in Australia." Miss Henry spoke particularly of the methods employed in South Australia, but said that similar ones are used in the other parts of the country. She paid a high tribute to Massachusetts and said that many of the best methods had originated in this state. She traced the methods of child saving from the early days when they were cared for in the convents and monasteries and later in institutions to the modern way of placing them out in homes. At present in South Australia there is a state law which makes it compulsory that all children must be placed out. There is a State Children's Council comprised of an equal number of men and women who have entire charge of state children. All state inspection is done by a combined committee of voluntary and paid inspectors which they have found to yield the best results. Great care is taken in choosing the home. The home is always inspected before the child is placed in it. Usually only one baby is allowed to a family, occasionally there is a second and only four cases where three babies and that where there are older children who can assist in the care. Never are children placed in families where the people are taking them for the sake of the money which they can make out of it. There are state reformatories where very troublesome children are placed for a longer or shorter time. Their aim in Australia is the idealization of motherhood. For ten years or more Australia has had Juvenile Courts, the idea of which they secured from measures started many years ago in Massachusetts, though they have never yet been carried out in entirety. They have a system of industrial schools for trouble some offenders under whose control they are kept until they are eighteen and even sometimes until twenty. The effect is that they learn to become self-respecting members of the community while they are still under state control.

At the close of the address Mrs. Flagg the treasurer of the Federation, made several statements in regard to the Federation Bulletin and urged the members to subscribe more generally, and for clubs to subscribe officially for their officers and members of committees. The price for individuals is but fifty cents a year, while clubs may have it at thirty-five cents.

It was voted unanimously that the Federation present an invitation to the General Federation to hold its Biennial meeting in 1908 in Boston. This is the first time that the invitation has been given by a state federation and it is hoped that it will be accepted. A resolution requesting that advertisers refrain from billboard advertising was presented and carried.

The new federation pin, which is an adaptation of the state seal in an attractive form, was exhibited and offered for sale at one dollar each.

At the close of the morning session luncheon was served in the hall below. Every arrangement was as perfect as possible for so large a number and the luncheon itself was one of the best ever served at such an occasion. During the intermission the delegates made the most of their opportunity for seeing the town and visiting the finely appointed new library building.

The afternoon session opened with music upon the organ, followed by songs by the Choral Class of the Cabot Club. This choral class is certainly a great acquisition to the club for it shows careful training and has many fine voices.

Announcement was made of the annual meeting of the Federation to be held at Melrose on May 17. The president stated that while it is still impossible to give an exact report of the proceeds of the Federation Bazaar, that they would certainly exceed $5000.

The speaker of the afternoon was Professor L. H. Bailey of the Cornell College of Agriculture, whose subject was "School Gardens." Professor Bailey spoke of the contrast of modern methods of farming from that of earlier times, and of turn for the better which is being taken toward country life and the return to nature, and the adaptation of western methods to eastern farming. The speaker felt that the nature study work in the public schools is going to do a great deal toward turning people back to the land. It puts the child in right relationship with its environment, increases the joy of living, trains the creative faculties, it is not merely objective if developed as it should be. A new type of school house is coming in the future, where the child is put to work with actual things, no school will be a good school until it has a laboratory in it.

Nature study should be a point of view and not a method, should put the child into relation with the life of the plant and the animal. The final rise of nature study is the school garden. This is another room added to the school where the child can develop real experience.

It is interesting to note the taming influence that a school-garden has on restless and truant children. Very often a pupil that cannot be interested by any other means becomes at once subdued if he is put to work in a good school-garden. The psychology of this seems to be that the garden furnishes employment for restless and superfluous energy, for the real truant is usually an active child; it also interests him because it deals with real things; it touches experience and affections; sometimes it holds him because it develops a sense of ownership or proprietorship; there are those who think that it gives expression to an inborn longing to return to the wild. It is a common mistake to offer school-garden work as a reward to the best scholars. This is often dictated by the desire to have good-looking school-gardens. The aim should be to develop the child rather than the garden. The poorest scholars may be the very ones that most need school-gardening and will most profit by it. The school-garden is a means of developing personality.

The methods of nature-study tend to connect the school with the home. It makes schooling a serious affair.

The best school garden is all nature. As to results, it is impossible to give them in statistics, one, however, is the general elevation in mode and tone of the school. The school garden is not another subject to be taught, but a means of education.

The following clubs that have recently joined the Federation were then presented and a few words concerning them given by some representative. Sippican Club of Marion, Mrs. Lena A. R. Rundell, President; Home Literary Club of West Upton, Mrs. Adeline Metcalf, President; Auxiliary to the Hebrew Industrial School, Mrs. Jacob H. Hecht, President; Seaside Woman's Club, Mrs. M. M. Seaver, President; Quincy Women's Club, Mrs. E. C. Bumpus, President.

The meeting was then adjourned with a vote of thanks to the hostess club for its most cordial hospitality.

The annual meeting of the Auburn Review Club was held Thursday afternoon, April 26, at the home of Mrs. Arthur Farley on Central street. The president, secretary and treasurer presented their annual reports and the following officers were elected for next year: Pres., Mrs. Vine D. Baldwin; vice pres., Mrs. Guy M. Winslow; sec., Mrs. Nelson Freeman; treas., Mrs. William Fuller; ex. com., Miss S. Alice Ranlett, Miss Marie R. Felix, Mrs. Waldo W. Cole.

As this meeting completed the 15th year of the club Mrs. Herron, the president, and Mrs. Farley, the vice president, prepared a very dainty luncheon followed by music from members of the club.

A full account of the annual meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs held yesterday at Chauncy church will be given in next week's issue.

At the annual meeting of the Monday Club at Miss White's on April 30, the following officers were elected:

President, Miss Katherine L. Bail; vice presidents, Mrs. Ada B. Durgin, Mrs. Abbie S. May; recording secretary, Mrs. Martha B. Miller; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Inez E. Pollard; treasurer, Mrs. Lilla M. Newhall; auditor, Mrs. Alice M. Hopkins; directors, Mrs. Lucy B. Luitwieler, Miss Clara White, Mrs. Ellen A. Eagles, Mrs. Mary R. O'Connor.

Fifteen dollars was voted towards the District Nursing Association.

The last regular meeting of the season of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held on Friday, April 27, Miss Mary A. Mullikin of Lasell Seminary spoke on "Art in the Home." Miss Mullikin spoke of our common ancestral home, the earth, and suggested that the virtues found in nature's decorations should be introduced into the home. She mentioned first the curtain showing by illustration how they may alter the shape of the windows and be in harmony with the surroundings, or be out of harmony and spoil the effect of the whole room. She next showed that the purpose of the walls is to shelter and that the paper should harmonize with this idea of stability. In regard to floors Miss Mullikin said that the old Romans realized the true economy of a lavish expenditure on the floors in making their beautiful mosaic and paved stone floors. Hardwood is our substitute for their stone and the best covering, Miss Mullikin said, is the Oriental rug. The ceilings must not be too conspicuous, but in perfect harmony with the floor and walls. There is great need, she said, of getting back to the simple necessities in furniture and weeding out the many unnecessary articles which crowd our homes.

Judge Carruth Dead.

Hon. William Ward Carruth, son of the late F. S. and S. A. Carruth, a former judge of the Newton Police Court and for the past four years, associate judge of the Probate Court at Plymouth, Mass., died at his home in that town last Saturday after a long illness with Bright's disease. Judge Carruth was born in Boston April 8, 1840 and was a graduate of the Boston Latin School and of the Harvard Law School. At the outbreak of the civil war he enlisted in the "Minute Men of '61" as the 4th Massachusetts regiment was designated and served as quartermaster at Fortress Monroe and Newport News. He re-enlisted at the expiration of his term of service in the field artillery, attached to the 10th army corps under General Butler in Louisiana, and became captain of what became famous as "Carruth's Battery." At the battle of Baton Rouge and his land he was commended for bravery and skill and was given a medal. At New Orleans he met Miss Matilda C. Shelton and just before the battle of Port Hudson was married, leaving his bride of a few hours to rejoin his command and enter that action, where he served on the staff of General Weitzel.

Plymouth for the past six years. He was a descendant of General Artemus Ward of Revolutionary fame and his grandfather was the late Andrew H. Ward of West Newton. He is survived by a widow, and two daughters, Fanny, the wife of Mr. Harry H. Prindle of New York, the well known authoress, and Miss Edith Carruth who is also prominent in literary circles in New York. He was a member of the Charles Ward Post 62 of Newton, the Loyal Legion, the Society of Mayflower Descendants, the Old Colony Club of Plymouth and other organizations.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at Christ church, Plymouth, followed by services at the Mt. Auburn chapel, conducted by Rev. Dr. George W. Shinn of Newton. The commitment service at the grave was in charge of a delegation from the Charles Ward Post, consisting of Commander Haynie, Acting Chaplain Partridge, W. W. Montgomery, Wm. C. Bates, Homer B. Sprague, John Flood and Elias W. Adams, and the beautiful and impressive ritual of the Grand Army was a fitting close to his long and useful life.

Tremont Theatre—Henry W. Savage will produce at the Tremont Theatre next Monday, May 7th, a new American play by Jesse Lynch Williams entitled "The Stolen Story." "The Stolen Story" is a graphic and intense narrative which concerns the theft of a legislative bill, the loss of which involves the integrity and honor of a statesman of reputation. The excitement and interest attending the solution of this mystery has aroused the attention of the metropolitan journals and their best reporters have been put on the case. It remains for one Bill Woods, a clever reporter, the hero of the story, to unwind the enmeshing threads of the plot that have tied the hands of the statesman, and in the reporters' happy completion of the task assigned him rouses the interest of the general's daughter, and he is happily united to her in the end. "The Stolen Story" is divided in four acts: the first shows a country place; the second the city room of the metropolitan daily with its bustle and life; the third the foyer of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York; the fourth being a replica of the second act set. The scenic equipment is unusually heavy and complete while the interpretation of the plot is entrusted to a cast of superior excellence.

Boston Theatre—"A Yankee Circus on Mars" has taken all Boston by storm. The show which made the largest playhouse in the world instantly famous opened on Monday night at the Boston Theatre. It is a combination of musical extravaganza, spectacle, comedy, circus, ballet and specialty. Five hundred persons are on and off the stage during its progress, and its character is entirely different and distinct from the ordinary theatrical routine. More than an hour of the production is devoted to scenic acts, and no such array of world famous artists ever was printed before on one program. All make their initial Boston appearance and all have been engaged exclusively for the Boston Theatre and the New York Hippodrome. Mlle. Claire Helot is probably the most distinguished of these newcomers. She is known as "The Woman Without Fear," exhibiting 12 lions in a great steel enclosure. Others include Louise Powell and Robert Cottrell, bareback marvels; Barlow's Hippodrome elephants the most wonderful herd of trained pachyderms in existence; Mlle. Marquis and her trick pony thoroughbreds; the Sisters O'More and Ciccio, fire performers; Adolph and Fritz, Edwards clowns; and the Gaudschmids, European comedians, who repeated here their foreign triumph. Col. Gaston Borlevsky, champion rifle and pistol shot of the world, has astonished all Boston with his skill. He dislodges lumps of sugar from human heads, plays a piano by bullet, and concludes his performance by dissolving a young lady by a rifle ball. "The Dance of the Hours" is one of the great sensations of the performance. One hundred and forty-four girls, each employed in its execution and the costuming and color effects are a revelation. The show is drawing throngs at two daily performances, for it has a wit and each day. Its engagement at the Boston Theatre is limited.

Keith's Theatre—It was a foregone conclusion that the Keith management would be compelled to retain Creator and his band for another six days and they will be the star attraction at that popular playhouse for the week commencing May 7. Perhaps no musical organization that has ever visited Boston has succeeded in attracting the immense and enthusiastic audiences of music lovers that have crowded Keith's during the past six days, and no wonder, for musical critics are unanimous in declaring it to be superior in personnel to any of the bands which have come to Boston recently. Creator varies, his selections between the popular and high-class varieties so that his programs appeal to audiences of all tastes. The surrounding vaudeville bill has not lost in strength by reason of the headline feature and is capably balanced in all departments. Included in the list of attractions will be found Leon Morris and company, exhibiting a wonderful troupe of ponies, dogs and bears, who do a multitude of original feats that will appeal especially to the juveniles; Irving Jones, "the strenuous com," one of the best colored entertainers in the varieties; the Mrs. Wilson troupe of European rope performers; Frank Bush, Hebrew comedian and story teller; the Doria trio, presenting the vocal specialty, "A Night in Venice"; Raymond Findlay and Lottie Burke, in their mirth-provoking "Stageland Satire"; Antrim and Peters, in a mimical comedy skit; the VanAuken's, horizontal bar performers and Hills and Wilson, pleasing singers and dancers. The customary change of the comedy and interesting motion pictures will be made in the kinetograph.

Castle Square Theatre—Much curiosity and interest has been aroused by the announcement that the Boston Stage Society is to present a dramatization of "The Light That Failed" at the Castle Square Theatre next week. This play, a version of Rudyard Kipling's famous romance of the same name, has been given here only once before and that by Forbes Robertson, the distinguished actor, for only a few performances. It will therefore be given at the Castle Square for the first time by a stock company and at popular prices. A week from Monday, "The Admirable Crichton," J. M. Barrie's great play, originally produced by William Gillette, will be received at the Castle Square Theatre.

Interesting indeed is the announcement that Nance O'Neil the distinguished American tragedienne will return to Boston next week and open her engagement at the Public Street Theatre in Boston. "Kismet" is a most interesting play that has never before been known in or around Boston. Miss O'Neil is just returning from her Australian tour on which she was very successful. Miss O'Neil has many local admirers who will be glad to learn of her Boston engagement.

Billboard Advertising.

In this state there are upwards of one thousand organizations which have to do directly or indirectly with Civic Improvement. Villages, towns and cities are giving attention to orderliness and civic art. The purpose of all organizations is similar to those of the American Civic Association—the cultivation of higher ideals of civic life and beauty in America, the promotion of city, town and neighborhood improvement, the preservation of landscape and the development of outdoor art. The abuse of outdoor advertising is the only distinct form of organized opposition to civic improvement. A recent editorial comment contains this statement, that one of the most serious questions in American cities at present is the encroachment of the billboard nuisance. The external aspect of cities has become more largely a matter of public concern. Once again, in every large town, their area mounts up into square miles. Once cities were proud of their architecture, now it is largely obscured or snuffed out by billboards. Civic improvement societies talk of beautifying cities, but the cities are largely hidden behind billboards.

This is a subject which concerns every woman individually and every woman's club. While those responsible for billboard advertising are almost all men, they are making their appeal to women. An expert advertiser is authority for the statement that 90 per cent. of billboard advertising is addressed to women. Clothing, foods and furnishings comprise nearly all billboard advertising except that which concerns theatricals, tobaccos, liquors and patent medicines.

If so large a percentage of advertising makes its appeal to women, it is distinctly within the power of women to do away with this nuisance. All advertising is based on good-will and the interest of the one to whom it is addressed. If it weakens resentment, it is injurious rather than beneficial and the advertiser recognizes this. When women make known their great interest and activity in civic improvement and resentment of this form of opposition to such progress, the advertiser will at once abandon this disfigurement.

Billboard advertising is mainly for the purpose of exploiting identity of a single manufactured product rather than for general business announcements. An analysis of fourteen of the largest advertisers in the United States, shows that these concerns are reducing or abandoning billboard advertising. A company which devoted nearly one million dollars a year to advertising, spends nothing of it out-of-doors in the United States and Canada, and from 1-3 to 1-2 of its allotment to Cuba in that fashion on the theory that the people there are largely illiterate, and can be reached in no other way.

It is certainly the people of New England are not illiterate and have reached in other ways than by obnoxious forms of advertising. Throughout the country there is a general movement for the restriction of billboard advertising. The rights of this are upheld by important rulings. In connection with the recent decision, Justice Adams, of New York, said that the restriction of public sign-boards is not taking private property for public use, but a salutary restraint of the noxious use of private property by the owner. Ordinances of this character are upheld on that great principle of law that every person yields a portion of his right of absolute dominion and use of his property in recognition of and obedience to the rights of others.

A recent editorial review of the action of various state legislatures, city councils and railroad corporations, to restrict advertising abuses, concludes with an expression of confident belief that the time will come when private sentiment will be educated up to a point where a man who allows his land, barn or dead wall of his building to be defaced, will be looked upon as an unworthy citizen, and where he himself will feel the impropriety of his act. Reform in this direction, like every other reform, moves slowly, but the indications are numerous that the American people are being thoroughly awakened to the necessity of imposing some reasonable restrictions on advertising abuses, and are ready to sustain the legislatures and the courts in the enactment and enforcement of laws directed to this end.

The remonstrance of the bayer is the most immediate and direct influence upon the advertiser. Organized boycott is un-American. It is unwise for the individual to urge others to refrain from purchasing whatever is advertised in an obnoxious manner. It is, however, the individual's privilege to refrain from purchasing whatever is advertised in a manner which he regards as detrimental to public interest, and he may with propriety express to the advertiser his individual resentment to any extent which the circumstances warrant.

A large percentage of objectionable advertising can be done away with by the pressure of public opinion, but there must be laws, ordinances and recommendations enacted by the state and municipalities. The concentration of public opinion is necessary to bring about and make effective all such restrictive measures as promptly as possible, in order to stop the spread of this blight and to make possible more orderly and beautiful surroundings.

Boston Camera Club.

The Boston Camera Club is holding the Second American Salon under the auspices of the American Federation of Photographic Societies, at the Boston Art Club, Dartmouth and Newbury streets, Boston.

The exhibition is open May 7 to 19 inclusive, Sunday excepted, from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M. The second week it will remain open until 10 P. M. except Saturday, when it will close at 6 P. M. In the selection of the prints hung, the successful ones have passed the scrutiny of three juries. First, a jury of production, then in New York a jury of National famed photographers, and finally by a jury of artists of universal celebrity, of which John La Farge, N. A. was chairman.

Taken as a whole the results after submitted to such criticism may be accepted as creditable examples of good artistic expression, as well as of sound photographic technique.

There are some 350 prints by eminent photographers from all over this country and Europe. Among the exhibitors are many noted for their illustrations in magazines.

This will be an opportunity to witness originals.

The exhibition has been shown throughout the country at the principal Art centres, and met with great appreciation. The exhibition is free and all are invited to attend. Tickets may be had of J. H. Thurston, Secy. Boston Camera Club, 50 Bromfield street, Boston, and at the Boston Art Club.

Literary Notes.

McClure's begins a new volume with May. The forthcoming numbers are to be guided by this first one, the editors of this magazine have a rare treat ahead of them. Two universally important and interesting series begin: Rudyard Kipling's "Robin Goodfellow—His Friends," and the Life Insurance articles by Burton J. Hendrick. In "The Century of the Thirtieth," Kipling comes back to us more the wizard than ever. No one who reads English should miss these stories, for they are about a British-born Roman, who held the Great Wall of Hadrian for his Empire against the "Painted People" and the "Winged Huns," in the days before England was English. "The Story of Life Insurance" for the first time gives both sides of the case, and contains, in a simple condensed form, the information which for a year we have been trying to glean. The first instalment is "The Surplus: The Basis of Corruption," and it tells how certain men have been pulling the surplus down while a few have been struggling to save it. There are facts about the "Before the Deluge" officers that will make you open your eyes. George Edward Woodberry contributes another chapter to his "Great Masters of Literature," throwing some entirely new lights on John Milton. "The Flight from the Fatherland," the instalment from Carl Schurz's "Reminiscences of a Long Life" gives us another chapter of true and exciting adventure. Clara Morris, in "An Actress on Guard," tells us some of the innermost secrets of a successful actress. John McAnley Palmer has more of Col. Lumpkin, and Stewart Edward White offers "Cyclone Bill's Yarn," the best and funniest of the "Arizona Nights" series. There are other dramatic and humorous stories by Richard Washburn Child, Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, and Joseph C. Lincoln; and poetry by Florence Wilkinson, Witter Byrner, and A. E. Housman. The illustrations are by Castaigne, Ditzler, Lowell, Welch, Glackens, and Soren.

Associated Charities.

A joint meeting of visitors and directors of the Associated Charities held on Thursday afternoon, April 27, the president, Mr. Ensign, spoke of the very serious consequences of the late decision of the Supreme Court with regard to divorces, and of the imperative need that the best thought of the country should be given to finding some way to legitimize the thousands of children of marriages made illegal by this decision.

Rev. Mr. Pillsbury of Winton read a short, but remarkably suggestive paper on Christian Thought regarding Civic Problems, touching upon, it seemed, almost every social problem that has occupied the public mind of late years, moral, educational and economic lines. The point most nearly affecting the society, perhaps, was the lack, which he deplored, of efficient co-operation between churches and other benevolent agencies.

even in such towns as suppose themselves to be maintaining a Board of Associated Charities. This society can, however, report a gain in this direction during the year. A number of churches are sending regularly appointed representatives to our meetings, and there are still others with whom we are in touch.

Appeal to Club Women.

The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs is anxious to send a large donation of clothing, etc., to the San Francisco sufferers. The club women and any others interested may send articles to the presidents of the various clubs within the next week, or they may, be left at the office of the Associated Charities, Newtonville Square, where they will be packed and forwarded in the name of the Federation. It is hoped that there will be at least as many as one article for each club member. They will be sent to a lady personally known to some of the club women who will see that good use is made of everything.

Y. M. C. A.

A minstrel show with many song hits was presented by the young men of the Y. M. C. A. in the association gymnasium Wednesday evening. There was a large and enthusiastic audience. At one end of the gym a temporary stage was erected, while the rest of the floor space was given over to the spectators.

The various numbers were finely rendered, the chorus singing being especially pleasing. Many of the jokes had a local flavor which found ready appreciation. Some of the members of the cast came in for "grinds" as did many well known residents.

E. O. Childs Jr was interlocutor, and the end men comprised Robert Blue Jr, Frank L. Hadden and Guy W. Myers Jones and John T. Tabaldi, Samuel Longbottom and John Leonard tambores. All the parts were taken by young men, and in the chorus were John Bartley, John Earle, William Hanson, George Bradley, Earle Field, William Graham, Walter Connor, Arthur Wilson, George Banks, Ralph Mosher, Thomas Kelly, Fred McGuire, Harry King, Theodore Morton, Sidney Chant, Edwin Earle, Carlton L. Ellison and William Gero.

Charles Edes and Amadee White both gave back and wing dances which evoked warm applause. The performance was directed by Emerson R. Bailey, and George King was piano accompanist. The show netted a substantial sum in aid of the association.

The finest banquet ever enjoyed by the members of the Boys' Dept. was the turkey dinner tendered by the ladies auxiliary to the winners of the membership contest and the new members. The toast-master for the occasion was Master Walter MacArthur, chairman of the boys' membership committee. The speaker for the evening being Rev. Geo. Butters, pastor of the M. E. church of this city, and with his usual clear and direct manner spoke briefly on "Doing the Impossible." Among the other speakers were Messrs Hill, Wood, Barrows, and Morton. At the announcement of the results when it was found that the Reds had won by a score of 30-15 the splendid feeling of good-will and friendliness, which has been the marked feature of this contest, was never more clearly shown than when the captain of the Blues led his men in three cheers for the Reds and the compliment was returned by the other side.

Death of Mr. Ide.

Mr. Lemuel N. Ide, one of Boston's oldest book dealers, died at Newton Centre last Friday, aged eighty. He was for many years a member of the firm of Ide & Dutton, who were in reality the predecessors of the Old Corner Book Store concern. Edward P. Dutton, now of New York, being his partner. When the partnership was dissolved, Mr. Ide went to Claremont, N. H., and entered the Claremont Manufacturing Company, which did a large publishing business. Later he returned to Boston, where he entered the Old Corner Bookstore. He took an active part in the business up to five years ago, when he retired. Mr. Ide's father, Simon Ide, was also in the book business. He is said to have published the first New Testament printed in New Hampshire.

Funeral services were held from the residence of his son, Mr. Henry J. Ide on Summer street on Saturday afternoon. Rev. E. T. Sullivan officiating and the interment was at Claremont, N. H.

Mr. Kelso Dead.

George R. Kelso, 64, a Boston real estate and insurance man, died suddenly at his home on Arlington street Newton, on Tuesday morning of heart disease while at work in his garden. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Grace Ingraham and Miss Alice M. Kelso, both of whom live in this city.

Mr. Kelso was born in New Boston, N. H., Feb. 15, 1842. For a number of years he was in the furniture business in Boston, but about 30 years ago went into the real estate and insurance business with an office at Tremont st. Boston, and another at Charlestown. In 1866 he was married to Miss Susie L. Cooper. Mr. Kelso enlisted in Co. B. of the 47th Mass. Vols. in 1862 as a second sergeant and later served as sergeant-major of the regiment, receiving an honorable discharge in 1863. He was a charter member and past commander of Post 11 of Charlestown, and had recently joined Charles Ward Post of this city. In 1872 he was the inspector general on the staff of the Mass. Dept. commander. He was prominent in the Baptist denomination, and president of the Eastern Sunday School Union and for a number of years was superintendent of the Bowdoin square Baptist tabernacle Sunday School.

Funeral services were held from his late residence on Arlington street yesterday afternoon at two o'clock conducted by Rev. Frederick Heath of the Baptist Tabernacle assisted by Rev. Dr. Calley of Philadelphia and Rev. Dr. Gray of Somerville. There was singing by Mr. and Mrs. Cockran of Boston and the burial was at Mt. Auburn.

WHITE MOUNTAINS KEARSARGE VILLAGE, N. H.

THE SUMMER RESIDENCE OF Mr. FRED I. PRATT, at the foot of Mt. Kearsarge, one and one-half miles from North Conway, and over 100 feet higher elevation, IS FOR SALE.

It is most charmingly situated, being entirely surrounded by lofty mountains. It consists of about 20 acres, extending into the celebrated Cathedral Woods, the grandeur of which cannot be surpassed by anything of the kind in the country. It is a direct line through this magnificent stretch of lofty pines, you reach the Intervale Station, on the Boston & Maine Railroad, and in close proximity to all the hotels of the Intervale Section, so popular with the summer tourist. The house has all the modern conveniences, the purest of mountain spring water, bathroom, electric lights, cemented cellar, with large Smith & Anthony furnace, sealed overhead eleven rooms, including seven large chambers, and large store attic; fine piazzas on all sides, three open fireplaces, and all the luxuries of an up-to-date house. Connected with and belonging to this property is the finest bowling alley in the State. Two regulation alleys, fine large casino, covering 134 feet 14 inch stud, finished in hardwood (sweated and polished), with floor prepared for dancing, and a grand big fireplace capable of accommodating a four-foot log. The location cannot be surpassed for fine mountain scenery, and being within 30 miles of Portland and but 14 miles from Boston, make it the most accessible location in the mountain region.

This property, including the furnishings, is in perfect order.

Kearsarge Village has facilities for easy communication with the whole country, being supplied with Post Office, telegraph and long distance telephone, daily newspapers, and all the accessories incidental to a typical New England town.

"You can please all of the people some of the time, some of the people all of the time, but you'll have a devil's own time trying to please all the people all the
time."

Congressman Weeks speech in defence of the navy last Saturday was not only interesting but convincing.

The aldermanic appreciation of Mayor
Warren's action in regard to contributions for California was neatly worded
and just to the point.

Lasell Seminary is making preparations to celebrate its golden jubilee next month and word is being sent to the four corners of the earth for a great gathering of its alumni.

The refusal of the aldermen to allow an Abundant resident to construct an automobile garage of wood, after permitting such construction in other places
looks like a bad case of personality.

The innovation to be made next fall by the Newton street railway company in running street cars with compartments
for smoking will be watched with great interest by the public and street railway men alike.

The street railway company will now construct that waiting shelter at Newtonville square for which the ladies have worked so long and arduously. A waiting shelter is fine in theory but a nuisance
in practise.

The Newton High School has added
to its athletic laurels by the good tennis shown by Theodore Botfield in the in-terscholastic tennis this week. Botfield was the runner up in a field of over 65 entries.

Merchants week at Waltham is one of those local events which add prestige to the enterprise of a community and dollars to the coffers of its merchants. This year's observance is fully in keeping with the high standards of the past and the Watch city has our best wishes for continued prosperity.

The supplement to the Massachusetts Automobile Register which the GRAPHIC publishes in the near future shows that over 1700 machines have been registered during the past ten weeks, and that Newton has her fair share of that remarkably large number. There are probably over 1000 automobiles registered from this city alone.

Our neighboring town of Weston has rather put it up to this city to make good in the matter of repairing the Concord street bridge at the Lower Falls, by appropriating $8000 for its share of the expense which will be involved for a structure of steel and concrete. This bridge has long been considered dangerous,
but from its isolated position has been conveniently forgotten by the authorities.

Notwithstanding the edict of the city authorities we hear that automobiles are being run on the prohibited portion of Commonwealth avenue. If one side of this broad thoroughfare isn't enough for the automobile bugs it might be well to prohibit them from any part of the street
and then enforce to the letter any violations of such restriction. The city is endeavoring to act fairly towards automobilitists and it will be their own fault
if radical action is taken.

One of the beautiful examples of government of the metropolitan district by the legislature of the entire state is the imposition of a burden of $15,000 annually upon Newton and its associated municipalities for furnishing band concerts at the various park and seashore resorts. From providing the people with free music, it will be only a step to furnishing them with free lunches at the expense of the cities and towns in the district. The band concert bill is pernicious alike in its theory and in its practise.

The aldermen have appropriated over $7000 for improving certain streets in Nonantum in consequence of the agitation inaugurated by the Improvement Society of that village. A careful investigation of the district showed but few places where the streets were in bad condition and in point of fact the Street department records show that in proportion to its mileage of accepted streets,

Nonantum has had more than the average of street expenditures for the past few years. This is another instance of "great cry and little wool."

Ladies' Night.

The Universalist Men's Club closed a most successful season last Monday by the annual observance of Ladies' night.
There was a large attendance. With all bills paid, there is a good surplus in the treasury. Mr. S. W. French, who has served the club for three successive years
as its witty, winsome and very popular president, resigned, and Mr. E. J. Mar-riner was elected to succeed him. The vice-president is Mr. Louis E. G. Green, the secretary and treasurer Mr. S. K.
Billings. The entertainment was provided by Mr. Avon Saxon, basso; Mr.
Charles B. Tupper, violinist; Miss Ethel Battling, reader; Mrs. L. Brown Renfrew and Miss Helen Bassett, pianists.
They were appreciatively received. The club has enjoyed a most prosperous season and the outlook is encouraging.

Rev. and Mrs. Jaynes Arrive Home.

Rev. and Mrs. Julian C. Jaynes of the West Newton Unitarian church arrived home from a year's absence in Europe,
last Friday night, after reaching New York that morning on the steamer Barbarosa.

Preparations had been made by the Hospitality Committee of the Society,
under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. J.
D. Lamond, and a largely attended reception was given them in the church parlors. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jaynes, and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Haskell were in the receiving line and about 400 friends and parishioners were present to greet them.

One of the welcome guests at the reception was Mr. Arthur F. Luke of New York, a former member of the society.
The parlors were gaily decorated with yellow and white flowers and Miss Lucy Allen, Mrs. Albert Hunt, Mrs. C. P.
Hall and Mrs. Lawrence Mayo presided
at the refreshment tables.

Street Railway Notes.

Four cars designed especially for smokers are being fitted up at the car shops of the Newton Street Railway Company at Waltham. When placed in commission these cars will make the advantage of smoking cars in the East on electric railways, although they have been in operation in the West for some time.
The body of the cars at the Waltham shops is thirty-five feet in length, or five feet longer than the average length of an electric car. At one end is the smoking compartment divided off from the rest of the car and having a seating capacity for eleven persons. It is finished in hardwood similar to open cars and the seats
are placed around the walls of the compartment. The remainder of the car is upholstered in plush.

At the end of the car, where the smoking compartment is located, are two doors leading from the vestibule. One opening into the part for the passengers
who may wish to smoke and the second
into an aisle between the sides of the car and smoking room, leading to the main body of the car.

The color of the smoking cars is to be aluminum gray, and the cars will not be put into service until next fall, when closed ones will succeed open ones. The new cars will be run on the cars between South Framingham and Worcester, and are mostly for experiment. If they prove successful, more will be built and placed on the different divisions of the Boston Suburban Electric Company running into Boston.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES.

The illustrated lecture which takes place Thursday evening, May 17th at the So. Armory promises to be a most successful affair both in a military and social way. The Clafin Guard is very fortunate in the part they play in the disposition of tickets, in having the hearty and undivided support of Newton's most prominent citizens headed by Mayor Warren.

The denizens of Cabot Park were undoubtedly startled Monday evening as the accustomed quietness was broken by the sound of steady tramping, as of marching hosts, being waited to them on the evening air, punctuated by the sharp
notes of a bugle. But investigation showed them that there was no cause for alarm, as they saw the Guard form
line for extended order drill. Lieut.
Daniels succeeded in command and gave
a brilliant exhibition of skirmish drill,
the flank marches, rapid firing and charge being models of perfection. Lieut.
Coulter conducted the retreat.

First Sergt. Muldoon was rather startled Monday evening on receiving an application for enlistment, from no less an illustrious personage than George Washington. He showed good judgment when he picked the Clafin Guard. Meanwhile, "On to Ottawa."

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The regular meeting of the board of aldermen on Monday night was well attended only Alderman Palmer being absent.

Objections were made by Lawrence
A. Sprague and Chas. D. Allen to the petition of the Gas Light Co. for poles
on Perkins st and letters in remonstrance were read from William M.
Lisle and H. A. Inman.

No one appeared at the hearings on the petitions of the Gas Light Co. for pole location on Summit st., for attachments on Dedham st and Highland ave., of the Telephone Co. for poles and attachments on Ward st and for attachments on Meredith ave.

Mayor Warren transmitted the certified vote of the Town of Weston appropriating $8000 for a steel and concrete bridge over the Charles river at Concord st and it was referred to the Committee on Public Works.

The mayor also transmitted the claim of Amos C. Jenkins for damages for land taken for sewer purposes between Walnut st and Central ave. and it was referred to the Committee on Claims.

The mayor also sent in the objections of the Newton Street Railway Co. to the condition imposed for the erection of a waiting shelter in Newtonville
square, which required every car to stop.
President Claflin stated that this condition would greatly affect their schedules and was unnecessary. The matter was referred to the Public Franchise Committee and later in the evening the former order was rescinded and a new order adopted without the condition mentioned.

The appointment by Mayor Warren of Bertrand D. Degen as Assistant Assessor in place of A. H. Roffe resigned was confirmed with 20 votes.

The mayor reported the action taken
by him in soliciting contributions for relief of the California sufferers and on motion of Alderman Day the board expressed its hearty approval and commended the prompt action of the mayor.

The Arbor Day proclamation of Gov.
Guild was placed on file.

Communications from Chief Shaw of the Mass. state police relative to use of public halls, etc., and from the Railroad commission certifying to the alteration
of the crossover of the Boston & Worcester St. Railway Co. near Chestnut Hill, and assigning a hearing on May 15th on matter of altering location of the same Company near the Charles river.

Petitions of Michael Dargon to move
a building from West st to Adams st,
from Sarah Doyle to move a building across Adams st and of O. R. Newcomb for 3 wagon licenses were granted.

Petitions of Maria V. French et al for laying out of Harrison st under the betterment act, of Josephine D. Lane et al for laying out of Dickerman road under the betterment act, of Helen K. Gibson et al for laying out of Forest ave., of W.
H. Colgan et al for street watering on Waltham st, of Jas. Sullivan et al for street watering on Bridge st, of F. J.
Hartshorn for sewer in Gay st., of M.
H. Crowley for sewer in Penn. Ave. and of S. A. Piper for removal of tree on Chestnut st were referred to the committee on Public Works.

Petitions of A. A. Kneeland for intelligence office license, of Chas. P. Edwards and G. Raymond Kingsbury for minor's licenses, of the Gas Co. for relocation of poles on Needham st., of M.
Greenwald, Abram Shrier, Jos. Hoffman, J. J. Miskella, Philip Shriberg, H.
Meilman, for junk licenses, of Alex
Brown for Innholder's license, Jas. Bird
for a wagon license and of Filippa Marchelletta for street musician licenses
were referred to the Public Franchise committee.

Hearings were ordered on May 21 on petition of the Telephone Co. to locate a 9 H P. gas engine on Cherry st, for attachments on Irving st and of the Gas
Co. for relocations on Forest st.

Communication from A. Muldoon for $100 additional rent for quarters occupied for school purposes in Newton
Highlands was referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion of Alderman Weston, the rules were suspended to allow consideration of a proposed ordinance relative to the city physician, depriving that official of ex officio membership on the board of health.

The ordinance was passed to be dis-rolled and later was passed to be ordained.

A recess was then taken and five committees granted permission to meet. On re-assembling these reports were received.

On recommendation of the Claims committee, $200 was appropriated for settlement of claim of Henry E. Bishop.

On recommendation of the Committee on Public Franchises the Telephone
Co. was granted attachments on Dedham
st. licenses were given Frank Graham
for one carriage, Bishop's express for 4 wagons, minors licenses to C. P. Edwards G. R. Kingsbury, Chas. E. Roach and Dennis K. Foley, junk licenses to Jacob Klegman, A. Trackman, Max
Meilman, Lewis Genspon, and Jacob Bresler.

On recommendation of the same committee leave to withdraw was given Harry Shapiro for a junk license, Antonio Vara for a wagon license, and to Filippa Vitti, Clement Vitti and Ernesto
Crisciuolo for street musician licenses.
The committee also refused to grant a permit to James Ford to erect a wooden

How's Your Hair?

Arthur Hudson Announces
That He Has at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Newton that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years.
We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus
Wilson, M. D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was kniglited for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson this prescription was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name of Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a life and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornellia Stevens, 11 Smith Ave., Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me
after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff scabs or any scalp troubles try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. Sold by Arthur Hudson, 285 Washington St. Price 50 cents

BOYS who can PLAY the GAME

WE WANT boys who can "play the game," boys who when they play ball hit it hard and get to "first," the boys who want to succeed and are bound to succeed. We need them and we help them. We pay them good money. They can buy cameras, bicycles, horses—one boy has even bought a house and lot. It's "easy money" SELLING

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

And there's more in it than the money, for we teach boys methods of success—we teach them how to work out their problems, teach them salesmanship, which is one of the best paid abilities in the business world. It's worth something to a boy to be connected with a large, successful house.

And we take good care of our boys. There are extra cash prizes, camping trips, and other special offers. A boy can start without its costing him a cent, for we furnish his first supply of magazines free, and the money from these will buy another supply, and so on. We want to send free an interesting booklet about our boys. Get into the game NOW by writing for it.

City Hall Notes.

On Thursday of last week Mayor William Cardwell, Councilmen Joseph Lee and Lincoln Rowley and City Clerk Edward Williams of East Orange, N. J., called upon Mayor Warren at City Hall. They came in search of information concerning the separation of grade crossings of steam railways, their own city being up to a serious problem in connection with the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway.

Mayor Warren being obliged to meet appointments in Boston upon important city matters, after greeting the visitors most cordially, gave them into the hands of City Engineer Farnham, Street Commissioner Ross and City Clerk Kingsbury. The plans for the depression of the tracks of the Boston & Albany Railroad in the City Engineers' office were examined and reports of that department upon the matter furnished. All the bridges with approaches thereto on the main line of the Boston & Albany Railroad were taken into view, the treatment of slopes and construction of stations noted. At Newton Highlands the work in advanced stage of completion, the lowering of the South Meadow Brook for drainage purposes, the bridges over the tracks and other details formed interesting and instructive features. Later the water works, pumping station, Echo bridge, the new culvert and bridge over Charles River at Bylston street and Hemlock Gorge Reservation were visited.

Lunch was served at Woodland Park Hotel and after a call at the Weston Bridge and the High School, where Mr. Rowley met an old friend in Superintendent Frank E. Spaulding, the party were taken to the boulevard for a subway car to Boston.

The gentlemen were profuse in expressions of appreciation of the courtesies extended to them and the opportunity to gather valuable information. They were greatly attracted by the beauties of the city, the fine character of its roads, the general cleanliness and finish in every direction. A most cordial invitation to Mayor Warren and others who received them to visit East Orange, personally or officially, were their last words.

Mr. A. S. Weed.

Funeral services for Alonzo S. Weed were held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 from his late home, 149 Park street, Newton, Rev. George S. Butters, pastor of the Newton Methodist church, read the Methodist ritual service, and the quartet of the church sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light." Among the many friends present were representatives of the Boston Wesleyan Association, the Home Savings Bank, the Little Wanderers' Home, the Boston Y. M. C. A., the New England Education League, and the Preachers' Aid Society. There were many floral tributes. The burial was at Bangor, Me.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Brush.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Brush, widow of Joshua Brush, and a former well known resident of Auburn, died at the home of her daughter in Wayland on Wednesday of last week. She was a native of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and was 97 years of age. Her son Alfred was formerly the druggist in the Plummer block on Auburn street. The funeral was held from the chapel at Forest Hills Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. John Matteson officiating, and the burial was in the family lot.

Harris B. Earl.

Crippled in health, but with hopes of reaching home before he died, Harris B. Earl, 43 years old, a prominent resident of West Newton, died on board the steamer Admiral Dewey, two hours before the vessel sailed from Port Morant, on May 2, and was buried at sea.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl left Boston on the Dewey April 11, going to Jamaica in the hope of repairing Mr. Earl's health. He suffered severely from diabetes. Three weeks on the island had done but little good, and Mr. Earl was anxious to get back to Boston. They boarded the steamer on the night of May 1, and at 4 A. M. Mr. Earl died. The steamer sailed two hours later, and which several miles off the Jamaican coast the body was committed to the deep, sewed in a canvas sack and heavily weighted. Prayers were read by Capt. Porter before the body was lowered into the sea.

Mrs. W. E. Fuller.

The funeral of Mrs. Delia A. Fuller, wife of William E. Fuller, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the Church of Our Lady. The main auditorium was filled with mourners and solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Michael Dolan, assisted by Rev. Frs. Kelley and Madden. There was a profusion of floral tributes. The burial was in the family lot in Newton Cemetery.

Wm. H. Quinn.

Mr. William M. Quinn, one of the oldest residents of West Newton, died at his home on Auburndale avenue Friday aged 86 years. Deceased was in the teaming business and was much respected by all who knew him. A widow, one son and four daughters survive him. The funeral was held from the house Sunday afternoon at 2.30 and the interment was in Calvary Cemetery. At St. Bernard's church Wednesday morning requiem mass for the repose of the soul of the deceased was celebrated by Rev. Fr. L. J. O'Toole, the pastor of the church.

George Danforth.

Mr. George Danforth passed away at his home on Jerome avenue, West Newton Saturday of paralysis after a long illness. He was a native of Ipswich and was 61 years of age. A widow and several children survive him. Deceased was a shoemaker by occupation but had been unable to attend to business for some time. Funeral services were held on Monday Rev. Mr. Wagner officiating and the burial was in the Soldier's lot in Mt. Fiske Cemetery.

J. Upham Smith.

Mr. J. Upham Smith, one of the oldest residents of West Newton died at the Newton Hospital, on Wednesday, after a long illness, incidental to old age. Mr. Smith was born in Newton 81 years ago and in early manhood was quite successful as a book agent, travelling all around the world. For many years he has resided at the Smith homestead on Watertown street and which has been kept exactly as it was when his parents died many years ago. He was never married, and lived alone. The funeral will be held from the house this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Concert.

At the new church this evening at 8 o'clock the second annual concert of the choir combined with that of Christ church, Andover, will be given. The chorus will number between 75 and 100 men and boys and the program will include solos for organ and voices, some especially fine anthems and a selection from Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise. Mrs. A. P. Carter will assist at the piano and the committee in charge are Mrs. Charles Whittemore, Mrs. J. W. Carter and Mr. A. P. Walker.

Mrs. Ella G. Churchill.

Mrs. Ella Gertrude Churchill, widow of the late George F. Churchill, and a former well known resident of Newtonville, died in Dorchester last Thursday aged 50 years. She is survived by a daughter. The funeral was held from the chapel in the Newton Cemetery Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. George Flint of Dorchester officiating, and the burial was in the family lot.

School Gardens.

At the request of Miss Thompson the kindergarten, Street Commissioner Ross has built over 200 school gardens in the Newton Centre playground for the children of the Rice School. Each child will be given a plot of ground two properly fertilized and with facilities for watering. The idea has been cleverly worked out by Mr. Ross and the results will be of interest to everyone interested in children.

Police Paragraphs.

William C. McIntosh of the Upper Falls was fined $20 in court Wednesday morning for assault on his mother in law, Mrs. William Young of Ellis street. It seems that McIntosh and his young wife have been living separately for some time, Mrs. McIntosh making her home with her mother. Last Sunday morning, McIntosh came to the Young home and asked to see the baby. On receiving the child, he immediately started out of the house with it and the family came to the rescue in a body. McIntosh was considerably bruised and had his clothing torn, besides losing his hold on the baby. He appealed from the court sentence and was held in $300 bail for the superior court.

A Merry May Party.

The Junior Coaching Parade given last Saturday in Temple hall, under the auspices of the Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Universalist church attracted a large number of happy children, of delighted and enthusiastic people. The procession was so varied, the costumes so unique and pretty, the applause so hearty and prolonged, that it was obliged to circle the hall a second time. It proved a social and financial success. Among the features were John E. Cox as a Colonial drummer; Gordon Bancher and Kenneth Dummer as heralds; Philip Newell in a Colonial suit; Fay Currier, Ruth Homer, Ruth Hills, and Emily Proctor with gaily decorated hoops; Edwin Brown, fruit dealer; William Newell, bicycle; Marian Jewett, Abbie Cady, and Geraldine Chaney as butterflies; Janet Marriner, Majorie Talbot and Archie Atkins as Japanese; Aldyth Barrett as Mistress Mary; Philip Estes as the little baker; Ralph Barrett, vegetable wagon; Eleanor Bancher, Gwendolin Jones, Lora Shaw, and Catherine Kimball with finely decorated doll carriages; Dorothy Bancher, flower girl; Kate and Dolly Atkins, as the Gold Dust Twins; William Hilton decorated Irish Mail; Metalema and Helen Maxim with fancy hoops. The fancy dances were cleverly executed by Majorie, Alice and Edith Soden, Paul Farinam, Mildred Macomber, and Master Higgins. The ladies have been requested to repeat their popular "Parade."

Mother's Rest.

The regular May meeting of the Mothers' Rest Association will be held in the vestry of the Unitarian church, Thursday the 17th at 3 o'clock. The appointment of committees will be announced; also plans for the Summer's work reported. A large attendance is desired.

Memorial Day.

Col. Robert Ball Edes has been selected by Charles Ward Post G. A. R. as chief marshal for the Memorial day exercises, and has chosen General Wm. B. Emery as Chief of Staff and Col. Walter L. Sanborn as adjutant. All retired officers of the Newton High School battalion are invited to become members of Col. Edes' staff and to communicate with General Emery in regard to the same.

Clubs and Lodges.

About 100 members and friends of Newton Lodge, A. O. U. W. gathered Tuesday evening in the society hall, Nonantum building, the occasion being the ladies' night of the lodge. The special guests were Grand Recorder C. C. Fearing and Deputy G. A. Wheeler. The entertainment program consisted of music and readings by an orchestra and a reader from Unity Lodge of South Boston and solos by Robert Blue Jr. and John Earle from the Newton Y. M. C. A. Glee Club. Refreshments and a social hour followed.

John Eliot Lodge 149 A. O. U. W. will hold an open meeting in A. O. U. W. hall, West Newton, Tuesday May 15 at 8 P. M. Paper on Porto Rico by P. M. W. H. L. Kimball who has just returned from the island. Music and refreshments will follow. Eligible candidates invited.

Sawyer-Hurd.

A pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. Edward Payson Hurd on Walnut street, Newtonville, last Thursday evening when his daughter, Miss Allie Louise Hurd, was united in marriage to Mr. Lawrence Taylor Sawyer of West Medford. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock, with only the relatives and a few intimate friends present, and Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, pastor of Channing church, was the officiating clergyman. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer will reside at 206 Highland avenue, West Newton, where they will be at home during the month of June.

Fencing Bout.

Mount Ida School for Girls held its first annual fencing tournament under direction of the instructor, Capt. Charles A. Ranslett, on Wednesday afternoon.

There were seven entries. Miss Gladys Johnson won the first prize, taking all her bouts; Miss Pauline Hanson was second, winning four and losing two. Each competitor met each other in a match for five touches. Several of the bouts were very closely contested. In her bouts with Miss Hastings, Miss Hawley and Miss Hanson, Miss Johnson won in each case only by the odd touch; the record being 3 to 2. The other entries were Miss Wiley, Miss White and Miss Irvin.

Julius Caesar.

A delighted audience, which completely filled the hall of the Hodge Mann school at Newtonville, last Wednesday afternoon, witnessed the production of Julius Caesar by the ninth class under the direction of Miss Fiske, the teacher. Two scenes were given, the first by boys representing the capitol scene, with Halpeneu Atkins as Antony, Gilbert Bergen as Brutus, Kirrland Marsh as Cassius, and Paul Berquist as Caesar, with the usual crowd of soldiers and citizens, costumed in Roman togas. The second, or oration scene, was given by the girls, Antony being taken with remarkable power by Mildred Brown, Brutus, by Sarah Halfrey, and Cinna, by Rebecca Segel. The parts of prominent citizens in this scene were taken by Delia Whelen, Alice Boyden, Mary Lyons and Edith Trussell.

All the children took the parts with much credit, and with a lack of self consciousness which was remarkable. The performance was the result of taking the class to witness the play at the Castle Square Theatre last winter.

Bingville Graduates.

The young people of the Epworth League of the Newton Methodist church gave a pleasing entertainment on Wednesday evening entitled "The Graduating Exercises of Bingville Academy." About twenty-five took part and there were recitations, compositions, solos and choruses. Mr. D. Fletcher Barber was very amusing as the chairman of the selectmen and Mr. Rupert Thompson was president of the class. Miss Edith Earle was class historian, Mr. Burdette Mansfield, statistician, Mr. Frank Cushman, prize essayist, Mr. Harold Barber, orator and Mrs. May Leonard, preceptor. The entertainment was one of the best the young people have given and in spite of the rain there were about two hundred present.

Channing Unity Club Concert.

The concert to be given next Friday evening in the Channing church parlors will be perhaps the last social function of any importance to take place this season and will be a fitting close to one of the most successful musical seasons ever known in Newton.

It is but seldom that Newtonians have been treated to such a wealth of satisfying and pleasing musical entertainments. And the best of all is the fact that the success of these affairs have been due to the uniring efforts of a Newtonian, A. H. Handley.

The Channing Unity Chorus is composed of young people of the church who have banded together and are today singing in ensemble with the finish of many older singing societies. They will be assisted by the Philharmonic Orchestra Club composed of bright, brilliant and well educated American musicians who have achieved successful reputations wherever they have appeared for performing the best of music, in a finished, tasty, musical and brilliant manner.

The program as now arranged will open with "Raymond Overture" for full orchestra, followed by the "Chorus of Bacchantes" by the chorus, a group of songs by Mrs. Franklin, one of our best known mezzo sopranos with Mr. E. A. Franklin as flute obbligato. Then comes a group of popular songs from the late comic operas, specially arranged by Mr. Handley, followed by the Tschakoski "Andante" for strings which is played by special request and so on the whole program goes, winding up with the Pini "Raff Song for the Chorus and the Gammal "Queen of Sheba" march.

Mock Trial.

Riverside Lodge, N. E. O. P., held a mock trial at Northumbria hall, Auburndale, last Tuesday evening in which George E. Keyes was charged with stealing a rooster from W. F. Hadlock, George W. Shepard was the judge, Francis W. Sprague, the clerk, F. W. Jones, the court officer, A. H. Wiggins, the crier, and A. V. Newton and E. V. Newton the defendant and prosecuting attorneys. The witnesses examined included Dr. H. B. Haskell, C. L. Hawley, Lester Cushing, Wm. Blanchard, and Wm. E. Thayer. The jurors were Y. A. Plata, C. W. Higgins, Geo. H. Bourne, Geo. P. Austin, E. H. Murphy, Geo. E. Johnson, F. P. Bates, A. D. Miller, R. W. Guest, Walter Barker, J. S. C. Lorrett, Jr., and Geo. Francis.

The trial elicited considerable merriment and the decision of the court that the defendant, while not guilty, must return the rooster met with universal approval.

WOMAN'S WORLD

The Pierian Club held its annual meeting May 4, at the home of Mrs. Fisher. Reports for the year were made by the chairmen of the several committees, as was also, by the secretary and treasurer. The election of officers followed and are:

Pres. Mrs. S. A. Thompson; vice pres., Mrs. J. W. C. Easterbrook; sec'y, Mrs. H. E. Child; treas., Mrs. W. C. Willard; delegate to Fed., Mrs. H. E. Locke; executive board, Mrs. S. A. Thompson, Mrs. Easterbrook, Mrs. Child, Mrs. Willard, Mrs. Gallison, Mrs. Everett and Mrs. Sweet; standing com. to Fed., Social, Mrs. Chas. R. Brown; Social Science, Mrs. I. W. Sweet; Nominating, Mrs. Child; School Suffrage, Mrs. Thos. Ryder.

After the business of the afternoon had been transacted, a musical program followed, which had been prepared by a committee consisting of Mrs. Edith Cooper, Mrs. S. A. Thompson and Mrs. Wm. Gallison. It consisted of a Japanese Game, Musical Game, Musical Chantades and Floral Comedians interspersed with Soprano solos, "Japanese Lullaby," "Annie Laurie" and Japanese Minstrel Song by Mrs. Edith Cooper, and contralto solos "Ah, tis a Dream" and "The Home is where the Heart is" by Mrs. Child.

A Word to the Wives is SufficientGAS RANGES

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise,
He bought a GAS RANGE for his wife
To bake her cakes and pies.
Says he, "Now, when your baking's done,
To keep your kitchen cool,
Just turn the burner RIGHT STRAIGHT OUT,"
An economic rule.

Now wifey did as hubby said,
And much to her surprise,
She finished up her cooking—
Her bread, her cake, her pies—
And still had time for social calls
And much time of her own.
And ALL because her hubby

Newton Hospital

Among the events recorded by the Newton Hospital Aid Association, few will afford greater or more lasting satisfaction than the Reception and Donation Party of May first. This may be confidently asserted not only because of the general and generous response to the "donation" clause in the invitation issued, but because of the gracious and hearty response to every request for aid in promoting the success of the occasion. Co-operation was both efficient and unflinching. Even the "Clerk of the Weather" contributed clear skies and genial sunshine.

To those who were familiar with the chaotic conditions which necessarily prevailed during the process of building and extensive alterations at the Hospital, the restoration of order, everywhere, bore witness to untiring effort on the part of the entire Hospital corps.

The normal attractiveness of an orderly and well-equipped institution was greatly increased by the profusion of beautiful plants and cut flowers which artistically massed in all the rooms gave the beautiful touch of beauty. These were furnished by local florists, whose generosity made one wonder if they had stripped their greenhouses for the occasion. That this donation was fully appreciated was evident from the frequent expressions of pleasure in the effect produced. In the receiving line during the afternoon and evening, were representatives of the City, Chairman of the Board of Trustees and Committees of the Hospital and officers of the Hospital Aid Association. During the afternoon, members of the Board of Directors of the Hospital Aid Association ushered; while the physicians of the Hospital Staff acted as ushers, in the evening. Probably no feature of the occasion was more happily conceived and efficiently carried out than the "personally conducted" tours of the buildings, under the escort of a set of cheerful and charming guides. The young women who rendered this important and arduous service deserve the liberal appreciation bestowed upon them and have placed the Aid Association under lasting obligation to them.

Side from the social attractiveness of the "cup that cheers," the dining room proved to be a place where all delighted to linger, for the table with its yellow forsythia, tulips, daffodils and pansies was a study in gradations of color and an aesthetic triumph. Here, too, was to be found a bevy of young women whose hospitable attentions to the guests made their presence invaluable.

During both afternoon and evening a varied and artistic musical program was given by local artists. The Association is deeply grateful to these who so willingly contributed to the enjoyment of all, under conditions which could not but be trying to musicians. No busier place could be found, than in the room set aside for the reception of the gifts brought by the guests.

It was most interesting to note the number of donors and the variety and usefulness of the things contributed. The cash gifts amounted to five hundred and seventy-two dollars, representing eighty-eight donors. Other contributions were of canned goods, jellies, marmalade, breakfast foods, syrup, cornstarch, farina, 2-2 barrels of flour, fruit, sugar, salt, pickles, crackers, coffee, cocoa, tea, champagne, flowers, a plant, soap, stamps, stationery, books, pictures, games, two dolls, old linen, crash, towels, blankets, table-linen, bed-gowns, pillow-slips, pillow-shams, safety pins, vaccine shields, needles, infants slips and undersuits, a shawl, kitchen utensils and three chairs.

In addition to this were the furnishings of the four rooms provided by the Newtonville Guild, assisted by several generous friends.

It is estimated that fully one thousand people were in attendance during the afternoon and evening, and of these, nearly one half brought gifts.

The Aid Association finds in the generous co-operation of the press, which has met every request for service with unflinching courtesy, and the public, whose interest and support have been unstinted, renewed evidence of the hold which the Newton Hospital has upon the hearts of the entire citizenship of the City.

This Association desires to express to all who have contributed so generously of their time, services and substance, profound gratitude and appreciation.

Annual Meeting of the State Federation.

By invitation of the Melrose Woman's Club the annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation will be held in Melrose, on Thursday, May 17. Luncheon tickets may be secured by sending fifty cents to Mrs. Adeline G. Reed, 88 Lincoln street, Melrose before Tuesday, May 15.

A large audience of representative society and club women gathered at Hotel Somerset, last Saturday afternoon to listen to the recital of Bernard Shaw's play "Candida" by Miss Grace Chamberlain. Miss Chamberlain is a cultured young woman and an interpreter of marked ability. The play includes a cast of six characters each of entirely different personality. These parts were well sustained throughout, the listener never for a moment being left in doubt as to who was speaking, while her portrayal of them was all that could be desired. Miss Chamberlain was heard with pleasure earlier in the season before the Newtonville Woman's Guild.

The annual meeting of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs was held at Channing church, Newton, on May third, the president, Mrs. Charles G. Wetherbee, in the chair. The president of the hostess club, the Monday club of Newton Highlands, Miss Katharine L. Bail, welcomed the Federation most graciously, to which Mrs. Wetherbee responded. Then followed the annual reports of the officers and chairmen of committees. The most important report that of the Social Service Committee, is given below in full. The meeting voted to amend the constitution so that hereafter the dues to the Federation will be at the rate of ten cents per capita, the opinion of those present being, that this plan of taxation is more just to the smaller clubs of the Federation.

After the regular business of the morning reports were received of the work done by the various clubs during the past year. These reports are always interesting for the scope of the eleven organizations comprising the Federation are very different. There are study clubs, lecture clubs, philanthropic clubs and some that unite all these features. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Bertrand E. Taylor. Newton Centre Woman's Club; vice presidents, Mrs. J. Wesley Barber, Social Science Club, Mrs. E. C. Adams, Newtonville Woman's Guild. Mrs. J. H. Pillsbury, Waban Woman's Club; recording secretary, Miss Grace M. Burt, West Newton Educational Club; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edward K. Hall, Mothers' Club; treasurer, Miss Lilla A. Rider, Auburndale Review Club; auditor, Mrs. L. P. Everett, Pierian Club.

At the close of the business session the retiring president was presented with flowers by the executive board as a token of their love and esteem. Mrs. Taylor, the newly elected president received beautiful roses as a greeting from her club. Luncheon was served to over one hundred.

It had been the intention of the committee in charge of the afternoon program to have it representative of the work done by the various clubs and this was carried out to some extent, though illness prevented several of the clubs from being represented. It was opened, however, by a piano solo by Mrs. John A. Bellamy of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, who played two movements from Mendelssohn. Then followed a talk on Children's Songs by Mrs. Robert C. Truitt of Newton Centre, who illustrated with many selections. Mrs. Truitt spoke first of songs that children like to sing and later of those that children like to have sung to them. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. F. Lesh. A paper given before the Newton Centre Woman's Club by Mrs. Walter Brooks, a Potpourri of her summer last year, was read by Mrs. Widger. This paper was a combination of poetry and prose full of human nature and nature pure and simple as seen by a woman who was destined to be a "setter" most of the summer, owing to a sprained ankle.

Following these Miss Adelaide Joyer of Brookline delighted the audience with original monologues, giving "The Lady and Her Dog," "At the Loan Exhibit," "An Entitled Composition," and "The Elevator." This completed the program and a brief time was given to the exchange of greetings before separating for the summer.

Report of the Social Service Committee:

The committee decided at its first meeting to consider the following subjects:

1. Regulations for lessening danger in automobiling, especially precautions on the part of other vehicles, such as lights for carriages and stops at dangerous crossings.

2. The providing of shelter for street car passengers at the Walnut street bridge at Newtonville.

3. The trees of Newton and ordinances relating to them, including trees in parks and on private grounds, as well as street trees.

4. The ordinances relating to Newton streets, especially concerning street watering.

5. Medical inspection in schools. Present conditions and requirements thereon in the Newton schools and possibilities of immediate or future improvement.

The committee was divided into five sub-committees, to each of which was assigned one of the lines of work or investigation adopted. The sub-committee assigned to the first topic, with Mrs. Sylvester as chairman, interviewed the street commissioner, Mr. Ross, upon the subject. He expressed himself as entirely in sympathy with any movement in this direction. He believed that the committee re-inforced by representatives from Auburndale, Newton and Newton Centre or Newton Highlands should call upon the mayor, presenting a definite plan of procedure. Mrs. Sylvester was ready to push the matter enthusiastically, but ill-health has compelled her to withdraw from the committee to which she has long given efficient service. This loss, coupled with the increasing conviction that the difficulties attending the enforcement of any regulations made, would be practically insurmountable, led to the tabling of this topic.

The second sub-committee, with Mrs. Weed as chairman, had "The providing of a shelter for street car passengers at the Walnut Street Bridge, at Newtonville," as its objective.

The first step taken was to arrange for an interview with the Street Railway Company. Mrs. Weed, Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Jones, the Committee were received by the President of the Company, and were assured that the Company would willingly build a shelter at this point if the city would grant them for this purpose the use of sufficient land between the Washington street sidewalk and the Albany R. R. embankment. They were also told that whatever structure might be erected by the Street Railway Co. for a shelter, it would be attractive and in no way mar the appearance of the locality. Mr. Claffin said, however, that it would be necessary for him to have a petition signed by a number of citizens to present to the city government with his request for the use of the land.

The following petition was accordingly circulated:

Newton, 18th December, 1905.
"We, the undersigned, hereby respectfully petition the Newton Street Railway Company and the Newton and Boston Street Railway Company to establish, and maintain a shelter at the corner of Washington and Walnut streets, Newtonville, for the protection of passengers transferring at that point. Every name in the city of Newton might apparently have been obtained for this petition, had not the Street Railway Co., soon called a halt, declaring that more than enough names were already secured. Unfortunately, these proceedings took place just after the city elections, when there was to be no meeting of the Board of Aldermen, for business, until February. Meanwhile members of the Committee talked with members of the Board of Aldermen upon the subject, receiving gratifying assurances of their sympathy with the measure. Just before the March meeting of the Social Service Committee it was learned that the Street Railway Co. had not presented the petition to the Board of Aldermen. One of the members of this sub-committee visited the president of the company and was given the assurance that the petition would be brought immediately before the Board of Aldermen, provided there were no legal objections to such procedure.

The city solicitor was interviewed and gave his opinion, that no such objections existed. At the next meeting of the Board of Aldermen, the petition was presented and a franchise granted with three provisos.

1st. That the building must be suitable in appearance.
2nd. That all cars must stop at this building.
3rd. That the building be subject to removal by the city at pleasure.

All the essential preliminaries having been attended to by this energetic sub-committee, the building of this shelter seems to be assured.

Mrs. Wilkins was made chairman of the third sub-committee whose task it has been to investigate the subject of "the trees of Newton and ordinances relating to them, including trees in parks and on private grounds, as well as street trees."

This committee found that no city is doing more to protect the trees from insect pests than is our own; the work of our street commissioner in this discouraging warfare receiving high praise from the State authorities. It is impossible to ignore the fact, however, that in spite of the pleasing appearance presented by our trees as a whole, large numbers are suffering from disease and decay, which in some cases is incurable, threatening as well, the health of exposed trees.

Many trees have received injuries from horses and the wheels of vehicles, no attempt being made to guard exposed trees. The ordinance which forbids any one in charge of a horse to allow him to stand or remain near enough to a tree to be able to injure it, is difficult of enforcement, because we do not take the trouble to report its violation.

The Social Service Committee urges upon all who are interested in the preservation of our trees, to become personally responsible for the speedy punishment of every known infringement of this ordinance. It is but a slight service to render to these beautiful sentinels of our streets.

Interviews were held with Mr. James Bowditch and Mr. Gale, tree wardens respectively of Brookline and Springfield, where work in behalf of the trees has been prosecuted most successfully. They believe that, in view of the dangers and difficulties which beset the life of the tree in our twentieth century cities; from wires above and pavements below, the constant attention of a trained forester is imperative.

About $1500 is annually expended on our trees. It is believed that twice that amount would provide for expert care for the trees which we now have and for the annual planting of 40 or 50 new ones. It seems possible that a trained forester might work under our street commissioner and in harmony with his plans, relieving him of one of the many departments which he is expected to administer, though the requirements of each constantly increase. Your committee is convinced of the urgency of this whole subject, and regrets that as yet no plan of the procedure has been definitely worked out, since the crucial point seems to be that of funds.

We cheerfully bequeath this interesting and important subject to the next committee, confident that they will solve our problem.

Mrs. Webster, chairman of the sub-committee on "the ordinances relating to Newton Streets, especially concerning street watering," reported the following regulations. The watering of the streets is under the supervision of the street commissioner, the work being done by contractors. The party who contracts to do this work is paid 6 cents per running foot, one half being paid by the city, the other half by the abutters. Usually such streets are watered only when the abutter desires it, and all are obliged to pay the 1-2 cents per foot, where a majority on the street so desire.

There are certain streets which the city considers should be watered, and those living on the street are obliged to pay the tax.

The city pays for having the streets watered whenever needed until the first of November. The Social Service Committee is of the opinion that this is not always done, and that the means for improving the service are readily available. Your committee was advised by the authorities at City Hall that it is impossible to watch every one in the city's employ to see that he does his work properly and that citizens must notify the City Hall of cases of negligence.

This every woman in the Federation can do, with small trouble to herself, and if with sufficient unanimity and persistence, with unquestioned effectiveness.

The fifth sub-committee with Mrs. Sweet as chairman, has investigated the subject of "Medical inspection in schools. Present conditions and requirements thereon in the Newton schools and possibilities of immediate or future improvement."

This sub-committee found from the report of the Board of Health that infectious diseases prevail much more when the schools are in session for example in the year 1901, there were 5 cases in July and in August 7, reported, while in September there were 36 and in October 46. Similar divergence may be noted in the published reports of any year. In the Newton schools inspection is made at the beginning of each term, or three times a year by the city physician and assistants, under direction of the Board of Health. There is an annual appropriation of $150.00 for these assistants and about $250.00 for the expense of transportation. Much information had been obtained as to the method of inspection required, but it was determined by this committee to know it at first hand.

Mrs. Sweet visited the Ralph Waldo Emerson school at Newton Upper Falls on Tuesday, January 2nd. In the room where she made her observation there were 39 children and one inspector made the rounds. He began at the front seat in one of the side rows. At his approach the children with one accord threw back their heads, opened their mouths and held out their hands. The 39 children were examined in exactly 2 minutes. All the schools of wards 1 and 7 (except the Horace Mann) were examined in less than 45 minutes which included the time taken for transportation. It would be entirely superfluous to dwell upon the obvious inadequacy of the present method. An effort was made by the Newton Education Association during the season of 1901-1902 to introduce a more thorough system, but this was lost because of the expense involved in its application. On the 24th of January a bill was introduced accompanying a petition to our General Court, for legislation to safeguard the health of school children. This bill provides for the appointment by school committees of physicians to visit schools and make medical examination of children referred to them; for the reporting to the school physician by teachers of cases of ill-health or disease; for the testing of sight and hearing by teachers and reporting on other disability or defect; and permitting the employment of nurses or other persons to supplement and follow up the precautions required by the act. It has been shown that about 25 per cent. of school children are defective in sight and about 5 per cent. in hearing, so as seriously to interfere with their school work. Our law compels every child to go to school. Should it not provide the best possible conditions for the child's work, after he gets there?

The expense of administering these provisions will not be large. In 1904, the cost to Milton was $128, to Cambridge $1600. You are familiar with the provisions of this bill, through reports issued by the press. Will you not, if you favor the measure, make a personal effort to help to obtain its passage? A personal letter or interview with our own senator and representatives will convince them of the support of public opinion and carry far more weight than any number of general resolutions. The Social Service Committee earnestly commends both the measure and this method of furthering its adoption. Will you do the best?

The committee feels confident that the work which has been attempted can not only be advanced but brought to successful issue, by the hearty co-operation of the individual membership of this large body of influential women. That this co-operation will be given can not be doubted by any one familiar with the service rendered by the clubs included in this Federation.

Respectfully submitted,
Sara S. Wilkins,
Secretary for the Social Service Committee.

Coming Attractions

Keith's Theatre—Amusement seekers conversant with the merit of vaudeville shows will certainly be strongly impressed with the list of entertainers announced below and scheduled to appear at Keith's for the week beginning May 14. From time to time there have appeared at Keith's many of the European bookings of the Keith circuit, but it is safe to say from among the whole list none bears the reputation as a juggler that is attributed to Salerno, who is to be one of the principal attractions for the coming week. Salerno, is unquestionably the most dexterous and artistic juggler who has ever visited this country, and all his work is accomplished with a skill that is really delightful to witness. The surrounding show includes several newcomers to Boston, and some of the best vaudevillians of this country. Prominent on the list will be Callahan and Mack, presenting their delightful Irish comedy sketch, "The Old Neighborhood," which although seen here before, is always welcome; the Camille trio, mirth-provoking comedy bar artists; the Basque Quartet, a mixed quartet of talented vocalists; Leona Thurber and her "Blackbirds," in "coon" songs and eccentric dancing; Brockman, Mack and Belmont, in a mirth-provoking comedy sketch; Klein and Klein, comedy jugglers; Lillian Maynard, English comedienne; Willie and Edith Hart, pleasing singers and dancers, and Gaylor and Graff, in a comedy sketch. husband's rascality give it a constant enthralling interest. At the Castle Square the cast will be especially arranged to bring out the fullest dramatic effects, the leading roles being in the hands of Howell Hansel and Lillian Kemble. For the week of May 21, "Christopher Jr." will be played by the Castle Square stock company.

Colonial Theatre—Next Monday evening the Colonial Theatre will have as its attraction Grace George with the entire New York company and production in "The Marriage of William Ashe," one of the most pronounced successes of the season. Briefly the story is as follows: William Ashe, equipped by nature and by circumstances for social and po-scenes of "A Yankee Circus" the audience is indebted for some very clever work to Miss Bessie McCoy, who, as Aurora, is not alone a charming and graceful dancer but a very good actress as well; Joseph C. Miron as Signor Thunderair and Arthur Wooley as the King of Mars are also much in evidence and greatly appreciated, while Adolph and Snitz Edwards as the clowns furnish a treat for the children. The last feature of all—"The Dance of the Hours," to the music of Ponchinelli, by a ballet of 144 girls—is one of the most delightful of the entertainment.

Majestic Theatre—In the forthcoming engagement of Margaret Anglin in "Zira" at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, beginning Monday evening, May 14, we are to be afforded the pleasure of seeing the most talked-of straight dramatic amusement of the present day. We are promised the big Broadway production intact—the same remarkable cast and the same detail in scenic and costume effect that obtained in New York during Miss Anglin's Princess Theatre season. "Zira," the work of Henry Miller and J. Hartley Manners, is in four acts and is founded on the same story as Wilkie Collins' "The New Magdalen." The attraction is one of the numerous enterprises of the Messrs. Shubert, managers of Sarah Bernhardt, De Wolf Hopper, Jefferson de Angelis, et al., and Henry Miller, the distinguished player who staged the production. During the engagement at the Majestic Theatre there will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Seats are now on sale.

BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.

The kaleidoscopic tendency of the legislature, to which reference was made last week is forcibly illustrated in the career of what is called the 12 o'clock bill, which, at this writing is best described by St. Paul, who said: "Whether in the body or out of the body I cannot tell." This measure has had an unprecedented experience since it left the deft hands of those remarkably expert chairmen, Senator Lane and Representative Ames of Easton, who have won more renown as the head of the distilling committee up at the legislature than almost any other brace of legislators this year.

The 12 o'clock bill is the outcome, as everybody knows, of the old semicolon law which demonstrated the power of a punctuation point when placed in the hands of a judicial court. The word semi is a prefix from the Latin, signifying half, but in this instance it certainly signifies the whole with a completeness that could not be questioned. During its reign it has held supreme control, and after those who had contended with "the mistake" until they became exhausted they were obliged to fly to another ditch and confess that what they really wanted was to reclaim the dying commercial and social prosperity of Boston by allowing her to sell liquor until 12 o'clock midnight. That was a happy thought, for they had fortunately struck a legislature that believed in special legislation of that sort and after that fact had been proven by the passage of the Tournai bill, the 12 o'clock bill was launched, but an unexpected rock arose in the pathway of the measure. The Governor substantially said to the honorable Senate, "I can't go this piece of sophistry. I believe in the 12 o'clock feature for Boston and as long as that is what you want, I desire you to say so, and not seek to dilute this special legislation by pouring into the dose, cities of 45,000 population that do not ask for it."

The Governor was exactly right and he took exactly the right course in the matter. He should be commended for correctly interpreting his constitutional obligation regarding legislation. Curtis Guild seems to have a due regard for Article XXX of Part I of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, which has never been altered or amended. The Governor, like the rest of us, may have his failings, but in this instance, he has acted the man and in man fashion. When the 12 o'clock bill came within his official province he gave attention to it and pointed out very clearly its weaknesses and the manner in which it could be strengthened. It was a brave and consistent act upon his part, and deserves commendation by all who desire the success of the present state administration.

Among the things done last week was the summary execution of the bucket shop bill, with the House at the chopping block. This bill was fattened to kill as turkeys are prepared in the fall of the year. It was fed with amendments and when thus prepared by its enemies it was led to the place of execution in a manner which would have done credit to Weyler himself, and put to death by a vote of 103 to 84. This was undoubtedly a victory for the bucket shop, the lobby and the looters. It is intimated that the regular army will be in the field next year with a bill which will kill the bucket shop, lobby and all. The Stock Exchange says this has been only a skirmish and that the fight this week was made to ascertain just how much effort it would take to kill off the entire outfit. One member of the Exchange says: "We are satisfied that the lobby is, and will be, with the shop, and we are certain that the way to pull the hoops off the bucket up at the State House is to put out the lobby, that, we think we can do." This gentleman declares boldly that Lawson was behind the support which was given to the bucket shop, and that the dollarless brigand from the vacant office on State Street is the true leader of the lobby, in spite of the statement of that body that such is not the fact. The latest rumor is that District Attorney Moran is to call the entire legislature and the lobby, if necessary, in an effort to find out just how much corruption there was in the bucket shop movement.

In the water meter debate in the House last week, when that little piece of intricate mechanism was again refused official connection with the water service of the state, Mellen of Worcester, applied his meter to the debate. After the discussion had run on for an hour or two the veteran of twenty winters at the State House screwed on his wind meter by moving that the debate be closed at 12:20 and that the speakers be limited to five minutes each. The House saw the point and voted for the motion because its adoption would cut off the Mellen supply with the rest. Henceforth that motion will be known as the Mellen wind meter, all rights reserved.

The Boston Herald had wiggled itself out of its old quarters in Pie Alley, and taken more appropriate lodgings on Tremont Street, where it can fill its capacious lungs with the ozone that is blown across Boston Common. The Herald is a great paper that has been too long cramped up in Newspaper Row, and it will doubtless grow in its new quarters until they, too, shall prove themselves inadequate.

Representative Norcross of Monson ably advocated the bill intended to prevent waste of water of public water supplies last week when that measure was defeated in the House. Undoubtedly the advocates of the bill had the best of the argument and Mr. Norcross presented the most forcible plea in the debate. If the Metropolitan district keeps on gathering into its almost limitless embrace the four corners of the earth, some check will have to be placed upon the wasteful tendencies of the city before long. The faucets are open, connected with both her financial and her water supply. The city has increased her gross indebtedness about $800,000 since the year began.

EDGAR J. BLISS.

Literary Notes.

The biggest new idea in the National for May is embodied in Charles Ferguson's suggestion that the nation shall charter university-cities and allot them liberal shares of the arid lands now being made fertile by irrigation. With far-seeing swift sanity and glowing eloquence, Mr. Ferguson pleads for a chance here to show the world how to build at once scientific cities and useful universities. This article deserves and will doubtless receive close study. Other special features of the number are: Haydon Jones, Newspaper Artist, with many examples of his work; The Pink Countess, an Italian idyl by Charles Warren Stoddard; a greeting to the American people from General Reyes, war minister of Mexico; Adventures of a Special Correspondent, by Gilson Willets; Affairs at Washington, lavishly illustrated, by Joe Mitchell Chapple; An Anglo-Saxon Revolution, by W. D. P. Bliss, and Note and Comment, by Frank Putnam, in which the federal courts are considered as a good working substitute for an absolute monarch. The stories are: A Member of Company B, by Elliott Elmore Peake; The Lawyer and the Man, by Calvin Johnson; Captain Emery's Revenge, by Ernest McGaffey, and The K. K. K., a very quaint and charming serial novel by Judge C. W. Tyler of Tennessee. There are poems by Charles Warren Stoddard, Eugene C. Dolson, May Elliott Hutson and Frank Putnam, a Home department full of timely household suggestions, a brief article on gardening and a variety of other interesting text and pictures.

FANNY MARINOFF and RALPH DELMORE In "The Stolen Story," now running at the Tremont Theatre, Boston.

list of Comedy and interesting motion pictures will be exhibited in the ever-popular kinetograph. The Broomstick Witches from "The Isle of Spice," is underlined for the week of May 21.

Tremont Theatre—"The Stolen Story" with its absorbing plot and fine cast, made an instant impression at the Tremont and is another instance of Mr. Savage's sagacity and liberality as a producer. George Marion, his general stage director, also comes in for his usual praise. The play has a distinct novelty in theme and brings a new element of life before the public. Never before have newspaper people and their surroundings been pictured as they are. The final scene, showing Billy Woods turning out his stolen story, is most vivid and has the tenseness of William Gillette's earlier plays. This scene is carried through it at a swift pace by Jameson Lee Finney and Edwin Holt, both admirable actors, and has a background the confusion and bustle of a great newspaper office in the early morning. In the third act Miss Dorothy Tennant has her principal opportunity. It is here that the reporter-hero gets possession of the original draft of General Cunningham's park bill, which gives him the evidence of a huge political plot. Others in the cast who have shown their fitness are Ralph Delmore, R. Peyton Carter, Joseph M. Sparks, Wright Kramer, Marion Abbott and Fanny Marinoff.

Castle Square Theatre—The Castle Square patrons have been longing for a revival of "Jim the Penman." It is some years since they have seen this masterpiece of melodrama, and they know that its romantic story of the forger who passed himself off as a respectable member of society is certain to be powerfully and thrillingly acted by the present Castle Square stock company. Its constant succession of dramatic episodes, its picturesque and original characters, and above all its wonderful scene where in the wife of the forger discovers her litical successes, with a moral equilibrium that promises larger kinds of victory, takes into his life at the very eve of his career a fluttering, passionate, tempestuous child. He has fallen under the spell of her ethereal loveliness. She is strange unruly and capricious, but at the heart of her there is something helpless and infinitely sweet. He lifts her, like some afflicted thing, into the clear, even sunlight of his disposition. He frees her from her painful environment. He counts on this, with the optimism of his easy, half-humorous, good temper. But the forces of heredity are arrayed against her. From this he cannot set her free. Here is their tragedy. The story proceeds to a catastrophe. The dramatic treatment is intimate and charged with pathos. The story ends almost without solution of the problem. But the scene at the last is transformed into a fitting close by the exquisite touch of sympathy and of tenderness, which makes of the whole world a human domain.

Boston Theatre—Manager Lawrence McCarthy's announcement in relation to the season's business at the Boston Theatre that he was reserving the best of the attractions for the last has borne ample fruit in "A Yankee Circus on Mars," the big New York Hippodrome spectacle, which last Monday afternoon entered upon the second week of its engagement at the noble old playhouse. This week several novelties have been introduced in the circus portion of the performance, the most notable of which are Wulf's celebrated leaping Russian bear hounds. These dogs are a revelation, and their act is a decided novelty. Among the other startling and thrilling acts are the sensational feats of Mlle. Claire Heliot and her twelve lions; the extraordinary bareback riding of Cottrell and Powell; the famous trick acts of Mlle. Marquis' educated ponies; the wonderful rifle and pistol shots of Col. Bordeve and Mlle. De Lausanne, and the marvelous exhibitions on the tight and slack wires by the Sisters O'Meers and Caicedo. In the actual comedy

Girls' Drill.

The annual gymnastic drill of the girls battalion of the High School took place Saturday afternoon in the Drill hall before an audience of several hundred. It was one of the most successful and prettiest drills which the girls have ever given and reflects great credit upon their instructor Miss Cannon and the Major, Miss Selma Smith.

The program included battalion march, dumb bell drill, free exercises, wand and dumb bell drill, an officers' march and exhibition of club swinging by the 34 officers, and an exhibition of Swedish floor and apparatus work by 50 freshmen. Two special pretty features were the Gilbert dances by 20 girls, whose graceful movements in unison was much admired, and the Flag drill by 40 girls, each waving a flag and forming a tableau, in a star formation at the close while the orchestra played the "Star Spangled Banner." The drill was followed by dancing.

—The offertory music at the Church of the Good Shepherd last Sunday was the tenor solo "There is a Green Hill far away" sung by Mr. K. O. Brigham, in a smooth and telling manner. This week the anthem will be, "Consider and Hear Me" by Pfleger, solo, quartet and full chorus. The Te Deum will be by Parker.

—Last Friday night the meeting of the Waban Church Corporation was held in the church building for the election of officers, etc. After the acceptance of the secretary's report, and granting of an extension of time to the treasurer, Mr. Alexander Davidson, the members proceeded to ballot for officers. After several ballots the following board was chosen: Mr. W. H. Gould, sec.; Mr. Alexander Davidson, treas.; Mr. Lewis H. Bacon, Mr. Wm. Saville, Mr. F. W. Webster, Mr. F. A. Childs and Mr. Wm. H. Oakes.

—On Monday afternoon the annual meeting and tea of the Waban Woman's Club was held at Mrs. Piera Sloan's apartments, Beacon street. A musical program was furnished by Mrs. D. M. Hill, pianist and Miss Stephens, soprano. An interesting paper on Thomas Hood was read by Mrs. J. Congdon and tea was served by the Misses Gould, Kimball, Knott, and Perrin. The principal officers elected for next year were as follows: Pres. Mrs. J. H. Pillsbury; vice pres. Mrs. Edmund Winchester; secretaries, Mrs. Charles Crain and Mrs. Herbert S. Kimball; treas. Mrs. C. M. Hill.

What Are Earthquakes

And What are the Causes That Produce Them

From the earliest recorded times down through the ages to the present, the occurrence of earthquakes has carried consternation to the inhabitants of the region quaked filling them with dread and horror.

Tornadoes, cyclones, whirlwinds and floods fill the people with fear and forebodings, but these never so completely demoralize them as when, what is termed the solid earth shakes and trembles beneath their feet or opens yawning chasms to unknown depths.

The recent California earthquake, in extent so widely felt and so much commented upon, has interested the people of the United States and the rest of the world more than any other quake mother earth has given us for many a year and leads to the oft recurring questions:

"What are earthquakes and what are the causes that produce them?"

Before entering upon a discussion of these two questions, let us make some investigations concerning the frequency and force of the earthquakes and where or in what part of the globe the quakes have more generally been observed.

Mr. Mallet of England collected records of 6830 earthquakes which were known to have occurred in 3456 years previous to 1850. Of this number 3230 took place after the year 1800. In all probability earthquakes were not much if any more frequent during these fifty years than the preceding 3406 years, but with the advance in scientific investigations the records of these convulsions had been more accurately kept.

At this ratio for the entire time there would have been 200,000 earthquakes.

Alexis Perry is authority for a still more stupendous announcement. He states that from 1843 to 1872, including both of these years, the number of recorded earthquakes were 17,249 or nearly two each day.

Now, when we take into consideration the fact that but a small part of the surface of our globe is inhabited by a people sufficiently advanced in knowledge and science to take notice of and intelligently record each earthquake and that these may take place beneath the ocean as well as on the land, we are irresistibly led to the conclusion that the earth surface or shell is never entirely at rest but that it is constantly quaking somewhere.

Having arrived at a somewhat definite idea as to the frequency of the convulsions, let us for a moment glance at the force or power exhibited. By far the larger number of earthquakes are only recognized by a slight rumbling, tremor or shaking of the ground and this is frequently accounted for as the result of some moving object along the surface. Others are stronger, the buildings are rocked, some thrown down and people injured or killed as happened in the late earthquake at San Francisco. Others are more terrible still: whole cities have been overthrown, levelled to the ground; vast regions of country depopulated and laid waste; wide areas of land elevated or depressed; shore lines sunk beneath the ocean or uplifted constituting the raised beaches found along the coasts in many places; islands emerge from the ocean bed or sink beneath the surface; huge mountains have been sundered as if cleft from crown to base by some giant of old with ponderous sword; cracks and fissures of unknown depth have been opened engulfing earth, cities and people and then closed together again, shutting all forever from earthly view. A few years ago an earthquake occurred in California, opening seams or fissures that were traced almost in a direct line for sixty miles.

In 1835 an earthquake in South America was distinctly felt over an area of 600,000 square miles and the whole coast-line of Chili and Patagonia was thrust upward from two to ten feet. Other like convulsions preceding or following this have elevated old beach-lines 100 to 1300 feet above the present sea-level, showing conclusively that the southern part of this continent has been elevated to that extent.

In 1819 a severe earthquake occurred at the mouth of the Indus which shook an immense area of land and a tract 2000 square miles sunk and a large lake or lagoon now occupies the place. In 1811 an earthquake, widely felt, in the Mississippi valley, was followed by the sinking of large tracts of land now covered by water and that region has since been known as the sunk country.

These are a few of the many well known instances illustrating the force and power of earthquakes.

The next question for us to consider is where upon the surface of the earth, earthquakes most generally occur and why these localities are more subject to them than other places.

Thousands of years ago observant men discovered that earthquakes occurred more frequently in the vicinity of volcanoes; that volcanic eruptions were always preceded or accompanied by earthquakes; that earthquake-shocks which have continued to trouble a particular region for a long time, often suddenly ceased when an outburst took place in a neighboring volcano; and that the sudden cessation of accustomed volcanic activity will often bring on earthquakes.

The inhabitants of Quito watch the summit of Cotopaxi with great solicitude, knowing from abundant experience that as long as the wreath of smoke floats around the crater they may expect immunity, but when this disappears they may expect the earthquakes.

In 1783 Stromboli ceased erupting and the great Calabrian earthquake followed.

In 1797 a volcano in the vicinity of Riobamba stopped its activity and that terrible earthquake, apparently, resulted destroying 40,000 people.

Caracas was destroyed by an earthquake in 1812 and the shocks continued till the volcano St. Vincent, 500 miles distant commenced erupting and then they ceased.

A larger number of well authenticated instances might be adduced to show the close connection between earthquakes and volcanoes and to prove that both result from the same cause—igneous Agency. Certainly this fact has been clearly demonstrated that earthquake-centres and volcanic-centres very closely coincide and that they are generally confined to the vicinity of the sea.

Doubtless many if not all of you have built a wood fire in winter-time in a stove having a long upright funnel with a longer one extending horizontally to the chimney. As the fire began to burn briskly, the stove and funnel grew warm, then hot and your ears were saluted by sharp cracking noises, and in your younger days you may have looked anxiously to see where stove and funnel had cracked. This crack, crack, crack, especially of the funnel would continue for some time. Again you noticed if the fire suddenly went out and the funnel rapidly grew cold the same phenomenon occurred, the cracking continuing till but little warmth was left in it.

Many of us were grown men or women before we clearly comprehended what had taken place and produced the noise.

Now we know it was caused by the unequal expansion or contraction of the iron as it grew hot or cold—that as one part grew hot or cold sooner than another it endeavored to accommodate itself to the changed and unequal conditions and with a crack or snap moved one piece or edge upon the other.

Apply this same phenomenon to the crust of the earth and observe the analogy.

Scientific investigation has demonstrated the fact that only a part of the heat of our earth is derived from our sun and the so called fixed stars, these latter being suns to other systems of planets and from them comes about one half the heat received on this globe—that as we descend from the surface towards the centre the heat or cold grows less and less till a permanent thermometer position is reached, where the thermometer never varies from the fierce heats of summer to the chill blasts of winter, showing beyond all question that heat received from beyond our sphere does not penetrate to a greater depth and can have no influence on the mass constituting our globe from that point to the centre.

This depth varies being less at the equator and poles and greater between. Further investigation has demonstrated another fact—that as we descend from this permanent thermometer position the heat increases at the rate of one degree Fahrenheit for every 50 or 60 feet. At this ratio (which sometimes does not hold true, usually from easily explainable reasons) water would boil at a depth of less than two miles and iron melt before a depth of 30 miles is reached. This conclusively proves that we have a source of heat from within as well as from without.

How can we account for this central heat? From whence was it derived?

These questions with many others, Geological, were relegated to the Astronomer for his investigation.

Various were the answers and more numerous were the objections till the theory advanced by La Place known as "The Nebular Hypothesis" was generally received and adopted by astronomers and geologists as having less objections than any other. He conceived the idea that this earth and all the heavenly bodies that sparkle in the distant sky, were once in a condition entirely different from that now presented to our view; that in the long distant past they existed in a nebulous or gaseous state, filling to a greater or less extent all space; that this divided and subdivided until the part that was to constitute our earth became isolated and went whirling through its appointed space; by condensation this nebulous mass became a liquid body, seething, boiling, oscillating, shaken by the terrific ebullitions. It then was a sun to our moon; a star to the other planets of our system, giving forth heat, light and radiance all that governed the formation of this earth, governed the formation of the moon and the whole universe of worlds, unnumbered and unnumbered except by Him whose creative power spoke each into its sphere and place.

As all bodies in space must lose heat, our earth continued to cool as the long ages passed away till a crust formed on its outer surface and then there was a shell of solid rock filled with molten matter. Almost innumerable years pass away as the progressive refrigeration of our globe takes place, and at length the solid shell registers a degree so low that water can reach it, and then the thick vapors surrounding the whole earth condense and fall in plentiful showers covering the entire surface:—"Through the dense canopy of vapor hanging over the earth,—through which the light of the sun did not penetrate perhaps for long ages,—were poured volumes of water, in comparison with which our heaviest rainfall is a mere drizzle, and then the primeval ocean surges round and round in one continuous tide, unbroken by island, rock or continental shore.

This was an ocean of hot water—from contact with the heated crust of the earth—rising in vapor, cooling, condensing and falling, over and over again, at each time cooler than before, and at each time taking down more and more of the suspended vapor and thereby giving greater opportunity for the terrestrial heat to radiate into space.

With very few exceptions all substances contract on cooling; and the time came when the crust was unable, longer, evenly to contract and then this shell or envelope wrinkled and folded outward, upward ridges and downward, inward hollows. And in the hollows the ocean settled, leaving the upfolds as long ridges or isolated island tops. The crust then was thin and folded or wrinkled readily and sharp peaks and mountain chains, like those of modern times were unknown.

As the ages passed away and the globe cooled more and more, wider areas and greater masses of the crust were elevated above the water and to greater heights and the depressions would correspondingly be more profound. Cracks, rents and fissures naturally would occur as these uplifts and downthrows took place, the result of the horizontal pressure.

I have already referred to the fact that earthquake-centres and volcanic centres are generally found in the vicinity of the sea or ocean.

Let us glance for a moment at the reasons given by geologists for this.

No sooner did the primeval crust emerge above the primeval ocean than it began to experience the disintegrating effects of atmospheric influences, heat and cold, chemical and electrical affinities and the erosion of falling and moving waters. This crust was eroded and worn away and washed down to the sea or ocean shore, and there deposited beneath the water. This formed the stratified rocks which, with the erupted lavas constitute nearly all the rocks open to the investigation of geologists of today. These stratified rocks, could they be piled one above another, would give a thickness of more than twenty-five miles.

Experience teaches us that substances bend much more readily when wet than when dry; and also that heat exerts a wonderful influence in rendering substances more plastic. These two facts appear to furnish the key to the solution of the problem. Let us apply it. The material eroded and worn away from the land is deposited beneath the sea on the borders of the continents. This contains the water of sedimentation—the material is saturated—is as wet as it can be under whatever pressure it rests. As we have seen, the sedimentary rocks are of immense thickness and those at a depth of 10,000 feet are holding water at the boiling point.

Thus we have a condition on the continental margins, equivalent to a "line of weakness," and as the globe cools and contracts, the crust yields, in the horizontal crushing, along these "lines of weakness" and elevations or depressions take place, with fracture here and there through the strata, and the earthquake results.

We can now recur to the question "What is an earthquake?" and the answer is at once apparent. The quaking, trembling, jarring, shaking of the earth crust.

"What are the causes that produce them?"

Fracture of the earth crust. Earthquakes may be divided into three kinds—Expansive—Horizontally progressive and the Vorticeous.

The first may be likened to the explosion of an immense quantity of dynamite near the surface as in a mine. The crust of the earth is broken up and thrown directly into the air. This form is very violent but circumscribed in its effects.

A typical earthquake of this variety was that at Riobamba in 1797. The surface of the earth and objects lying upon it were hurled into the air hundreds of feet. The bodies of men and other things were thrown across a river to the top of a hill. These explosive earthquakes are more generally found in the immediate vicinity of volcanoes, as if pent up vapors and gases had exploded. There may be several explosions—one after another and the earth broken up in many places.

Occasionally a ship-captain will report his vessel having experienced a shock in mid-ocean or nearer land, like that felt when the ship strikes on ledge or shore. The ship trembles and for a moment all is in confusion. This lasts for a minute and then all is calm again. If these captains are intelligent, ed-

WHITE MOUNTAINS KEARSARGE VILLAGE, N. H.

THE SUMMER RESIDENCE OF MR. FRED I. PRATT, at the foot of Mt. Kearsarge, one and one-half miles from North Conway, and over 100 feet higher elevation, IS FOR SALE.

It is most charmingly situated, being entirely surrounded by lofty mountains. It consists of about 20 acres, extending into the celebrated Cathedral Woods, the grandeur of which cannot be surpassed by anything of the kind in the country. It is a direct line through this magnificent stretch of lofty pines, you reach the Intervale Station, on the Boston & Maine Railroad, and in close proximity to all the hotels of the Intervale Section, so popular with the summer tourist. The house has all the modern conveniences, the purest of mountain spring water, bathroom, electric lights, cemented cellar, with large Smith & Anthony furnace, sealed overhead eleven rooms, including seven large chambers, and large store attic; fine piazzas on all sides, three open fireplaces, and all the luxuries of an up-to-date stud, finished in hard wood (sheathed and polished), with floor prepared for dancing, and a grand big fireplace capable of receiving a four-foot log. The location cannot be surpassed for fine mountain scenery, and being within 60 miles of the mountain region, make it the most accessible location in the White Mountains.

This property, including the furnishings, is in perfect order. Kearsarge Village has facilities for easy communication with the whole country, being supplied with Post Office, telephone and long distance telephone, daily newspapers, and all the accessories incidental to a typical New England town.

The Reliable Electric Motor

The above is a short history of the experience of one of Newton's enterprising business men—Mr. Arthur Wright. After trying various kinds of power for freezing his celebrated Ice Cream, he installs an Electric Motor.

Why did he do it?

Why are the steam railroads spending millions of dollars for Electric Locomotives?

Why have we several second hand explosive engines for sale?

There is but one reason.

The ELECTRIC MOTOR is destined to supplant all other means of power.

The wise use Electricity for light and power.

trying to please all the people all the
time."

Mr. Ellison's address at the Eliot Church last Sunday on Y. M. C. A. work, which we print in full in this issue, is most interesting and worth careful consideration of all good citizens.
Every church in the city ought to open its pulpit to a representative of the local Association at least one Sunday in each year and obtain some accurate and first hand knowledge of the excellent work of the Y. M. C. A.

Newton in general and the Grace Church in particular will bid farewell with much regret to the Rev. Dr. George W. Shinn in his retirement from active parish work, and albeit barred by physical condition from extending to Dr. Shinn, a formal and affectionate leave taking, every one, old and young, rich or poor, will join in wishing him health and happiness in the remaining years of his life.

The United States government and incidentally Admiral "Bob" Evans do not appear in a very favorable light regarding Sunday ball playing at Provincetown.
Weak kneed selection on Puritan
Cape Cod are an anomaly, but the government ought to recognize the proper observance of Sunday throughout the length and breadth of our land. We cannot expect our newly assimilated citizens to observe our Sabbath if men like Admiral Evans insist on breaking it.

The action of Representative McManus of Natick in strenuously advocating
the passage of the boating bill will entirely alienate any possible support he might have had in this city in the future
for the position of senator to succeed President Dana. The GRAPHIC has until now been quite friendly to the aspirations of Mr. McManus, who has been an active and influential legislator, but his action in pressing the passage of this particular bill raises considerable doubt as to his judgment on important matters.

Governor Guild has vindicated his excellence as a chief magistrate in his veto
of the bill to allow boating on the ponds
and reservoirs of the metropolitan district and by that commendable action
has, by inference severely criticised a legislature which has no more idea of the fitness of things than to pass such unwise legislation. While the bill might have been a boon to a few hundreds of selfish persons, it would put in jeopardy
the lives of nearly a million of water
consumers of the metropolitan district.
We are glad to see that Representative Lothrop was active in opposition to the bill.

Whist players in this vicinity are under great obligation to Mr. Charles F.
Gilman of this city, who has just retired from the presidency of the New England Whist Association, for the faithful, conscientious, and intelligent manner in which he has devoted himself to the interests of the "silent" game for the past four years. Mr. Gilman has not only kept up the active interest in whist throughout New England, but he has devised new methods of scoring, and new movements of boards for match play which have added considerably to the interest and facility of playing the duplicate game.

Real Estate.

Edward F. Barnes has sold for Francis
E. Stanley the residential property numbered 587 Walnut street, Newton-ville. The parcel comprises a frame house and stable and 20,200 feet of land, taxed on a valuation of $15,500. It was sold to Susan J. Wheelock for $11,847 and the taxes for 1906. The new owner will move from Dorchester and occupy.

Through the office of Alvord Bros. a portion of the Decker Estate, containing about 101-2 acres, off Dudley Street, in the Oak Hill district of Newton, recently conveyed to John P. Shea, has been sold to Wm. H. Wales.

BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.

The most humiliating spectacle ever witnessed on Beacon Hill has been afforded during the past week. The mind of man runneth not back to an event of such mortifying results in legislative history, unless forthcoming events may develop that shall justify the means used in the humiliation.

The highest court in the Commonwealth has been hailed into a subordinate court by a subordinate official in that court, and the humiliating feature of the whole affair has been, that the high court has bowed to the comparatively insignificant mandate, which has been instigated by the most flagrant violator of common decency and public conduct that has made his appearance
in Massachusetts history since that history began to be written. The most glaring exhibition of contempt of court
ever recorded in this commonwealth has,
within the past few days, been spread
upon the legislative records on Beacon
Hill, and if those who have been guilty of contempt are not brought before the bar of the House of Representatives instantly, the fair fame of the Old Bay State will be forever under a cloud. We are told, by the great teacher of men,
that if we are smitten on one cheek we should turn the other to the smiter, but we are not admonished that we should indulge in the turning process, and we read in another place in the sacred record, that chastisement was inflicted once too often upon a certain occasion. The practice of insulting the General Court of Massachusetts has been exercised by certain men who are very much in the lime-light today, until the exhibition has become monotonous and the dignity of the General Court has been so often outraged that it has now become the duty of the legislature to take decisive steps
in the matter, regardless of the fear
that somebody will seek to make political capital out of the discipline. The sudden, but not unexpected fiasco of last Friday does not alter the case at all. The person whom the New York Sun designates as Hon. John Buttin
Moran, referred to in another paragraph has hailed the members of the legislature before the subordinate Grand Jury of Suffolk County. Mr. Moran needs to have his attention called to the fact that the Constitution says that "the House of Representatives shall be the Grand Jury of this Commonwealth," (Chapter
I, Article 6) and that a lawyer who enjoyed the same distinction before his promotion, as Mr. Moran, has been elevated to the place of Attorney General and that he is the proper individual to make an inquiry before the Grand Jury of the State as to how many members of the legislature, and who they are, who sold out to the bucket shop. Mr. Lawson says that there were 70, but Mr.
Lawson's word would hardly be taken
in a court of law, and that gentleman
may have occasion to again offer a large sum of money for proof to substantiate
his assertions regarding the legislature of Massachusetts.

The legislature should not longer hesitate regarding its duty toward the innocent, or justice to the guilty members in its body. If it devolves upon any one to investigate the action of the House
upon the Bucket Shop Bill, that duty devolves upon Dana Malone, not upon John B. Moran, who is only, for the time being, District Attorney for Suffolk County, and who has gone outside his jurisdiction in this instance as much as he did, when, in the opening of his official career, he undertook to regulate the Excelsior, the Governor of the Commonwealth. The office of District Attorney of Suffolk County isn't the highest office in the commonwealth, even if it is the highest office ever to be occupied by Mr. Moran. Every member of the General Court outranks that official, and it is high time that the General Court asserted the dignity of its position by bringing into contempt all who unworthily assail its integrity. Individual members of the legislature have heretofore been singled out for discipline, as for example, the legislature in which the West End investigation occurred, but this is the first instance within the recollection of man when the entire legislature has been assailed in the most flagrant manner,
and with the most absolute fiasco as a result.

The Boston Transcript quoted an editorial from the New York Sun the other day, under the heading "Massachusetts
as she is Advertised." The editorial may be cited under the following epi-tome:
"Mr. Lawson, whose hatred of Bucket Shops is proverbial, made some temperate assertions. We believe that he doesn't accuse more than seventy members of having been bribed. Thomas and John have put their heads together. John conquering his hatred of publicity has cast a net for the wicked. John is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Tom ought to be on the ticket with him."

"Great excitement in Boston and way
stations. The ordinary citizen of the Bay State—but all its citizens are extraordinary. Well, a large number of the inhabitants are asking themselves if they are awake, if they are crazy, or if some of the expositors are crazy."

"Kansas was mad for years, but got bravely over it. Massachusetts may not be incurable. As for Hon. John Buttin Moran, he is metaphorical."

"We can't understand why Massachusetts maintains insane asylums at great expense. Why not lock up the supposed lunatics, lock up the bedlams and make the whole state what it is getting to be in effect already, a reservation for the moonstruck."

It is no wonder that the Boston Herald remarks:
"It's a solemn fact that Massachusetts
has become an outside laughing stock
for the nonce."

The veto sent into the House last Friday which checked, what has been called,
"the Typhoid Bill", was perhaps the most
just and wisest action yet taken by Governor Guild. Action upon the measure was delayed until this week, but it will be difficult to present any excuse for such a measure, since the veto message riddled all the arguments that were made during its progress and left it without a foothold. The Act proposed to put into constant jeopardy the lives of a million citizens in order to give a few
thousands the unlimited use and abuse
of certain privileges of sport and recreation on great ponds and lakes.

Regardless of the merits of the measure, the speech of Senator Feiker on the College Taxation question last week,
was highly spoken of by all who heard
it. Senator Feiker has devoted much attention to this subject and his presentation was lucid and ably handled. Perhaps nothing more can be said on the subject of taxing college property than
was said in this column some time ago.
If money raised by taxation was always wisely spent after it had been wisely gathered into the treasury, it might not be necessary to tax educational property.

Those bits of paper bearing the names
of members of the General Court, Judge Akin, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and R. Roe, et al. will be likely to be handed down to posterity by members of this year's legislature, accompanied by a clipping from some paper,
telling how the members' name happened to be written into the summons. That precaution might prevent an investigation sometime when the heirs are seeking for evidence to establish the claim to being a statesman's descendant.

It should not be taken for granted that because the House passed an order the other day calling upon the Board of Electric Light Commissioners for information concerning gas affairs, that there is going to be any more light shed upon the situation. It is a little significant that the main entrance to the Gas Commissioners office is the darkest doorway in the State House, although some say that the desk where one may seek information is darker than the doorway. Again, that depends.

EDGAR J. BLISS.

Chance for Improvement in our Police Department.

While filling a water cart near the junction of Watertown and Eddy streets Tuesday, May 15, at about 7:30 A. M. by the sudden starting of the horses Lawrence Agnew was thrown to the ground,
cutting open his forehead the entire width of his head and otherwise cutting his face. He was assisted by several passaging persons, his wounds were dressed and he was taken to the Hospital in a team of his employer. The police ambulance was "phoned for, but it failed to respond until the man had been cared for and had passed the Police Headquarters on his way to the Hospital
twenty minutes after the emergency call
was sent in, although in the meantime the companion driver had time to drive
a heavy water cart to the stable, half mile; notify his employer, return and lend his assistance on the arrival of the team from the stable in starting the injured man to the Hospital. The writer after seeing him cared for started for the station to take the train for Boston,
after walking a quarter of a mile met
the tardy ambulance coming at top speed
one man in charge reporting that he was in bed and must get up and dress before he could start.

The writer on calling at Police Headquarters was informed that under the present system so much preparation was necessary that much time was consumed
in getting started as many parts, including the pole, must be disconnected from the patrol wagon and adjusted to the ambulance before "hitting up" to respond to the call and that twelve minutes was quick time to get started.

Now dear reader, You, I or anyone is liable at any moment to be in just such need of assistance as this man was
and at such a time as this a few minutes
are very precious and may mean life or death and in these days of rapid transit paying as high a rate of taxes as we do
in our Garden City, do you not agree with me that we might have at least a pole for our ambulance to dispense with
the necessity of being obliged to disconnect it from one wagon and adjusting it to the ambulance while some poor individual is bleeding to death.

It does seem to me that there is a great opportunity for improvement in this department and that we who are paying the bills are not getting what we think we are paying for.

Katahdin Club.

The tenth anniversary of the Katahdin
Club was celebrated at the Hundell Club last Monday evening. There was a large attendance of members and friends and a reception was held in the parlors from 8 to 8:30. The receiving party consisted of vice president and Mrs. W. F. Garcelon, Rev. Dr. Frederick
W. Hamilton, President of Tufts College, Past President and Mrs. E. B.
Haskell, Past President and Mrs. George
Agry Jr., Past President D. C. Heath, Mrs. A. L. Berry and Mrs. E. P. Tuttle.

The ushers were Messrs J. M. Quin-
by, V. B. Sweet, A. L. Berry, E. P. Tuttle, J. O. Palmer and E. D. Parsons. At the close of the reception the company adjourned to the hall where an entertainment program was presented under the direction of Vice President Garcelon
in place of Hon. Alonzo R. Weed who was unable to be present on account of the recent death of his father Mr.
Alonzo S. Weed who was a member of the club. The program consisted of selections by an orchestra under the direction of Mr. A. H. Handley, imitations and hand bell selections by Mr. Joseph Lorrain and an address by President Hamilton, a native of Maine, who was the special guest of the evening. Dr.
Hamilton's remarks were most interesting and scholarly and treated largely of the great immigration problem and the future part the sturdy men and women of Maine will have in solving it. Vice President Garcelon also made remarks on the influence of Maine men along the lines of religion, education and business
throughout the country.

Later in the dining room refreshments were served, the tables, which were tastefully decorated, being presided over by Mrs. E. P. Tuttle, Mrs. A. L. Berry, Mrs. W. F. Garcelon and Mrs. J. M.
Quinby. The evening's program was completed by dancing in the hall.

To-Night Unity Club Concert.

The committee on arrangements for the Unity Club concert have completed their work and nothing now remains but for the curtain to rise on what promises to be the most successful musical event of the season. One of the most attractive features of this evening's concert is the fact that all of the voices are those of Newtonians, and the results of their efforts cannot help but be pleasing to all fortunate enough to hear them sing.

Under the energetic leadership of their director they have labored and worked with painstaking care and have achieved a brilliance and finish to their work that is so often labored for in vain
even by professional choruses.

The chorus numbers are varied enough to suit even the most critical, consisting as they do of brilliant allegros, dainty gavottes, stirring march songs
and rhythmic love songs.

As for the orchestral numbers, the mere statement that this portion is to be taken care of by the Philharmonic Orchestral Club, is hall mark of the excellence of work to be expected.

The orchestral numbers consist of tuneful overtures, presto movements
from standard classics, legato movements from symphonies, string quartets
by famous composers, oriental numbers for variety's sake—well—in fact, the whole evening's entertainment promises to be a fitting close to Newton's most successful musical season.

The soloists of the evening will be
Mrs. Martha R. Franklin, Mezzo Soprano, Ralph Smalley, Cellist and E. A.
Franklin, Flute Obligatoist. A. H. Handley will direct both the chorus and his now famous Philharmonic Orchestral Club.

Prominent Boston Man Passes Up
from the Baldheaded Row.

Our readers will be interested in the story
of Mr. Henry Routley, a popular tailor of Boston, Mass., which he relates below. It seems that Mr. Routley has for years been very bald, in fact he has for years been the
mark for the jokes of his acquaintances, who
have gazed him unmercifully about it—but
read his story:

"For fifteen years I have been growing
bald, and my friends have made my head a
mark for all kinds of jokes, particularly about my being the dean of the 'baldheaded row.' I used every known means of inducing a growth of hair, but found nothing which would
help me. I was told about Dr. Wilson's English Life To The Hair and the work it was doing—I tried it—used six bottles and a fine
new growth of hair appeared and my hair is
today as good as ever it was. Six months
after beginning the use of Wilson's Life to
the Hair the new hair is still growing and I have induced many of my acquaintances to try, all with success. It is the finest hair grower in the world."

Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair
grows new hair, cures falling hair, dandruff,
itching, scaly scalp and eruptions. It has a pleasant odor, will not color the hair, but
will restore the natural color. It is not sticky
nor greasy. Price 50 cts. per bottle at druggists, or sent on rect. of price by Albert

FISHING TACKLE

WE want everybody, from the small boy who buys a fish hook, to the expert fisherman who appreciates fine tackle, to realize that he will be treated so squarely when he comes here that he will forever after look on us as head-quarters.

If it's made to catch fish we've got it in all grades, from the lowest price to the best that comes.

We suggest the HUNTER SPLIT BAMBOO ROD as the finest rod ever made, but we've got a fine serviceable Bamboo Rod for $1.00.

Runaway.

Last Monday afternoon the horses attached to one of Bush's hacks, while standing at the station, suddenly started and made a wild dash up the incline to Centre street and thence through to Church street before they were caught. The hack was badly damaged and the wheel broken on a hack which was struck as the team started. Fortunately no one was injured.

Newton Hospital

The Entertainment Committee of the Newton Hospital Catholic Aid Society under the direction of Mr. Geo. E. Stuart, chairman, and Miss Elizabeth I. Hyde, secretary, are to give a whist party and dance in Temple hall, Newtonville, on Friday evening, May 25th. The society has recently given the Hospital $600 for two free beds.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES.

The committee appointed to go over the route to be taken by the 5th Mass. Infantry next August consisting of Col. Oakes, Maj. Storor and Capt. Cutting, returned last week and gave glowing accounts of their reception by the Canadian people, and of the unbounded enthusiasm which they displayed in going over the arrangements which they are completing for the entertainment of the "Dandy Fifth." They consider this visit of a "Marching Regiment from the States" the event of a generation and are going to make the occasion a memorable one.

All the companies are drilling hard to perfect themselves in the various maneuvers as it is estimated that "our measure will be taken" by over 100,000 people from the country where the military spirit is rampant, and we have the traditions of the Regiment to uphold.

As is customary with him, Capt. Guilford took his company on a long practice march through Nantum and Watertown, ending up with a hard, snappy drill in extended order by platoons. This practical outdoor work is most beneficial to the men, and certainly is making great improvement in company work.

On Wednesday evening, May 23rd, Capt. Ryan formerly of the 7th U. S. Cavalry will give a talk on the "Battle of the Big Horn" or "Custer's Massacre" at a smoke talk to be held by the company on that date.

A novelty to be introduced this year on Memorial Day during the Grand Army services at the Cemetery will be the firing of three volleys by a squad from this company commanded by Comrade Montgomery of the G. A. R.

On Friday evening June 8, a "Shirt Waist Party" will be given at the armory by the company, for the purpose of raising funds. Dancing will be from 8 till 2 and a most enjoyable time is assured.

Dunn-Craig.

Miss Maude Evelyn Craig, daughter of Mrs. Harriet R. Craig, and Mr. Edward Albert Dunn of the Hollis were married at the home of the bride's mother in Falmouth at noon on Tuesday. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Henry Herbert Smythe, rector of St. Barnabas church. More than 100 guests were present, many coming from Gardner, Newton and Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn will spend their honeymoon in the Provincias and on their return will reside in Newton.

Albert E. Hanson.

Mr. Albert E. Hanson, son of Joseph Hanson, passed away at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, Sunday after a long period of ill health. He was a native of Lowell, where he was born 33 years ago and was formerly foreman for the F. A. Wendell Plumbing and Heating Company. He was a member of the Charles Ward Post drum corps and was formerly connected with the vestal choir of Grace church. He is survived by a widow and two children. Funeral services were held from Grace church Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. George W. Shinn officiating, and there were many relatives and friends present. The floral tributes were numerous and of beautiful design. The pall bearers were Joseph Rhodes, Joseph Murphy, John Booth and John Bartley. The interment was in Newton cemetery.

Charles Ward Post, G. A. R.
To Celebrate

Orders of Post Commander and Chief Marshal

Headquarters Charles Ward Post,
No. 62, G. A. R.
Newtonville, Mass.,
May 17, 1906.

Comrades:

In accordance with the Rules and Regulations of the Grand Army of the Republic, and in compliance with General Order No. 3 from Department Headquarters, Wednesday, May 30, 1906, will be observed as Memorial Day.

Sunday Services.

Rev. Edward M. Noyes, and the members of the First Congregational Church of Newton Centre have honored the Post by inviting its to attend divine service Sunday, May 27th. The Comrades of this Post will report to the Commander at the Engine House, Newton Centre, at 10 o'clock A. M., in uniform, without belts, white gloves. It is confidently hoped that all Comrades will attend this service. All veterans of the War of Rebellion are invited to participate with the Post on this occasion, also in the duties and exercises of Memorial Day.

Contributions of Flowers.

Flowers are respectfully solicited by the Post, and will be thankfully received at the following places on the day or evening of Tuesday, May 29th:
Newton—Residence of Comrade John Flood, 371 Washington Street.
West Newton—Residence of Comrade S. A. Langley, 64 Margin Street.
Newtonville—Post Hall, Masonic Temple.
Auburndale—Hose House, Auburn Street.
Newton Lower Falls—Hose House.
Newton Upper Falls—Residence of Comrade Geo. H. Osborne, 117 High Street.
Newton Highlands—Engine House.
Newton Centre—Engine House.
The officers and members of Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent, No. 2, Daughters of Veterans, Mrs. James T. Burns, President, kindly offer their services for the arrangement of flowers, and will also assist at the dinner in Temple Hall after the Parade.

General Memorial Day Order.

1. Colonel Robert Ball Edes has been chosen by the Post as Chief Marshal of the Day, and will be respected and obeyed accordingly.
2. All Comrades will turn out in full uniform and white gloves. A special car will leave Nonantum Square, Newton, at 8 o'clock A. M. for Newton Cemetery, via Newtonville. Comrades from Auburndale, West Newton, and Newtonville will meet at the Post Hall at 8 o'clock A. M. Those not detailed for special duty will take the car at 8:10 o'clock from Newtonville and report to Junior Vice Commander W. H. Partridge at the Newton Cemetery. Here they will be joined by the members of J. Wiley Edmunds Camp, Sons of Veterans.
Comrades of Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, and Newton Upper Falls will report to Surgeon S. S. Tilton at the Hyde School, Newton Highlands, at 8:30 o'clock A. M. to decorate the graves in Evergreen Cemetery, after which they will take the special car for Newton Cemetery.
The comrades and Sons on duty at Newton Cemetery will there join them and proceed to Newton Lower Falls by the way of Walnut Street, Commonwealth Avenue, and Washington Street, and report at the Hose House to Senior Vice Commander W. W. Montgomery, who will have charge of the services in St. Mary's Cemetery, and where the Rev. Father Callahan of St. John's Church, will deliver a short address.
While flowers are being cast from the bridge into the river Charles, in memorial of those who were lost at sea, the Rev. Dr. Cole, of St. Mary's Church, will read selections from the Scriptures, after which Comrade W. A. Wetherbee will read a poem, "The Tribute Bearer," by John Jerome Rooney.

At the conclusion of the services at Newton Lower Falls, the special car will convey the Comrades and Sons to the Engine House, Newton Centre, where they will report to Post Commander Henry Haynie. By invitation of our friends in Newton Centre the members of the Post, visiting Comrades, veterans of the war, the Sons of Veterans and the Daughters of Veterans will be furnished with a lunch at the Engine House.
3. Comrade Adjutant W. A. Wetherbee and Comrade Thomas W. Paine will decorate the graves of Comrades and the grave of J. Wiley Edmunds in Mt. Auburn Cemetery.
Comrade John Flood will decorate the graves in Center Street Cemetery, Newton.

Comrade Officer of the Day S. A. Langley will decorate the graves in West Newton Cemetery.
The grave of Comrade George W. Morse in Bedford Cemetery, and the grave of Charles K. Drury in Wayland Cemetery will be decorated by proper persons. The grave of Comrade Warren E. Fuller, of Lafayette Post, No. 140, Department of New York, in Wellesley Cemetery, will be decorated by Comrade Thomas Cusick.

4. Comrade Officer of the Guard C. W. Coleman will have charge of the flower wagons during the day. He will collect from the various stations and deliver them at the Post Hall at or before 8 A. M. Wednesday.

Afternoon Parade.

5. The Post will form at 1:10 P. M. and report at once to Colonel Walter L. Sanborn, Adjutant General of the Chief Marshal. The color-guard will be under command of Comrade C. W. Coleman. The firing squad at Newton Cemetery will be under the command of Comrade Senior Vice Commander Montgomery.
The column will march via Center Street to Beacon and Walnut Streets to the Cemetery, where the exercises prepared by the Post Commander will be carried out.

6. After the services at the Monument, the march will be resumed, via Walnut Street, to Temple Hall for the annual dinner.

7. The attention of all Comrades is hereby called to the enclosed orders of Chief Marshal Robert Ball Edes.

By order of

Henry Haynie,

Post Commander.

Adjutant General.

As the season for fishing is at hand you will doubtless need to replenish your fishing tackle. Chandler & Barber, 124 Summer St., Boston, have a large assortment and an expert man in charge of that department.

Rally.

J. Wiley Edmunds Camp 31, S. of V., held a largely attended rally at Grand Army hall, Newtonville, last Wednesday evening. Division Commander Penny of Lynn and other division officers were present. Hon. Guy A. Ham, assistant United States district attorney of Boston, made a stirring address on "The Principles and Objects of the Sons of Veterans." He urged every eligible young man to become associated with the organization and to assist in caring for the Civil War survivors.

Police Paragraphs.

A sort of "continued in our next" story has been running in the police court this week as the result of a drunken spree by five men in Newton Lower Falls last Monday afternoon. The fracas began in the vicinity of Grove and Cornell streets, when the men began quarrelling among themselves, and only ceased when a junk wagon loaded with bottles attracted their attention. A passing whinn moved them to lift this wagon up bodily and then letting it fall to the ground, smashing all the bottles it contained. The next in order was a visit to the gypsy camp on Grove street where the camp leader was assaulted and considerably bruised, and the orgy ended by starting a fire in the woods for which the department turned out, and a police officer arrested the leader of the gang. The men have been appearing in court every day this week and were all fined $10 each.

Charles Kinsley of Allston, Hallard Welsh Jr. and Charles Eastman of Boston were each fined $5 last Saturday for exceeding the automobile speed limit.

A curious point was raised in court last Saturday by Attorney Whittlesey on the complaint that Morris Greenwald had dealt in junk without a license. The charge was that Greenwald had bought some old iron. Mr. Whittlesey made the point that the dictionary defined junk as "old rope." Greenwald was discharged.

Newton Club.

Plus scores at duplicate whist were made Monday night by C. H. Sprague and W. E. Hickox 6-1-2, H. C. Brinck-erhoff and H. J. Whitaker, 3, A. D. Salinger and J. F. Humphrey 1, and F. M. Copeland and C. R. Comey, 1-2.

Arrangements have been made with Stiles 8th Regiment band for the series of summer concerts on Wednesday evenings, June 13, 20 and July 5.

Clubs and Lodges

Newton Lodge 92 I. O. O. F. will give a public whist on May 23rd. Ice cream and cake will be served. On May 24th the lodge will work the initiatory degree.

Mock Trial.

There was a large audience at Dennison hall, Newtonville, Wednesday evening to witness the mock trial given by Waban Lodge I. O. O. F. George O. Brock as Judge L. Emmons presided and the court opened late as one witness testified to the same loss of heart to McGinty's attractions. McGinty denied that he had made love to Maggie, and said she had boldly made love to him. He had come prepared to pay the $100,000 damages however, and then tried to borrow from the different persons in the court room. Judge Emmons said he had spent his money for burglars tools. Chauncey DePew said he had given his back to the insurance companies. Jawn B. Moran threatened to bring McGinty before the Grand Jury for asking him; John D. Rockefeller said McGinty was not up to standard, but if he would get him a new stomach he would give him $100,000. Many hits were made on the policy and others and McGinty's parodies of Everybody Works but Father was the hit of the evening. The trial was the work of Mr. Charles F. Dow who wrote all the speaking parts save the lawyer's pleas. The jury's report of a disagreement ended, a very pleasant entertainment.

GAS RANGES

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise,
He bought a GAS RANGE for his wife
To bake her cakes and pies.
Says he, "Now, when your baking's done,
To keep your kitchen cool,
Just turn the burner RIGHT STRAIGHT OUT,"
An economic rule.

Now wifely did as hubby said,
And much to her surprise,
She finished up her cooking—
Her bread, her cake, her pies—
And still had time for social calls
And much time of her own.
And ALL because her hubby

WOMAN'S WORLD

Mrs. Constance Fauntleroy Runcie is recorded as the founder of the first woman's club in America, which was "The Minerva Club" of New Harmony, Indiana. In recognition of this fact at the last Biennial she was elected Honorary Vice-President of the General Federation. She has been invited to address the St. Paul Biennial and describe the founding of this first club. It was founded forty-eight years ago. Mrs. Runcie now resides in St. Joseph, Missouri, where she has been made the perpetual President of the Runcie Club, which she also founded. She celebrated her seventieth birthday recently, and eighty of her friends presented her with a purse of gold.

The following circular has been sent, with a copy of "The Civic Primer," to the President of every State Federation and of every Federated Club:

Dear Madam.—You will shortly receive, with the compliments of this committee, a small handbook on civic work, which we call a "Civic Primer."

It contains short articles and practical suggestions on almost every line of civic work now being undertaken by our Women's Clubs, and it is hoped that it will prove valuable in every section of the country, particularly to the younger and more inexperienced clubs, who long to help in the great civic movement now sweeping over our land, but who are puzzled as to which problem, of all that confronts them, should be grappled with first.

While we cannot boast that our little

Dow; treasurer, Miss Jessie Fisher; auditor, Mrs. E. Josephine Kimball; directors, Mrs. Mary Puffer, Mrs. John Sibley, Mrs. Charlotte French, Mrs. Harriette Young, Mrs. Elisabeth Shirley; delegates to Newton City Federation, Mrs. Electra Walton, Mrs. Lavinia Brown, Mrs. Estelle Robinson, Miss Susan Whiting.

Mrs. Anna L. Bailey on behalf of the club presented flowers to the retiring president, Mrs. M. T. Rowe, and to the incoming president, Mrs. H. K. Burris.

Supper was served in the dining room at six o'clock, after which Mrs. Rowe acted as toastmistress and these toasts were responded to: "A Glimpse into the Future," Mrs. Burris; who spoke of three things which she hoped would characterize the future of the club, harmony, helpfulness, and happiness; "A Retrospective Glimpse," Miss Amelia Davis, who touched upon the personality and influence of the club; "To Ourselves as Others See Us," Mrs. Anna L. Bailey. Miss Adelaide B. Jump of Boston delighted the members with a monologue. The question was asked "What is the most important thing for a woman to know?" Mrs. Mary R. Martin replied that in her estimation it was the ability for a woman to keep house without worry or without appearing to be doing anything. Mrs. Walton's reply was, "To so adapt ourselves to circumstances as to be good company."

The company then adjourned to the room below where Miss Jump further entertained them with monologues, Miss Janet Clarke gave a Spanish dance and several violin solos were rendered by Mr. Puffer with Mrs. Fuller at the piano. After these followed the presentation of "The Courtship of Miles Standish" by club members. Selections from the poem were read by Mrs. Walton il-

Y. M. C. A.

The regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will be held on Wednesday, May 23rd at 3 P. M. A large attendance is desired.

In the evening the Birth Day Social will be held. A fine entertainment has been arranged and an invitation to attend is given to all provided you bring a penny for every year of your life.

The Boston Y. M. C. A. Base Ball team met defeat at Newton last Saturday at the hands of the Newton Y. M. C. A. team. The Boston team were all but shut out while Newton scored 15 runs. Bradley played a star game at 2nd base and at the bat and the work of Nelson and Wharton was excellent. Mr. Wharton was elected captain for the year 1906.

The following interesting address on Y. M. C. A. work was delivered in Eliot church last Sunday morning by Mr. Carlton L. Ellison.

The man in the world who is of use both to himself and to those around him, is not the weak-kneed, selfish and irresponsible trifler but the strong steady conscientious right-doer. The friend who satisfies the legitimate demands of true friendship is not the empty, frivolous "do what I please" sort of fellow who is the easy prey to every latest whim and impulse but the man who in the true manhood of real decision and plain straightforward purpose is to be depended upon for consistent unwavering progress along the lines he has laid down for himself as true and right and just.

I want to describe to you this morning an organization founded and carried on for the express purpose of developing men capable of being strong true friends and men whose worth to all around shall be unquestioned. The Y. M. C. A. in general and the Newton Y. M. C. A. in particular has as its purpose the education—the expansion—of the young men and boys who form its membership along all the lines of their makeup—mental, physical and spiritual. The Association aims to give to each of its members a strong body: it offers all a sane and reasonable social life. Yet underneath the outward show of athletics and social spirit there is a constant, never-swinging wish and endeavor of those actively engaged in the work and those whose gifts make the work possible, to shape and mould in one way or another the lives and characters of the 170 young men and the 160 boys who compose its membership in such wise that cool common sense may take the place of hot-headed obstinacy and Christian strength may replace the weakness of lack of purpose and lack of principle.

It is only of the boys that I speak this morning for whatever time I have been able to give has been given to them and indeed the problems connected with 160 vigorous, bustling boys who are developing at lightning rate are great enough to warrant exclusive attention.

I believe thoroughly and heartily in the work and in the boys yet from the first let me assure you that every statement I make is carefully considered and is under—rather than over—stated.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. shows on its rolls a membership of about 170 young men and about 160 boys. Its paid force consists of a General Secretary, a Physical Director, a Boy's Work Director and a Janitor.

Now where do the 160 boys come from? There were only 110 of them last year, 93 the year before, and 65 in 1903. In three years we have almost tripled our membership. Thirty-one come from Watertown, and twenty-two come from Allston and Brighton. The quality of the boys we are drawing from these neighboring towns is at once surprising and gratifying. They are good sturdy boys and a credit to any town. The other villages of Newton all contribute to make our work representative but Watertown and Brighton and this part of Newton with seventy-nine boys are the largest factors. Seventy-nine is a pretty small figure to represent Ward One and Seven, especially when we remember that one Sunday School alone in this part of Newton has in its membership over 74 boys who are of Y. M. C. A. age.

But what sort of boys are these Y. M. C. A. boys? I am always glad when this question is raised. I am sorry when people assume the answer instead of investigating. If you will come down and see the boys as they are there in the rooms or in the Gym, if you will meet them and talk a little with them I have no fear for their reputation. But in a place like this it is hard to know what to say. If I over-emphasize one side of the description and tell you too much of the need of our work among the boys not only of the poorer but also of the wealthier class, they are liable to get an evil reputation they do not deserve; if I over-emphasize the other side and tell you too much of what we hope and what we see is possible you will say, where then in the need and use of the Association. As a matter of fact, a more encouraging group of boys to work with, or a group greater in natural capacities and possibilities I never expect to see. They are capable of strong loyalty and friendship. They appreciate and are grateful for words of advice as well as the good times provided for them. During the past three years I have travelled all over Newton and to many outlying towns with from twenty to twenty-five of them in the Glee Club and never once have I been ashamed of them. On several occasions different ladies from this and other churches have entertained groups of our boys in their homes. I do not hesitate to leave our reputation in their hands.

It does seem a pity, though, that we should not have more than 70 boys from this part of Newton. It is very evident that neither the boys nor their parents realize the opportunities they are neglecting. There are boys here in plentiful supply; they would enjoy what the Association can offer them as a club and as a Gym; and they need—especially the boys from the richer homes—they need the moral tonic and stimulus which the Y. M. C. A. gives through the Sunday meetings, Bible classes and personal interviews. It was a pleasant sight Saturday afternoon to see the boys from all over Newton in the Gym practicing for the now historic Sunday School meet. The work that they did running and jumping would have about killed them if it had been applied to beating carpets or mowing the lawn. The boys thoroughly enjoy the Gym for the exercise there is planned to be a combination of work and play. The relay races, the basketball games, the never ending rivalry between red and blue all appeal to any boy who once enters into them. Then there is the Chess club for those who like to play Chess; the Camera club for those who take pictures and the Glee club for those who like to sing. And I have said nothing of the Bible class clubs with their meetings, socials and club rooms.

Perhaps I should say just here a word of explanation and justification with regard to our Bible classes. I have heard people express surprise that the Y. M. C. A. attempted any religious work. I have heard them disapprove of our Bible classes as being a duplication of the Sunday School; and one of our best friends remarked that he thought the boys ought to have Sunday afternoon free for meditation. You who have boys of your own know how much meditation and reflection upon the cosmic universe a boy is likely to do. Now our Bible classes are really clubs not in name alone but in actual fact. The leaders are all young fellows whose sympathies are not yet dulled and who are not yet so far removed from the problems and difficulties of boyhood as to have forgotten how real and trying they actually are. The relationship between the boys and their leader is of the very closest and in many cases, the most confidential and understanding nature possible. Each teacher is expected as a matter of course to know all that can be known about each of his boys—the lad's tastes, his habits, companions and home influences. In the class meeting every slightest formality and restriction that may ever exist is swept away. The Sunday afternoon meetings are talks TO the boys—as practical, as brief and as helpful as the speakers can make them: the Bible clubs are talks WITH the boys where oftentimes they will pour out their deepest convictions and their most troublesome questions sure of understanding and sympathetic attention from clubmates and leader. The leaders are absolutely faithful—nothing but sickness ever keeping one of them away from his class: the boys are proud of their leaders who willingly sacrifice so much for them. I know of no place where the relationship of brother and brother is so well and so truly established as in the Bible clubs of the Y. M. C. A. Wouldn't you like your boy to have such a friend who looks out for him and thinks of him not one but seven days in the week? Do I need to apologize for or defend further the Bible clubs?

This feeling of brotherliness and mutual help is coming more and more to be characteristic of the Junior Department. Those at the head of affairs try to be the very best friends to the boys and in return they expect a manly sort of friendship FROM the boys. As I said at the very first, our aim is to make strong men who shall be capable of the best kind of friendship. Now a discipline of iron rule and servile obedience will never produce that kind of man. The best kind of law and order is that which comes from an inward prejudice towards what is right—so instead of drawing an inflexible line and saying to the boys—now so far you may go but not an inch farther—YOU overstep this line and WE will see that you are sorry you did so—we assume just as long as it is possible that every boy wants to do what is right and if he transgresses, it is in a moment of forgetfulness. Those of you who have boys of your own will easily understand how much harder this method of treatment is than the old fashioned way of making rule after rule which rules you allow to be broken with impunity or else enforce with blind, unconsidering severity just as you happen to feel at the moment. To always put the best possible interpretation upon a boy's motives—to see his point of view—to be tactful with him at the very time when he is disregarding all tact—to be patiently, hopefully, unwaveringly consistent and fair—these are some of the things which this method of handling boys demands. But it is the method which makes men of backbone and moral stamina. We appeal to the boys in-mate manliness and desire for strength. All the affairs of the Junior Department are conducted by a Cabinet made up of the boys. In the game room we often put a boy in charge, to give out and look

SANDWICHES FOR CARD PARTY.

Make bread for fancy sandwiches with an eye to economy in cutting out and do not shape the loaves so that one-third of the slice will go in trimmings. Send one cup of milk, add one cup of boiling water, two level table-spoons of butter, one level teaspoon of salt and one yeast cake dissolved in one-quarter cup of lukewarm water. Mix with three pints of flour and let rise three hours or until double in bulk. Knead and put into pans and when risen again, bake. Be sure to knead well and not to over-raise the bread, as sandwiches do not look as well made from coarse grained bread.

Fancy cutters cost five or ten cents according to quality, and should not be thrown among larger things to become dented or broken, for like other workmen the cook is known by the tools of her trade. As a filling for sandwiches perhaps nothing better is liked than sweet butter softened a bit so that it will spread smoothly. If meat is used for filling chop it fine; nothing eatable is so aggravating as a sandwich from which the meat draws out in a whole slice at the first bite. Saus should be chopped almost to powder and may be mixed with a little mayonnaise or olive oil; jelly and marmalade should be broken up with a fork. Dry the trimmings of the bread and roll fine for crumbing or for scalloped dishes.

"Primer" will answer all the questions as to the "How of Civic Work," we do believe that it will be found very helpful and suggestive, and we commend it as very interesting reading for every one concerned in civic improvement.

A copy of the "Civic Primer" will be sent free to every club belonging to the General Federation, but, as the expense of printing has been rather heavy, a large number of copies have been reserved to sell at the very low price of ten cents each. We hope that you will be able to interest your club members and others in this little book, and that they will send to us for additional copies, thus helping us to disseminate in every part of our country the ideas on civic progress it contains.

May we request further that you will kindly send some report of the civic work done by your club during the past two years to the Chairman of this Committee not later than May 1? She will need the data in the preparation of her report, to be presented at the Biennial Meeting in St. Paul.

With best wishes for the prosperity of your club, and hoping that the "Civic Primer," which represents the general work of this Committee for the past year, may please you.

The Executive Board of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its regular quarterly meeting at the New Church parlors, Newtonville, Monday, May 21, at 10:15 A. M. Any members of the Federated clubs will be welcome whether delegates or not.

The West Newton Women's Educational Club held its annual meeting on Friday afternoon, May 11, at four o'clock. Reports of officers and the chairman of committees occupied the afternoon. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. Harriet C. Burris; vice presidents, Miss Amelia Davis, Mrs. Anna L. Bailey, Mrs. Mary Martin, Mrs. Kathleen Phipps, Mrs. Jane M. Hastings, Mrs. M. Theresa Rowe; recording secretary, Mrs. Flora T. Putnam; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Euphemia P.

lustrated by living pictures. The parts were taken as follows: Miles Standish, Miss Burt, John Alden, Mrs. Rice, Priscilla, Mrs. Dow, Elder Brewster, Mrs. Brown, Governor Bradford, Mrs. Burris, Indians, Mrs. Hancock, Mrs. Landon, other Pilgrims, Mrs. Lowry, Miss Rowe, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Fogg.

The annual meeting of the Waban Woman's Club took the form of a Tea at the home of Mrs. Pietro Isola. After the reports from our various committees were read, our secretary was instructed to cast one vote for the officers of the coming year as read from ballot, as follows: President, Mrs. Nellie H. Pillsbury; vice president, Mrs. Ruth Winchester; recording secretary, Miss Kimball; entertainment committee, Mrs. Ruth James; press correspondent, Miss Della Conant.

The club was entertained by musical numbers from Mrs. Donald Hill an interesting paper upon "Thomas Hood" by Mrs. Joseph Congdon, and songs from Miss Stevens "O Maynoir," and "Thine Eyes of Paradise."

Mrs. Blake.

Mrs. Harriet L. Blake, the mother of Mr. Percy M. Blake of Newtonville, died at the latter's home on Walnut street, last Monday at the age of 88 years.

Mrs. Blake was the last of a family of thirteen children of the late Joseph Daniels, and was born at Franklin, Mass. Her mother was a direct descendant of the Fisher family, one of the original settlers of Wrentham. Mrs. Blake was the widow of the Rev. Mortimer Blake for 29 years, the pastor of the Winslow Congregational church at Taunton, and who died in 1884. She has resided with her son at Newtonville during the past six years. She is survived by Mr. Blake of Newtonville, and by another son, Prof. Lucien L. Blake of Lawrence University, Kansas.

A brief funeral service was held at the Blake residence Wednesday morning at 10:30, Rev. J. T. Stocking officiating, and was followed in the afternoon with a service at the Winslow Church, Taunton. The burial was in the Mt. Pleasant Cemetery of that city.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—Another prominent feature from the "legitimate" stage has been secured for vaudeville purposes in "The Broomstick Witches," which will head the bill at Keith's for the week of May 21. As often happens, the condensation of the act has improved it wonderfully, so that it is now considered to be one of the best "girl" acts that has come into the varieties this season. The eight "witches" are under the direction of Delight Barsch, a pretty and dainty little miss, who is a descendant of one of the Salem witches herself. The girls alternate as rickshaw boys, witches and show girls, are prettily costumed and know how to dance their way to favor. The big novelty of the bill will be Luigi Rossi and his musical horse, "Emir," a marvelously intelligent equine, who accompanies his trainer while he plays on several different musical instruments. Prominent on the surrounding program will be the Bedouin Arabs, eight wonderful posturers, acrobats and tumblers; Raymond and Caverly, German comedians and parody singers; Gertrude Mansfield and Caryl Wilbur, in a mirth-provoking comedy sketch, "61 Prospect St."; Delmore sisters, talented vocalists and instrumentalists; Charlie Case, "the fellow who talks about his father"; Benah and Miller, in a comedy singing and dancing specialty; Arthur and Mildred Boylan, in a pretty little playlet, entitled "Jack and Jill"; Waldorf and Kender, comedy acrobats; Salmon and Chester, coster comedians, and the Barretts, skillful jugglers. In the Kinetograph, the customary list of comedy and interesting motion pictures will be exhibited.

Colonial Theatre—Probably no actress in America can portray as effectively as Miss Grace George such a composite character as Lady Kitty Bristol in the dramatization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's novel, "The Marriage of William Ashe." In print, Lady Kitty had seemed to us unsympathetic, lifeless and inert; in the play, Miss George gives to her such sparkling vivacity, delightful comedy and above all such heart-touching pathos that even a veteran playgoer suffers with her and finds the tears in his old eyes. No one can look unbiased at Miss George's bizarre portrayal of the child wife's frivolities, waywardnesses and transgressions against English proprieties without thinking her a great actress. Personally Miss George's triumph is complete with those who admire vivacity, comedy and pathos all blended in a charming abandon. In such a role, few, if any, actresses equal this lady who makes her audience laugh and weep with her. Miss George's engagement at the Colonial closes on Saturday, May 26.

Castle Square Theatre—Christopher Jr., the comedy by Madeline Lucette Ryley to be given at the Castle Square Theatre next week, is one of the cleverest and most entertaining of modern plays. Admirable in plot and dialogue, it is so well constructed and so genuinely comic that the spectator may laugh heartily throughout its entire length without being ashamed of himself. In the fourth act, Dora, the heroine, suddenly finds herself married to Christopher Colt, and is overjoyed until she suddenly recollects that there are two Christophers. "Is it the old man or the young one," she asks, and the question so takes the audience by surprise that the laughter is certain to fill the house for several minutes. Christopher Jr., contains as a matter of fact, many such dramatic humorous incidents as this. Its scenes are laid partly in London and partly in Bombay, and the leading roles will be played by Howell Hansel and Lillian Kemble.

The announcement that the Castle Square Theatre will be given over this summer to light opera productions will be welcome news. The opera season will begin on Monday evening, June 4th, immediately following the close of the regular stock company season on the 1st of June. The company will be headed by J. K. Murray, Clara Lane and Hattie Belle Ladd, all of whom were great favorites when the Castle Square was the home of light opera a few years ago, and other leading singers will be George Shields, Bessie Fairbairn and Lyman Wheeler. The house will be under the personal direction of William C. Masson, the stage director will be J. J. Jaxon, and there will be an enlarged orchestra, and a chorus of forty people. The regular fall and winter season of the Castle Square dramatic stock company will open on Monday, September 3rd, the operatic engagement being only for the summer. High class popular operas will be produced in the very best possible manner, and no pains will be spared to make every production perfect in every detail. Matinees will be given Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Open Air Horse Show.

On Wednesday afternoon, May 30, on the grounds of the Chestnut Hill Club will be held the third annual open-air horse show, entries for which will close on Tuesday, May 22. If stormy on that day the exhibition will be given on the following Saturday, rain or shine. The committee in charge is composed of the following named: Andrew Adie, W. L. Allen, Herbert Jaques, Montgomery Rollins, E. S. Webster, Henry W. Bliss, George Lewis, R. M. Saltonstall, A. W. Weld.

The eleven classes, in which ribbons will be awarded, have been arranged as follows:

Class 1—Children's Combination Pony Class. For children's ponies under 14.2, to be shown first to carriage and then under saddle, children under 15 to drive and ride.

Class 2—Children's Ponies, Jumping Class. Children's ponies under 14.2, to be shown over four jumps of three feet each. To qualify in this class the entry must be a pony kept strictly for a child's use. Children under 15 to ride.

Class 3—Jumping Class for Ponies. For best performance of pony under 14.2, to be shown over four fences of 3 feet 3 inches each.

Class 4—Jumping Class for Horses. For best performance of horse over four successive fences of four feet each.

Class 5—Tandem Class.
Class 6—Pairs.
Class 7—Ladies' Saddle Horses. For best lady's saddle horse over 14.2, ladies to ride.

Class 8—Gentlemen's Saddle Horses. For best gentleman's saddle horse, over 14.2, gentlemen to ride.

The same horse cannot be entered in both Class 7 and 8.

Class 9—Ladies' Single Horse in Harness. For best horse over 14.2, to be shown to an appropriate two or four wheeled vehicle, ladies to drive.

Class 10—Gentlemen's Single Horse in Harness. For best horse over 14.2, to be shown to an appropriate two or four wheeled vehicle, gentlemen to drive.

The same horse cannot be entered in both Class 9 and 10.

Class 11—Hunt Club Class. For the best three qualified hunters, to be shown with five couples of hounds by the master and two whips in hunt uniform. This class to be judged as follows: Horses 50 per cent, hounds 40 per cent, general excellence 10 per cent.

D. A. R.

The annual business meeting of the Lucy Jackson Chapter D. A. R. of Newton was held at the home of Mrs. George Hutchinson, West Newton, on the morning of May 14th. Mrs. Arthur P. Friend, the regent of the Chapter, presided.

The business of the morning consisted chiefly in the reading of the reports of the different officers, which showed the Chapter to be in a very prosperous condition, with a membership of 103.

Mrs. Friend gave an entertaining account of the last Continental Congress, which she had attended and all the members were much interested in hearing of the progress of the new building, which the D. A. R. society are erecting at Washington.

The following officers will serve during the year 1906-1907: Regent, Mrs. Arthur P. Friend; Vice Regents, Mrs. George Hutchinson, Mrs. Arthur G. Hosmer; Recording Secretary, Mrs. John S. Eaton; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Henry Whitmore; Registrar, Mrs. John Avery; Treasurer, Mrs. Charles S. Sanders; Historian, Mrs. Francis Newhall.

after the games: in the Gymnasium the Physical Director has a leaders corps made up of boys who show natural ability as athletes and natural capacity as leaders. He gives them extra time and attention that they may understand more exactly the fine points of the various exercises and what particular part of the body each is intended to develop. These boys are then used as leaders or captains in class work both in their own grade and more especially in the grades just younger. They learned a great deal in a very short time about what the trials of a disciplinary might be, but it also developed a manliness in them that was decidedly worth while. The possibilities of this were seen one day when the physical director was unexpectedly detained at the time when the smallest boys were due for their class. One of these leaders happened to be in the rooms at the time. The boy's Secretary, Mr. Ward, asked him to take the class, which he did in a most acceptable manner, putting the little fellows through their class work and games just as Mr. LaRose might have done. And yet, four years ago that same boy hadn't enough backbone to know what he was going to do next. He had to wait and see what somebody else was going to do.

That is a fair sample of what Y. M. C. A. methods can accomplish along certain lines. But we have a duty even more important and far more delicate than that of teaching boys self reliance.

A boy's ideas are really all prejudices—he does not have opinions until later—and we all know men who never get beyond the prejudice stage in mental development. It is natural for boys to hold as their own views, the views of those they like and admire. Boys are keen observers and the honest opinions of their older friends when backed up by daily example make a deep impression upon them. But there comes a time when these prejudices—if they are to be wise and beneficial—must be changed into true opinions. That is where the Y. M. C. A. benefits the boy the most. All the influences of past acquaintance and confidence are ours to be drawn upon. All the experience of meeting daily a hundred or more boys is at our command. And above all, if the boy has been a member of one of the Bible Study clubs we have a basis of common understanding and trust to work upon which can be gained by no one else outside the boy's own father and mother.

Then it is that the boy, unconsciously at first, begins to define manhood and manliness. He comes out from the sheltering influences of boyhood and the time when prejudice and friendship determine his views, to all the temptation and unsettling of newly discovered physical and mental strength. This time of re-adjustment is one of great importance to the boy and of great difficulty to all those who care for his future. If the boy comes from what is called most untruthfully, the better class, the danger and importance are doubled. This is the time of life when he knows everything, has done or could do anything: when he chafes at all restraint as being unworthy his noble spirit. Anything that can be termed "good" seems to him to be childish and he copies all the worst qualities of the men about him with the idea that he is manifesting his manliness and independence.

Boys get over it you say? So they do, sometimes, but too often the marks of the conflict are left upon them: too often it is only the varnish of civility and polite society hiding a moral disorder within.

What the boy needs is a friend and a strong, understanding friend, not a master to rule him sternly, to break his will, as some people delightfully express it. We do not want the wills of our boys broken, we want them trained. We want the boy to be master of himself and it is only by patience and consistent moulding that this is accomplished. It is the aim and endeavor of the Y. M. C. A. to provide that friend which the boy needs. We want the boys to come to us before the time of adjustment comes so that we may have time to gain their confidence and time to study their individual characteristics. In the Gym we exercise their bodies to teach them physical control of their muscles. In the Sunday afternoon meetings we try to implant prejudices to right living that shall be most practical and helpful; in the clubs we come into close touch with them as friend with friend so that later when the lad needs help, he may have a store of memories to which we can appeal, and above all that a mutual regard and sympathy may exist between us, to act as a guiding instinct where the eye cannot see.

I have been watching this past winter the working out of just such a condition and change as I have been describing to you. The boy was a good boy, though at home he had many dangers and difficulties which were spared most boys. He wanted to do what was right and to make the most of himself, but just what was right and just what was the best became his problem. Almost every evening found him at the Association where his brightness, skill at games, and all around cleverness made him everybody's friend. He fell in with a crowd of young fellows, as almost every boy does sooner or later, whose idea of manliness was cigarettes, cheap talk and cheap theatres. This had started along with them but never stopped his evenings at the Y. M. C. A. We saw very quickly what was happening and our concern was very great. But there had been a friendship established between us and a sympathy that comes from understanding. Upon that friendship and sympathy, the result of years of acquaintance, we could now draw. By force of example, by words uttered in the hope that he might hear and apply them we did all we could to show him his companions in their true light. One Sunday afternoon, a speaker after an able and convincing talk, asked the boys there to lay aside the things in their lives that were not wholly right, and to try hard to live the right and for the right. That afternoon right then and there, the boy turned his prejudices into opinions. He changed from a boy to a man, and a man to be proud of. In a way it was a sudden change, but much more truly there was nothing sudden about it. For years we had been teaching the boy in one way or another what was right and what was manly. All the influence of years of acquaintance had been moulding his prejudices and ideas until now when the direct question was put—close ye this day whom ye will serve—he was ready to hear and answer.

Only the other day I was talking with his employer, "why," said he, "I never had such a boy," if anything is wanted, he is the one who knows where to get it; if anything is lost he is the one who knows where to find it; if any sort of emergency comes up, he is the man who can meet it." You say this is a sudden change and not lasting? I wish I could show you the lad's face, his whole character is written there, open to every one who cares to look and has eyes to see. It is a noble face, with some of his trouble and all of his decision stamped upon it. Today he is trying to help other fellows in the way he himself was helped.

This is the work and these are the methods of the Newton Y. M. C. A. I believe absolutely in the work and in the boys. There never was a time when our opportunities were greater or our future more promising. It is with the greatest hope and expectation that I ask your sympathetic and cordial support.

Weeks and the Navy

Congressman Weeks made a spirited speech in defence of the navy in the National House recently. He gave the details of the naval court martials during the last forty years to show the impartiality of its judgment and closed with the following peroration:

The midshipman when he enters the Naval Academy is pretty raw material, and while the physical and mental training which he receives does not insure his being a great officer or great seaman, there is developed in him the naval spirit, a keen sense of duty, regularity in habits, respect for proper authority and obedience, all of which fits him for the great variety of duties which will come to him in his professional career, and which in any career combine to make the good citizen.

It is easily the best system for the development of the naval officer which has been established, and not only prepares the graduate to perform his routine duties in time of peace and war, but the habits of thought, of manner, and of body which he obtains are the foundation of all his activities and efforts throughout his entire service. But even if the professional accomplishments and efficiency of the naval officer afloat is admitted, it only tells part of what should be said for the graduate of the Naval Academy. Twenty-five years ago we were as weak in ordinance, motive power, and every detail of naval equipment as in ships, but the development of these accessories has kept pace with the growth of our naval architecture, and the most gratifying part of this record is that we have not turned to outside sources or to foreign aid for this up-building, but it has been accomplished by our own officers, and so successfully that the country may have confidence that no nation has better ships, better guns, better projectiles, better motive power than have we.

There is not a ship in our Navy, except the Texas, and she is about to go to the scrap heap, and the smaller craft acquired at the time of the Spanish-American war, which has not been designed by our own naval architects, every member of that corps today being a graduate of the Naval Academy, and all of these ships, including the Texas, have been built in this country under the supervision of our own naval constructors, so that the Navy may properly claim that it has furnished the fleets which we can so reliably depend upon.

Every gun of large caliber has been built at our gun foundry at the Washington Navy-Yard under the supervision of our own officers, and not only that, but the machinery which has been used in this work, which can be viewed any day by any Member of this House, forming as fine a plant for such a purpose as there is in the world, has been either designed or revised by our own people, so that we may claim the entire credit for this work. The engines and boilers used on our men-of-war have been designed by our Bureau of Steam Engineering, and the officers who run these engines are today entirely the product of our Naval Academy. The electrical equipment which now, to such an extent, fills our men-of-war, has been entirely adapted to the purpose for which it is applied by our own constructors and officers; in short wherever we look in the naval service we see nothing but efficiency and accomplishment. There is nothing in the records of the immediate past to show that in professional accomplishments and in personal honor the officers of our Navy do not compare favorably with our naval officers in any period of the nation's history or in the same characteristics with the officers of any military force in the world, and I submit to this House that the recital of this record should remove any doubt which the people may have had regarding the efficiency of our Navy at this time and should strengthen confidence that no backward step is being taken, but that it is living up to its history as the equal, if not the superior, of any existing naval establishment.

WASHINGTON LETTER

As the rate bill is shaping itself in the final days of the struggle, it looks as though the amended measure when it goes back to the House would be much more drastic than the original Hepburn bill. One of the most important of the several amendments that have been offered is that of Senator Spooner, offered this week, which aims to prevent the endless litigation that a court review of the Commission's findings would entail. To put his plan briefly as possible, he provides that in case of an appeal to the courts from the findings of the Commission, the railroad shall pay into court the difference between the rate fixed and the rate complained of with an additional six per cent. interest on the money involved. In case the court decides in favor of the complainant, the railroad is to pay the difference and the six per cent. interest on the money so held up. This would if enforced make the railroads almost as anxious to conclude a case as the shipper and would put an end to dilatory motions and prolonged hearings such as would otherwise be sure to follow. It is even provided that the payment shall be made to the person who has in effect paid the freight, even though he may not be the actual shipper. This would work in the case of a farmer who had sold grain to an elevator based, as is frequently done, on the freight charges, to some central market point. In that case the farmer would be the beneficiary and would receive the money instead of it going to the elevator company.

But the Spooner provision is not nearly so drastic as the proposal of Senator McCumber to make rebating punishable with fine and imprisonment. This is avowedly a blow at the Trusts, for wealthy men, who do not care particularly about fine such as any court might impose, have a rooted aversion to going to jail. The provision makes the penalty of rebating a fine of three times the amount paid in rebates and imprisonment for not more than five and not less than one year. As if to clinch the matter and to render the penalty as heavy as possible, the Statute of limitation which is in the nature of things only three years, is extended to six years in the matter of rebates. The law is of course not retroactive as that would be unconstitutional. But evidence may reach back from the time of the action for six years, not of course antedating the passage of the bill.

Opponents of the Free Alcohol bill are coming out of the brush, so to speak, but the biggest one is still in hiding. There was a hearing before the Senate Committee this week of one George Clapperton, representing the wood alcohol interests of the northwest. It is just possible that in his evidence Mr. Clapperton tried to kill two birds, for he came out frankly and said that his opposition to the bill was that it would kill the wood alcohol industry. He said that there was $15,000,000 of capital invested in the business and that 15,000 men depended on it for a livelihood. He did not say, which is probably the truth, that both of these figures were largely overstatements. But what he did say was that there was no likelihood of the bill hurting the Standard Oil Company. Now of course from a popular point of view this has been one of the most attractive features of the bill, to which the Standard, but Mr. Clapperton says "Tut, tut, the bill will not touch the Standard but it will hurt us." This would render cheap alcohol none the less attractive to the public but it would take away somewhat from the glamor of the bill. However, the Standard is keeping very still, after its method whenever it can, and there was a strong suspicion at the Capitol that Mr. Clapperton might have been putting in a sideways word for the Standard and trying to render the bill less attractive on the plea that it would not hurt the Octopus after all.

In a recent number of the Zion's Herald, we find the following tribute to its former publisher, the late Alonzo S. Weed. He was a Christian gentleman of that dignified and gracious type of which we see but few examples nowadays. He had friends everywhere, for it was natural for him to make them, and, once attached to him, he was so considerate, kind, and always helpful, that he "never lost a friend." He was so sympathetic, generous, and wholly unsuspicious, that he could never distrust his friends. He believed the best things of them, and if in any degree disappointed in any one, he always had a ready word of apology and explanation for them. This quality was especially noticeable in all his relations with his colleagues, the editors of the paper, and the workers in the office generally. If an employee was ill, he was the first to call and offer relief. We recall his unusual consideration and kindness under such experiences, as others will, with peculiar tenderness now that he is gone. His heart remained to the last as sympathetic and tender as that of a child, and his eyes would suffuse with tears when he heard of any distressing affliction which came to his friends.

He was a man of incorruptible business honor. He was not temptable. No business taint of any sort ever found place in him. No man of duplicity or with the spirit of graft ever approached him. He was absolutely honest in the sense that Paul prescribed when he said: "Provide things honest in the sight of all men." It was because he had made a reputation of spotless integrity that he was sought as publisher of the Herald following a chapter of financial history when the Wesleyan Association sought above every other qualification "a man who could be wholly trusted."

He was a model father; and was not this the reason that God so blessed him in his children? No father ever loved children more than he, and no children ever deserved it more fully. Perhaps the greatest joy of his life in the last twenty-five years was found in his children. While the most affectionate of fathers and considerate to an ideal degree in granting to them all the privileges of children as they developed to mature life, he seemed even to be more of a companion than father. Precious beyond the ability of tongue to tell is the inheritance which the children received from their father. He impressed his own manliness, courtesy and high-mindedness upon them.

Attention is called in another column of the Swimming School in The Allen Gymnasium. The season for boating and bathing is at hand, when the ability to swim is the only safeguard. Few cities have any pools for this purpose and in none can a more beautiful one be found. An efficient instructor makes learning easy. Private lessons are given if desired.

Suburban Tennis.

The new Suburban Tennis League began its tournament last Saturday with single and double matches at Newton, Allston and Riverside, straight wins being the feature of the day's play.

At Allston, Newton Centre completely outplayed the home representatives, T. R. Plympton defeating Hollis, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, while C. G. Plympton won from W. R. Emerson, 6-0, 3-6, 6-0. In doubles Johnson & Johnson defeated Hollis & Chipman, 6-2, 6-0, while F. H. Hovey and E. R. Spence won from Emerson & O'Brien by 6-3, 6-0.

At Riverside the B. A. A. easily won from Wellesley, R. Bishop beating E. H. Fay, 6-4, 6-3, G. Beals winning from J. S. Seabury, 6-1, 6-2. In doubles Bishop and Beals defeated Edmunds & Fay, 6-1, 6-2 while C. Bishop and F. L. Beals won from Seabury & Whiting by 6-2, 6-1.

At the Hunnewell club, the local men were unable to make headway against the talent put forward by the Brae Burn, I. C. Frigate beating Blakemore, 6-4, 6-3, Dr. Cummings being defeated by W. S. Fitz, 6-0, 6-3. Dana and Blakemore lost to Leonard & Wright, 6-0, 6-4 and Howe and Loring being defeated by Fitz & R. Leonard, 6-2, 6-0.

Correspondence

Newtonville, Mass., May 14th, 1906.
To the Editor of the NEWTON GRAPHIC:
Newton, Mass.

Dear Sir:—
As a daily passenger of the B. & A. line, I want to praise the management, for opening the gates and having trains in readiness, for the suburban depots on the line. Old people and infirm, as well as the healthy people, find it very tedious to have to wait outside of the gate for a train to be made-up, without opportunity of entering the cars and obtaining rest before starting. Trains should be made up at least fifteen minutes before starting. It is indeed, very provoking to arrive at the outside gates and have to stand waiting for a train to be made up. The waiting-room is too far off, to be of any benefit, and accordingly one feels very uncomfortable standing for any length of time, outside of the gates.

Of late, the Railroad Co., has been very accommodating, in having the trains made up early before starting. Now to blame the Railroad Co. The brakemen on the cars, insist upon having the rear doors of the cars entirely closed, and request that you board the car at the forward end, and walk back, in order to procure a seat. No reason has ever been given for such rule. If the car is open at the front door, it should also be open at the rear. It is very aggravating and tiring, to have to walk to the forward end of the car, in order to enter. It seems absurd, to enforce such a rule, when passengers do not understand any reason for the same.

The Boston & Albany's attention to details, is quite essential to its preserving record of being oldest and best managed Railroad, starting out from Boston.

Passenger and Stockholder.

Dog Show.

The Ladies Kennel Association of Mass. is to hold a dog show, June 1st and 2nd, at Woodland Park, Auburndale, in aid of the Floating Hospital.

The entries close May 15th and any one wishing to enter a dog, should apply to the superintendents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Middlebrooke, 521 Washington St., Boston, for particulars and prize lists.

There are over 200 prizes and all breeds are provided for. It only costs $1.00 to enter a dog.

The dogs are to be benched under a tent and will be protected from heat or rain.

THE SUMMER RESIDENCE of Mr. FRED I. PRATT, at the foot of Mt. Kearsarge, one and one-half miles from North Conway, and over 100 feet higher elevation, IS FOR SALE.

It is most charmingly situated, being entirely surrounded by lofty mountains.
It consists of about 20 acres, extending into the celebrated Cathedral Woods
the grandeur of which cannot be surpassed by anything of the kind in the country.
It is a direct line through the magnificent stretch of lofty pines, you reach the Intervalle Station, on the Boston & Maine Railroad, and in close proximity to all the hotels of the Intervale section, so popular with the summer tourist. The house has all the modern conveniences: the purest of mountain spring water, bathroom, electric lights, cemented cellar, with large Smith & Anthony furnace, sealed overhead eleven rooms, including seven large chambers, and large store attic; fine piazas on all sides, three open, fireplaces, and all the luxuries of an up-to-date house. Connected with and belonging to this property is the finest bowling alley in the State. Two regulation alleys, the large casino, covering 1200 feet, 14 feet stud, finished in hardwood (smeared and polished), with floor prepared for dance-ing, and a grand big fireplace capable of accommodating a four-foot log. The location cannot be surpassed for the mountain scenery, and being within 60 miles of Portland and but 14 miles from Boston, make it the most accessible location in the mountain region.

This property, including the furnishings, is in perfect order.

Kearsarge Village has facilities for easy communication with the whole country, being supplied with Post Office, telegraph and long distant telephone, daily newspapers, and all the accessories incidental to a typical New England town.

bers of the re-organized board of health,
indicates the satisfaction which has been felt with the result of their work in the past. Newton is indeed fortunate that it has citizens of this class willing to spend time and effort in service which brings little but fault finding and criticism.The police have begun to summon au-tomobilists into court for violations of the speed law, the Chief having found that forbearance and courtesy have ceased to be virtues. When lackbrained owners run machines at full speed
through such narrow, crooked streets
as Hammond street at Chestnut hill, a few months imprisonment is none too much for them.Alderman Weston was a trifle hasty
in killing the order to provide additional money for the Care of the Contagious Sick. The contract between the city and the Newton Hospital calls for a certain rate of compensation and these bills
must be met. At the same time, the alderman should be commended for the questioning attitude he has taken, as full explanations cannot hurt the city's interests.We give considerable space this week to the report of the recent meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs,
and desire to call special attention to
the interesting and instructive address of the president. We have heard many compliments during the past season on the excellence of our women's page, and
with this interesting issue, take occasion to assure the ladies of Newton that we appreciate their interest in this department of the GRAPHIC.The political sea this fall will be undisturbed so far as the councillor nomination in this city is concerned, as Mr.
G. Fred Simpson, who was a formidable candidate before the Republican convention in 1904 has withdrawn in favor of the candidacy of Mr. Seward W.
Jones. This action on the part of Mr.
Simpson, who can consistently claim to be the logical candidate this year, from the splendid run, made under adverse conditions two years ago, is most generous and indicates a remarkable regard for party harmony.Mr. Jones will receive the united support of the Republicans of Newton, who recognize his long and successful efforts for the party and his skill in political affairs.Junk licenses were thoroughly debated at the last meeting of the aldermen and close votes were cast on the matters where the License committee was itself divided. In one sense the course of action outlined by Alderman Palmer to grant
no new licenses and to limit licenses to citizens and persons who have not broken
the conditions of former licenses is highly commendable. To require such conditions, from the present undesirable
class of applicants, provides a safe course
of action, but it should be understood that these limitations are not binding
when a better class of applicants appear.
This is the case in the Miskella petition and we are glad that the license has beengranted, in spite of the adverse report of the committee. The committee were technically right in its reports on both the Shriberg and Miskella licenses, but we believe the best interests of the city
have been cared for in refusing one and granting the other.

Mr. Edward C. Bellows.

Mr. Edward Clarendon Bellows died
in Boston last Friday after a brief illness aged 42 years. He was a man with a most lovable disposition, quiet and reserved in manner and had strong home tastes. He was a travelling salesman and attended to his business until about two weeks before his death. A widow and one daughter survive him. Funeral services were held from the family residence on Maple street Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Frank B. Matthews, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church officiating and the remains were taken to Wollaston for burial.

address will be by Prof. William Darnall MacClintock of Chicago University and his subject will be, "Living in the Spirit of Art."

Among Women

In response to the appeal sent out by the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs for clothing to be sent to San Francisco, nearly 2000 garments were received and have been forwarded. So much came in that Mrs. Martin was unable to accommodate them at her office
and secured through the courtesy of the Clafin estate the use of an unoccupied store in which to have them packed.
Mr. Harrington of Hunting's Express kindly carried the nine barrels to Boston free of expense and they have been shipped through the Massachusetts Relief Association without charge. This is an excellent example of what may be done by the Federation when an emergency arises.THE BOSTON & MAINE GUIDE TO
The Seashore, River and Mountain Resorts of New England
Sent Free to any Address.Vacation days are close at hand! Already those sportsmen who seek solace
and enjoyment in the pleasures of angling have journeyed to their rendezvous;
while the thousands of other vacationists
who find delight in the fresh breezes of
the seashore or the pure mountain air,
are planning and preparing for their annual rest. There is an easy way to do it!
The Boston & Maine Railroad has carefully made a selection of resorts and
compiled the information in a beautiful booklet of 80 pages, containing over thirty half tone reproductions of typical vacation scenes, enclosed in an artistic cover. On the inside of the cover is a delightful half tone reproduction of the residence of Denman Thompson, of Old Homestead fame. The book contains a list of some 2000 resorts all told, the hotels and boarding houses at the principal northern resorts, their accommodations, rates per day, per week, etc.;
also some choice descriptive reading regarding the mountains, seashore and inland resorts, and a large folded map of the Boston & Maine Railroad and connections. This booklet is indispensable to the tourist or vacationist who is planning a summer outing. It will be mailed free by the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, to any address.BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.Of course the Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives realized,
when it decided to investigate the bribery
charges on the Bucket Shop Bill behind closed doors, that such action would be severely criticised by the Press and by the public at large. Such anticipated public opinion has not been found wanting in the slightest degree since the announcement came from the Speaker's room Wednesday of last week. The evening papers that day printed in letters
as large as a man's hand, the words
"Star Chamber" and the action of the committee was characterized in language of the most pronounced type. The expressions of disapproval were not confined to such unworthy examples of journalism as the Boston American and the Boston Traveler, but even the Boston Transcript had a headline which read "Star Chamber Reasons" and the Springfield Republican the next morning had a significant paragraph, as follows:"Massachusetts House of Representatives will serve itself and the public interest by making the deferred investigation as searching and public as possible. Meanwhile District Attorney Moran's advertisement of the State is proving only too effective for evil, as the newspapers of the country bear witness."In spite of the un American aspect of the Star Chamber and the unpopularity which enfolds a secret tribunal, it must be conceded that there are advantages in adopting such a course; especially in this case, where the House seeks vindication at its own hands. The legislature has always some very annoying matters and situations to deal with. In the first place, there is the element within its own membership that never should be members of a law-making body. This is the very worst condition confronting
every legislative body, and is, by no means, absent from the present aggregation on Beacon Hill, in spite of the endorsement given by Mr. Luce the other day as to the purity and high-mindedness of the House. Then there are the representatives of unreliable and sensational newspapers who whisper rumors
and create "news" regardless of consequences. The influence of this class is largely confined to what they think they exercise, which is about on a par with the estimate of the lobby valuation of the so-called lobby influence.An interesting question arises in connection with this whole matter. Massachusetts has numerous courts; under the constitution, the chief of these is that which instrument designates as the General Court, and the House of Representatives is especially created by the constitution as the "grand inquest of the Commonwealth". Now, how often do we hear of any of these subordinate courts investigating themselves? Occasionally, individual Judges are called down, but in this State, such action is so rare as to be entirely lost in judicial history. If there is any one thing that the people insist upon, it is the purity of their courts, and yet, we find our highest court frequently investigating itself. In this latest instance, the House is spending a week or two trying to find out if there is any truth in the inferences of a sensational District Attorney, or the wild vapors of a stray victim of wheels in the head. It is small wonder that the Committee on Rules hides itself away in a Star Chamber to do its family washing. Has it come to this?
Can the stream rise higher than its fountain? Can we have pure courts and an impure court creator?This brings us to allude to the most significant declaration made by any member of the present legislature. At the session of the Senate last Friday,
when the Luce lobby bill was under consideration, President Dana came down
from his chair and took the floor in opposition to the measure. In the course of his remarks, Senator Dana said that the bill was "perfectly useless", and declared that the only remedy for corruption in the legislature was "to send a higher class of men to represent the cities and towns." For years, the writer has contended in season, and often times out of season, that this was absolutely the only way in which to cast out the unclean thing. To a certain extent, this condition has already been reached. Mr. Luce was well within the way of truth when he declared that the present was the most conscientious body of men he had ever sat with. If this legislature was composed of as large a percentage of incorruptible men as may be found among the thirty-six from the four Western counties, the bribery talk
would fall upon deaf ears and be read
by incredulous readers, if indeed there should be any bribery talk. Mr. Dana must have felt gratified at the result of his protest, for nothing has appeared more certain than the passage of the Luce bill up to the moment that President Dana took the floor against it. As a result of his speech, the Senate killed
the bill by a very decisive vote. Slowly, but surely, the different communities are coming to realize that the quality of the legislature rests entirely in the people,
in the selection of a Representative, and that the question of fitness is a question
for them to settle, rather than the aspirant for office. The day is rapidly going by when a desire to go to the General Court shall be considered a quali-fication, and with the passing of that day, the day is opening when, in the words of Senator Dana, "a higher class of men" are to be chosen from the people. In the meantime, the Committee should compel the men who have been summoned before them to get down to facts, and have done, once for all, with innuendos, slanders and falsehoods."The staid Senate" is often referred to, or at least, used to be, as a body possessing unusual qualities of firmness
and decision of character, but the Senate of this year has seldom stayed (or staid) long enough on any one matter to be counted. The roll call has often put men on record who have just previously voted their "honest convictions" in a voice vote the other way. "Next fall's election" has not infrequently reversed the judgment of men who seem to stand firmer in an off year than they do with the cool, calm eye of an impending election looking them in the face. As the classic Callender used to say "Forsan et haec olim meminisse ju-vabit."Here is the Senate record for one day last week:The Luce lobby bill, passed by the House, was killed, 9 to 18.The College taxation bill was rejected
by a rising vote of 13 to 13, but a roll call resulted in ordering the bill to a third reading, 17 to 15.The House Bill to regulate the height of buildings outside of Boston was killed in the Senate.The Bill relative to the weekly payments of wages by counties was rejected
by a rising vote of 13 to 13, but on a roll call was passed to be engrossed, 15
to 11.By a vote of the House that body refused to concur with the Senate in the substitution of the Lawrence Bridge Bill.The investigating committee was a good deal interested in what is known as the "re-write system" in a certain class of newspapers that have their publication offices in Boston. The re-write system was more of a mystery to it,
even than the mysterious rebate of which so many know so little. As Bodurtha of Blandford said the other day, "The only relate that I know anything about, is re-baiting my fish hook Saturday after I get home from the legislature."To return for a moment to the investigation. Up to the hour of this writing the investigation committee has not touched upon the vital point in its so-called probing. With the evidence close at hand the committee is groping in the dark and clutching at empty air. Some of the members of Speaker Cole's committee on Rules must know where the sore spot lies, and if the investigation fails in its purpose there are men who will know why. But of course it will not fail, and before this paper goes to press
the investigators will doubtless have solved the problem, consequently, it will be no secret to assert here that if the bucket shop bill was defeated by bribery
the only guilty persons, before the law,
will be other than members of the legislature.A few years ago the rather surprising decision of the full bench of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts was handed down, announcing that in this state it is no crime for a man to sell his vote.
The briber may be punished, and so may he who attempts by threats of intimidation to constrain a voter, but the voter may go so far as to put up his franchise at public auction or private sale without violating any law whose force is recognized in this Commonwealth, or incur any penalty himself.
The court recognized the fact that at

Prominent Boston Man Passes Up
from the Baldheaded Row.Our readers will be interested in the story of Mr. Henry Routley, a popular tailor of Boston, Mass., which he relates below. It seems that Mr. Routley has for years been
very bald, in fact he has for years been the
mark for the jokes of his acquaintances, who
have gazed him unmercifully about it—but
read his story:"For fifteen years I have been growing
bald and my friends have made my head a
mark for all kinds of jokes, particularly about
my being the dean of the 'baldheaded row.'
I used every known means of inducing a
growth of hair, but found nothing which would
help me. I was told about Dr. Wilson's English Life To The Hair and the work it was
doing—I tried it—used six bottles and a fine
new growth of hair appeared and my hair is
today as good as ever it was. Six months
after beginning the use of Wilson's Life to
the Hair the new hair is still growing and I
have induced many of my acquaintances to
try, all with success. It is the finest hair growing in the world."Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grows new hair, cures falling hair, dandruff,
itching, scalp eruptions. It has a pleasant odor, will not color the hair, but
will restore the natural color. It is not sticky
nor greasy. Price 50 cts. per bottle at druggists, or sent on recd. of price by Albert

Unity Club Concert.

Last Friday evening's concert by the Unity Club went down in the annals of Newton's musical history as a concert long to be remembered. It is not often that a whole evening's program is made up entirely of pleasing numbers. That is, for each individual member to please every single person.

The Channing Unity Club Chorus as a chorus leaps with one bound to a high pinnacle. It is certainly a well trained body of singers and each member should feel it an honor to be connected with such a chorus. Their work of last Friday evening left little to be desired and that little is something only a most extended experience can bring to them. At its first public appearance this chorus performed work with a professional brilliance entirely unexpected. Perhaps some of the credit should be given to the conductor and director of the chorus, but the bulk of it belongs to the chorus itself for they were the ones who really performed the work.

The chorus numbers were gems of musical tunefulness and the first number, a selection from Gounod's "Philemon and Baucis" gave but a faint idea of what was to follow. The Boquet of Vandeville, made up of four of the latest popular songs was indeed a surprise and received well deserved encores. The ladies part song, was a novelty and they did well with it. The last chorus of all, Piusini's "Raft Song" was really the most pleasing number of all the choruses and perhaps that is why it was placed at the last end of the program. At any event the chorus numbers were all good and each one seemed to be just a little more pleasing than its predecessor.

Mrs. Martha R. Franklin, a mezzo soprano possessing a markedly pleasing voice, won instant favor with the audience. Her selections were exquisitely rendered and left nothing to be desired. Especially good were the "Happy Song" by Del Riego and the "Brighter Day" by Mascheroni. This last one was accompanied by Mr. Franklin as flute obligato and made a fitting close to a pretty group of songs.

Miss Amy Plant assisted the orchestra on the Chorus numbers and her work at the piano was a surprise to all who have not heard her before. Her flexible and yet firm touch adding proper tone color to the work of both the chorus and orchestra.

During the evening, the ladies of the chorus were presented with a large basket of pansies, tastefully arranged, made up of bouquets for each of the ladies of the chorus. This presentation made a very pretty picture and break in the evening's program.

Miss Plant received a handsome bunch of bridesmaid roses and a large bouquet of American Beauty roses was presented to Mr. Handley who deserves much credit for his work in training the chorus and directing it and the orchestra on this evening.

Ralph Smalley as cello soloist, was indeed well received and his first number, Casella's "Chanson" heartily applauded to which he replied with a pretty love song.

The work of the orchestra deserves more than a passing word. A. H. Handley and his Philharmonic Orchestra Club have become by-words of musical excellence wherever they have appeared and Mr. Handley is to be congratulated upon the excellent work of his musicians.

To many this was his first appearance in the capacity of conductor, but his work in that most trying position was performed with a grace and finish that could not help but be pleasing, possessing as he does a true musical idea of musical interpretation he is able to draw with him and convey to the chorus and members of his excellent orchestra just what his wishes are and just what his moods are and just what effects he desires to produce. And most marked was this strong personality in the overture which opened with a double forte two-four movement and which afterward worked into a slow andantino movement of excellent sweetness and then back again into a presto vivace movement for the closing strain. At no moment was there any hesitation as to his desires, his baton called for and the audience heard just what he thought they should hear. In the Legato number, a three-four movement of moderate speed, he varied the tempi at just the right places at one moment holding the melody in seeming check and then carrying it on to the sublimest heights of musical attainment until it was no wonder that his fellow musicians at the close, applauded with the audience the results, for they knew too that they had been able, through his direction, to achieve a success. It was after this number that the orchestra played the Torch number from the "Henry VIII" dances and which received a well merited encore for it was conducted and played with excellent tone color, commencing as it does, loud and well marked, and finally dying down to a double pianissimo and then working up again to a double forte, just as one would imagine such a dance to do.

The string number too was given with artistic finish and being so entirely different to the rest of the program, made a pleasing change. In fact, it was a request number and that it pleased was shown by the reception it was given.

The last march, "La Reine de Sabas" is seldom played for it requires an orchestra of ability to give it, being full of brilliant trumpeting and heavy work for the strings, and making a fitting close for a program full of a wealth of musical performances.

Mrs. Almira D. Hall.

Funeral services for the late Almira D. Hall, widow of Armory Hall, who died at her home on Richardson road, Newton Upper Falls, last week Wednesday, were held at the Hall residence last Friday afternoon at 2.30 P. M., Rev. O. W. Scott of the Methodist church officiating. The Beethoven quartet sang "Consolation", "We shall meet beyond the River" and "Lead Kindly Light". The interment was at the Newton Cemetery.

Real Estate.

Henry H. Read has sold the Ernest P. Heyer estate situated No. 84 Parker street corner Ridge avenue, Newton Centre to Mr. Frederick C. Rising, who purchases for a home. The property consists of a frame dwelling house and 20,000 feet of land having a large frontage both on Parker and Ridge avenue. The whole is assessed on a valuation of $7,300 of which $3500 is on the land.

Through the office of Alvord Bros. & Co., George E. Wales and others have sold the estate No. 29 Greenwood Street corner of Dudley Street, in the Oak Hill district of Newton, to L. T. Vignolles who will occupy the place as a residence after extensive alterations. The estate consists of a house, stables, and about 9-1-2 acres of land.

"The Broken Bowsprit."

The St. Bernard's Aid Society of West Newton should be congratulated on the artistic and financial success of the dramatic presentation of James R. Condren's beautiful New England romance, "The Broken Bowsprit," last Thursday and Friday evenings in Edincoth hall, Waltham. The seating capacity was taxed to its utmost and much enthusiasm was manifested throughout the performance. The cast was strong, well balanced and showed careful training. James R. Condren was manager; Frank Gordon, stage manager; J. Johnson assistant and Bernard D. Farrell, Daniel Kenslea and Daniel Kneeland were in charge of the properties. The character parts were taken by Kathryn Ryan, Thomas J. Lyons, John McClosky, Benjamin Gibson, John F. Jordan, Elizabeth H. Hyde, Kathryn Lyons, Martin H. Garrity, Andrew C. Hughes, Stacia Peters, John Ryan, B. T. McGrath, D. L. Kenslea, E. J. Smith, B. J. Ryan, J. P. Ryan, Frederick J. Kneeland and Michael R. Healey.

New Horse Mart.

Moses Colman & Son, who were for 40 years located at 121-125 Portland street, in the old National theatre building, now occupy the spacious former car building of the Elevated company, at the junction of Main, Sixth and Harvard streets. They are prepared to offer for sale horses, ponies, carriages and harnesses, and general stable goods. During the next 90 days this firm will sell carriages and harnesses at lower prices (quality considered), than can be found elsewhere in the state. They make a specialty of pony outfits. Their telephone is 1603-3 Cambridge. All Newton cars by the way of Harvard Sq pass Mart.

Druggist Fined.

Alexander Fox, a druggist in business at the corner of Watertown and Chapel streets Nonantum, was in court on Tuesday, charged with selling liquor to Richard Maher of Lincoln road, when he was in an intoxicated condition and without a physician's certificate. Testimony was given by Officers Goode and S. Z. Burke in regard to the sale and also in regard to examination of the druggist's books which failed to show that Maher had signed for the liquor. The officers also said that the books had been tampered with since they had examined them. Mrs. Maher also testified that she had warned the druggist not to sell to her husband. The defence attempted to set up the signature of one Murphy as the signature of Maher. Fox was fined $150 and held under $300 bonds on an appeal.

Autoists In Court.

Judge Kennedy has done a land office business in fining automobilists for over speeding during the past week, altho the amount of the fines imposed is not large. On Saturday, George Wilson of Lynn and Benjamin F. Adams of Newton were each fined $10. On Wednesday, Isaac R. Thomas of Marlboro street, Boston, appeared with counsel to fight the charge of over speeding on Parker street, on complaint of Mr. M. B. Jones, president of the Newton Centre Improvement Society. Mr. Thomas claimed that he did not own the car and was not in it at the time stated. Secretary Fletcher of the Mass. Highway Commission testified as to the ownership of the car in question and James Sweeney and Harry W. Cook corroborated Mr. Jones testimony. Evidence was also introduced to show that Thomas was fined $20 in Quincy on May 16. Thomas was fined $20 and held under $300 bonds on his appeal. Yesterday Rene Lomier of Boston, Clarence Highbroom of Boston, Newton Flint of Wellesley, Fred Hussey of Somerville, Andrew O'Brien of Boston, Henry F. Arnold Jr of Wellesley and George M. Bessett of Wellesley were all fined $5.

Acted "Just Like Percy."

A clever and successful presentation of the three-act comedy "Just Like Percy" was given in the Parish House of Grace church, Wednesday evening, by a number of the young people connected with the Sunday School. There was an appreciative audience which occupied every available inch of space in the parlors and study. The performance was in the interests of the choir and the proceeds will be added to a fund for the purchase of vestments. Each part was admirably taken and much praise is due the players for very commendable work. The cast included: Leverett D. G. Bentley, Dudley Warner Fitch, Herbert H. Howe, Elizabeth Horsfall, Mary Cutler, Susan R. Lovering, Grace Deal and Edythe A. Sargeant. The music was by Weston's orchestra.

Accident.

The coachman of Garret Schenk of Weston while driving a horse and buggy towards Auburndale near the Weston bridge on Wednesday, was run into by a large touring car which came out from behind a team which was passing at that moment. The horse was cut, the buggy badly smashed and the coachman thrown out.

Clafin Field.

The following circular has been sent out this week in the interests of purchasing the Clafin Field for athletic purposes.

The most urgent need of the school for some years has been a suitable field for its various athletic interests. Facilities for the mental development of the pupils have doubled and trebled in the past decade, but as yet, nothing adequate has been possible for their physical welfare.

An excellent opportunity to meet this need has presented itself. The adjacent Clafin estate, through the recent death of its owner, is now on the market. It seems made by nature for just this purpose, being level, of generous proportions, and close to the school. It is the last large tract of open land in the vicinity, and if its purchase is not taken advantage of, the chance to secure a convenient field will pass forever.

Certain public-spirited gentlemen have been working for some months on this matter. By means of private subscriptions they are collecting funds to buy the whole property, or a large part of it, for the city. Realizing, however, that the question of proper athletic grounds demands immediate attention, they have decided to acquire at once, if possible, enough land for this purpose.

To this end they are now asking the hearty co-operation of those who are interested in the school, present members of it and their parents, graduates, and the citizens of Newton generally. Some 280,000 square feet, or about 6 1/2 acres, can be secured on June 10th, if all will help. Please do not disregard this appeal; it is for a splendid object, out of the ordinary, and of more than passing importance.

The field will be large enough for all forms of the school's athletic activities, present and to come.

Will you do your share? You will be asked by a member of the school to purchase a Clafin Field Button for one dollar. Do not refuse. No dollar that you will ever give, will count for so much. Buy a button and wear it, thus showing you've approved the plan, and are a loyal supporter of the school's best interests.

All this must be done before June 10th. Call the matter to the attention of others, talk it, advertise it, push it.

If everyone responds quickly and enthusiastically to this call, the school for which we care so much will have, before the Class of 1906 graduates, as fine a field as any school in the country, and one worthy of it and the city.

Lawn Tennis.

The tournament for the lawn tennis championship of Massachusetts in doubles will be held by the Brae-Burn Country Club on its gravel courts at West Newton, Wednesday, May 30, and following days. The challenge trophies, representing the championship, presented by the club last year, become the property of any team winning them three times, not necessarily in succession, and in addition first and second prizes will be given, first prizes to the winners and second prizes to the runners-up. Messrs F. G. Sulloway and J. B. Larned, the present champions will be called upon to play the winners.

The tournament is open to residents of the state, including students at any college or school in the state. Play will begin at 10 o'clock sharp on May 30 and at 2:30 o'clock on the following days. All matches will be two in three advantage sets, except the finals for the all-comers and the challenge match, which will be three in five advantage sets.

Entries will be received by the tennis committee, Brae-Burn Country Club, West Newton, Mass., up to 6 P. M., Tuesday, May 29, to whom all communications should be addressed.

Street Railway Notes.

The Newton Street Railway Company has commenced operation of its Riverside Extension, the double track line built from Norumbega Park, Commonwealth Avenue over private right-of-way to Riverside, close to the B. & A. Station. This line enables passengers to go from Boston on every other Park Street Subway Commonwealth Avenue Car to the Boat House at the above point, and to the recreation grounds.

In addition to this service, during the summer, extra cars will run from Norumbega Park, Newton, via Washington St. & Commonwealth Ave. to Riverside; also extra cars will run from Walnut to Riverside.

Natural Causes.

The death of Mrs. Mary Predergast, who resided with her father, Patrick Donahue at 338 Cherry street, has been investigated and found to be from natural causes. Mrs. Predergast left her home on Friday evening to go to the fire of railroad ties near the Hospital. She was accompanied by John Fogg and while crossing a field near the Commonwealth Avenue bridge was suddenly taken ill and fell to the ground. Fogg endeavored to help her and finding his efforts futile hastened for Dr. Putnam, but the woman was dead before they returned. Mrs. Predergast was about 25 years of age and had not lived with her husband for some time. She is survived by one child.

THEATRES

Castle Square Theatre—During the final week of the dramatic season at the Castle Square Theatre, Dion Boucicault's sporting comedy "The Jilt," will be revived for the first time in seven years. It is Boucicault's aim in this play to show in dramatic and striking fashion the deep rooted British craze for racing and the race-track, and he has made this idea into a powerful plot that is filled with emotion and humor. Every character in the play lives in a high fever of excitement until the race has been run and won by Phyllis. The cast at the Castle Square will be headed by Howell Hansel and Lillian Kemble.

Norumbega Park—With the opening of Norumbega Park on its customary inaugural day, May 30, the tenth anniversary of this delightful natural resort on the Charles River will be celebrated and Manager Albert promises a better and more beautiful park than ever with not a few very important improvements. Even before entering the park patrons will find a vast improvement for the entrance gates have been considerably elaborated to provide ample accommodations for handling the ever increasing crowds of patrons. The restaurant continues under the direction of L. E. Bova and this season the verandah concerts will be given by Knowlton Allen's orchestra. The grand open air theatre with its fine roof protection from both sun and rain has not been overlooked in the matter of improvements and redecorations and here as usual will be given the afternoon and evening entertainments of vaudeville, comic opera with weekly change of bill. The program for Decoration Day, May 30 and the balance of the week will be an exceptionally strong one including some of the best known vaudeville headliners. At the foot of the North Slope has been installed this season what is known as the Chalet landing and as a new feature this season a service of launches has been installed for trips down the beautiful Charles. This will fill a long felt want on the part of many patrons of the park who want to go out on the river but do not care to exert themselves with canoe or row boat. In the Chalet will be found a great variety of electrical surprises and a leading feature will be made of the Japanese quarters where these interesting and enterprising people of the Orient will be found in native costume and offering for sale Japanese souvenirs and works of art many of which they make for patrons while they wait. In the zoological garden the patron will find many new and interesting animal specimens and nearly all the old favorites. One of the most interesting attractions will be the Norumbega Park veteran monkey Felix with Mrs. Felix and the baby Felix who was born at the park a year ago, all living happily together in their own little cottage. The fad of canoeing and boating on the Charles has taken on increased activity this season and the famous livery of the Norumbega Boat House is more extensive and better than ever. Special attention is being given to class dinners at the restaurant during the month of June this season. The custom observed last season of taking advance orders for reserved seats for the theatre by phone will be in vogue this season and the indications are that more patrons than ever before will avail themselves of this opportunity of making sure of their favorite seats at the afternoon and evening performances. There will be band concerts all day in Music Court, May 30 by the 1st Reg't Band.

Benefit.

A dramatic entertainment by children from the Dorothea Dix Hall, and members of the Utopia Dramatic Club in "The Three Graces" will be given for the benefit of the Newton Woman's Exchange, at the Hunnewell club, Tuesday, June 5, at 8 P. M.

Mr. Wm. Pearson.

Mr. William Pearson, a resident of Newton for several years, died in Revere Wednesday of last week after a long period of failing health. He was a native of Cambridge and was 52 years of age. Deceased was a travelling salesman by occupation. Funeral services were held from the home of his cousin, Mrs. Daniel Waugh on Court street, Friday, at 4 o'clock, Rev. George W. Bicknell, pastor of the First Universalist church in Cambridge, officiating, and the interment was in Cambridge cemetery.

High School Notes

Former members of the High School were much in evidence at Soldiers' Field, Cambridge, last Saturday with Capt. Stephenson, C. J. Leonard and Francis H. Burr on the base ball team. B. K. Stephenson winning the shot put and M. H. Stone winning the two mile run.

To all Mothers and friends of the Vacation School in Newton Centre:

Your interest and presence is solicited by the ladies of the committee who are preparing an operetta "Bo Peep," to be given by the school children on Saturday, May 26, in the Mason School hall. The ladies feel that they can promise all a very enjoyable afternoon and are sure that they have only to call attention to the affair to be assured of the aid and cooperation of all the good citizens to help support this very necessary addition to our educational scheme in Newton Centre. This Operetta is one of a series of entertainments given by these ladies in place of personal solicitation, as has been the custom in former years.

Mr. Pickernell's Opinion.

In the opinion of F. A. Pickernell of Sargent street, assistant to the president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., who was in San Francisco on business at the time of the disaster, the city will be rebuilt and will be better than ever before. He had been in the city for about sixty days before the earthquake and fire, and he remained for about three weeks afterwards, and has only recently returned to his office in Boston. The telephone company had thirteen buildings in the city of San Francisco, and Mr. Pickernell visited them all, and also studied the effects of the disaster minutely. The result of his observations is that the city suffered comparatively little by the earthquake, the main damage being from the conflagration which followed.

"The damage to the thirteen buildings of the telephone company," says Mr. Pickernell, "would not have exceeded $25,000 had it not been for the fire. Some of them were destroyed by the fire and in the cases of others the interior was burned out, but the walls were not cracked." Mr. Pickernell brought back some interesting photographs showing the comparative effects of the earthquake and of the fire. He also brought with him his Red Cross badge, made out of a part of an old shirt and two bits of red flannel in a cross, his passes and other badges which enabled him to go about the city.

Regarding the effects of the earthquake on the streets as shown in numerous published photographs Mr. Pickernell says that the rails were twisted and the fissures opened only in sections of the city built upon made land. The loose earth slipped and caused the damage. The Pacific States Telephone Company has its wires in the business part of the city in conduits, and these were intact except in two places. In one place the damage was caused by a gas explosion, and in the other the damage appeared to be due to dynamite, although it could not be determined exactly.

Before the disaster a system of salt water fire mains and storage reservoirs was under discussion, and this probably will be built, so that an accident to the regular water service will not leave the city without water to fight fire. The telephone company had some wires in continuous operation, and Mr. Pickernell sent the first message which by telephone and telegraph reached the Boston telephone office. It had wires to Oakland all the time, which were used by the military, the firemen and police. Mr. Pickernell gives much credit to the United States Army and to General Funston for the manner in which the city was handled during and after the fire.

When the earthquake occurred Mr. Pickernell was at the University Club, and he went directly to the main office of the company on New Montgomery street. After the fire he lived at the home of Henry T. Scott, president of the Pacific States Telephone Company. This was the house once occupied by President McKinley and Mrs. McKinley during a visit to San Francisco. After the earthquake it became the headquarters of the Crocker Bank and of the Clearing House Association. It faces on Lafayette square, which was filled with refugees. Often in the evenings, after the first few days, the refugees entertained themselves with phonograph concerts and vaudeville entertainments.

Mr. Pickernell describes an interesting sight which he witnessed in one part of the city. The railway company had run its cars out of the barns to save them and these cars were occupied by refugees and became the homes of many. The people built stoves out of old bricks and lived very comfortably.

When he left the city the citizens' committee were considering plans for rebuilding the city and were getting ready to build wider streets and adopt new building laws. Such buildings as the Merchants' Exchange, the Crocker, Union and Mercantile Trust had been cleaned up and were being occupied. Many one-story buildings were being put up, and the Imporium, the largest dry goods house, was doing business in a one-story building. Many of the light frame buildings tipped over because of poor under-pinning, rather than because of the force of the earthquake was so powerful.

The first telephone exchange to be re-established in a burned building was opened last Saturday in the Bush street operating building. This is a nine-story structure, which was not injured by the earthquake, but which was burned subsequently. Another instance which to Mr. Pickernell's mind showed that the earthquake was of less importance than the fire, was to be found in the Southern Pacific Railroad bridges in the city. These had concrete foundations and steel arches, and were used continuously by heavy trains after the earthquake.

That San Francisco will still hold its place in business and in commerce is certain, Mr. Pickernell believes. Oakland will gain temporary advantage, but it will not supersede San Francisco as the leading city of the coast. Everyone has confidence in the future of the city, and they are going ahead to build it up again on a grander scale than ever before.

Spectacular Fire.

A brush fire along the railroad location on the north side of the circuit railroad adjoining the Hospital grounds, spread sufficiently last Friday night to set fire to a large pile of old sleepers which were stored at that place. Before it was discovered the fire had a good start and when the fire department which had been summoned by a still alarm, arrived, there was little to do but to prevent its spreading. A long line of hose, some 2000 feet was laid from the Hospital grounds and about half the pile was saved. The fire made a brilliant scene and illuminated the sky so that it could be seen for many miles. Police headquarters were kept busy answering inquiries regarding the fire, an estimate of over 75 telephone calls being made by the officer in charge. The damage cannot be estimated as the ties were of kindling wood value only.

Man Blown Up.

Cornelius Lane of Walnut street, Newton Highlands, while engaged in blasting at the city ledge on Circuit avenue on Wednesday afternoon was the victim of a premature explosion, which took him off his feet, so violent was its force. He was attended by two physicians and removed to the Hospital where it is said he will lose one eye, and is suffering from a broken arm and numerous burns and bruises.

Mrs. Clara J. Hall.

Mrs. Clara J. Hall, wife of M. Otis Hall, of Westwood road, Newton Centre, died last Friday after a long period of failing health. She was a native of Foxboro, where she was born 51 years ago. Funeral services were held from the Church of the Messiah, Auburndale, Monday at 12 o'clock, Rev. John Matteson officiating, and the remains were taken to Greenland, N. H., for burial.

Clubs and Lodges

Gethsemane Commandery, Knights Templars, will attend divine service at the Church of the Messiah, Auburndale, next Sunday morning. Rev. John Matteson will preach the sermon.

Mr. Ida Council Royal Arcanum holds a subscription dance next Monday evening.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The regular meeting of the board of aldermen Monday night was enlivened with the first real debate of the year, and the question of licensing junk dealers was well threshed out.

The meeting, moreover, had a larger number absent. There were more absent than before, including Aldermen Bowen, Clarke, Converse, Day, Hall, Hunt and Underwood.

At the hearings on petitions of the Telephone Company for attachments on Irving street, of the Gas Light Co to rebuild pole line on Forest st. and on the proposed alteration of Norwood ave no one appeared. On the matter of altering Union st, Mr. E. A. Brown, who claimed to have no legal notice of the hearing, entered a protest in order to save his rights.

The mayor transmitted the invitation of the Charles Ward Post to participate in the exercises of Memorial Day, and it was accepted.

The appointments of Dr. Francis Geo. Curtis, William F. Harbach and Geo. Royal Pulsifer as members of the board of health, and of Dana Libbey as a constable were unanimously confirmed.

The mayor also sent in a communication from Mellen Bray offering to give the city 3324 square feet of land at the junction of Institution avenue and Union street and it was subsequently accepted.

Notice of Edith Whittemore of accident caused by defective sidewalk on Woodward street and petition of Sarah J. Rand to abate sewer assessment were referred to the Claims committee.

Petitions of Edw. J. Cox for a minor's license, of Frank Richards for a Common Victuallers license, of Clementi Vitti and Filippo Vitti for street musician's licenses, of D. Brontman for a junk license, and of Nutting & Young for license to run two power boats on the Charles river were referred to the Committee on Public Franchises and Licenses.

Petitions of W. C. Strong et al for watering on Beacon st., of G. F. Malcolm et al for sewer in Pulsifer st., of C. B. Southard et al for discontinuance of Welland road, of the Upper Falls Improvement Society for control of the hall in the Wade School for village uses, and of the Newton Centre Improvement Society for a drinking fountain at Commonwealth ave and Centre street, were referred to the Committee on Public Works.

Petitions to move buildings from P. J. Curley, from Franklin st to Brighton line; from G. F. Malcolm, from Langdon st to Pulsifer st; from R. W. Lord, across Lombard st and of J. F. Munroe from Knowles st to Jackson st were granted.

Hearings on June 4 were ordered upon petitions of the Telephone company for locations on Farwell and Perkins sts., and on the Gas Light Co to repair conduit on Homer st.

Hearings were ordered for June 18 on petitions of the Newton & Boston Street Railway Co to relocate poles on Centre st and in Newton Highlands square.

A notice from the City of Boston relative to perambulation of boundary line was read and filed.

These committee reports were received:

From the Finance Committee recommending a grant of $25,354.75 for city expenses to June 15; recommending a temporary loan of $25,000 for grade crossing work, south side; orders for which were subsequently adopted. The committee also transmitted the report of Amos D. Albee, expert accountant on the books of the city treasurer, recommending an additional $1000 for Care of Contagious Sick, and approved recommendations of the Public Works Committee for sewers in Gay St, Pennsylvania ave and Cheney et. and $750 for improving grounds around the Thompsonville school. A report from the Public Works committee favorable to the last matter was also received.

On recommendation of the Franchise committee the Gas Light Company was granted a relocation of poles on Needham st., a pole location on Summit st., attachments on Dedham st and Highland ave, the Telephone Company was granted pole locations on Ward st., attachments on Ward st and Meredith ave., Filippa Marchetta, a street musician's license and A. A. Kneeland an Intelligence office license. On recommendation of the same committee Alex Brown, for an Innholder's license and Jas. Bird for a wagon license were given leave to withdraw.

On the matter of junk licenses the committee reported against granting petitions of H. Shelman, Morris Greenwood, Joseph Hoffman and H. Melman, in favor of granting a license to Philip Shriberg, by a vote of 4 to 2 and against petition of John J. Miskella by a vote of 4 to 3. These reports were considered together.

Alderman Palmer:—The Committee on Franchises and Licenses have a very difficult problem to solve in considering the junk licenses. During the past few years there have been complaints that there were too many junk dealers in the City of Newton and that of that number too many were located in one section of our city, damaging property there, and being a source of nuisance and annoyance to their neighbors, also that they had become lax in living up to the conditions of their licenses, that they were buying junk from minors, also new material that plainly had been stolen. There had been convictions of certain dealers for these offenses and their licenses had been revoked. The Committee in order to meet the situation decided that for the future they would not grant licenses except to citizens. I will explain that nearly all of the junk dealers are foreign born men, most of them of one nationality, those that were citizens had become so through naturalization. It was also decided that no license would be granted to anyone who had been convicted of a violation of the terms of his license. Following along these lines the Committee reported to the full Board leave to withdraw to all parties that came under these heads. They also gave leave to withdraw to all new applicants.

New applications were made by all of the old holders of the licenses who had been given leave to withdraw and there was one new applicant. The Committee believed they were entitled to a hearing and they gave them a hearing at their last meeting. The applicants with their friends were here and told their story. The officers told their side of the case. The new applicant gave his reasons why he desired to change his business from peddler to junk, he made a most excellent impression. The result of the deliberations of your Committee are in the report as made tonight.

As far as the party Shriberg is concerned, he was summoned to Court for having bought junk of a minor, he was discharged because he was not present when the junk was bought, his wife was the purchaser. He was also charged with having done work on the Lord's Day, after having been warned not to do so. This case was placed on file. He was fined for having threatened to brain a woman, the wife of a neighbor junk dealer, because of a quarrel among their children. The strongest point against this man seemed to be the denial of Judge Kennedy to give him his final papers. His papers were finally granted to him in Boston.

As far as those that had been convicted are concerned, we gave them leave to withdraw although we considered it harsh treatment. If our contention was correct and the number of licenses should be reduced, there is no better way of weeding them out than declining to give a license to a man who had broken the conditions under which he had received his former license.

As far as those who are not citizens are concerned, we feel it is self evident that a license should not be granted by a government to those who do not hold allegiance to that government.

In regard to the new applicant, Mr. Miskella was born in New Hampshire, moved to Newton in his boyhood, has lived here over twenty years, worked for twelve years in one business until that business moved away, is married, has a growing family, is honest and industrious, law abiding, he thought that he could make more money as a junk dealer than as a peddler. I have no doubt that if a license was granted to him that he would conduct his business in a perfectly satisfactory and honest manner and would never have a Court record. The plea was made that we should raise the class of people by granting licenses to native born citizens when they applied. If this holds good we shall easily raise the number of junk dealers to twenty, thirty or forty. A few years ago we had over twenty licenses, last year we had almost that many, we have already granted twelve this year and one more tonight. Some people said one junk dealer was enough for Newton, while others said six or seven, and still another said two for each Ward was sufficient. Stating my own convictions, if the applications were all new, I would vote for a license to Mr. Miskella. I would vote in favor of all of those junk dealers we have granted leave to withdraw before I would vote for a new applicant. I consider the punishment of the offenders has been enough. I believe the lesson to the other licensees has been taken to heart and that for the immediate future at least we shall have very little trouble with the junk dealers. I hesitate to take the business away from one who has conducted it for five, six, or seven years, I certainly will not vote to take it away from him and give it to a new applicant, no matter whether he has a present business or not, whether that present business pays him or not, our text was to reduce the number of licenses in a certain section of our City, I will not forget the text by voting the first new license to that section.

Alderman Weston:—The alderman from Ward 3 has very clearly presented the junk situation here in Newton. I regret that in one case I do not agree with the Chairman. To my mind the case of Shriberg, to whom the Committee by a vote of four to two, recommended granting a license, was in exactly the same position as those to whom the Committee has voted to grant leave to withdraw. Although he was not at home when the junk was bought from a minor, although he did not actually buy it, his wife bought it and turned it over to him, it was his business, and he is morally guilty, and he is in the same class with the other four and if we give these other four leave to withdraw we should give him leave to withdraw. This is especially true when we consider the other facts in regard to this man, and it is very significant that Judge Kennedy doubted his word and refused to give him his final naturalization papers. As a general proposition junk licenses are somewhat of an annoyance they tend to depreciate real estate in their vicinity and wherever we can get a chance to vote them down we should do so, and bearing these facts in mind I had to disagree with the Committee and vote against Shriberg.

Alderman Doherty:—Mr. Palmer has very carefully gone over the matter and handled the subject in style. He lays stress on the fact that there are too many junk licenses, he also lays stress on the fact that they are all settled in one section and also that we have endeavored as far as possible to relieve that section. That part of it I am agreeable to because a majority of those dealers are in my section and they are a source of annoyance and trouble and we would be glad to get rid of them, because having so many junk dealers in a section does not increase values. I made a suggestion that no licenses be granted except to bona fide citizens, I had in mind when I made that motion that we would reduce the number of licenses and in that way take some out of our section. Nothing was done by the Committee to distribute these locations. My idea was that at least two junk dealers to a Ward would cover the City pretty well and if they were distributed they would not be an annoyance. In reference to those men who have lost their licenses through their own fault, through violation of the law, little sympathy can be extended to them.

It seems that when we get a chance to give a license to a man who has always lived in Newton, has bought property here, is paying taxes and has a good record, that it would be policy to encourage that class of men rather than discourage them. I have known this Miskella for over fifteen years, during that time I have never heard anything against him, I know for a fact that he is one of the model men of the section and it seems to me that even if we have started to reduce the number of licenses in the City that we should draw the line in a case like this, not because it is this man, but because this kind of a man should be encouraged. I have had lots to say on this subject in the committee rooms, I am as anxious as anybody to relieve the Nonantum section of the junk dealers and with reference to Miskella, I think when we started this agitation it was not so much to reduce the number of junk dealers as it was to weed out the undesirable class who were conducting that business, and I think if this man's application was in our hands at the time we decided this question there is little doubt but his application would have been acted upon favorably. I think those who brought in a minority report thought that rather than shut out a man of this character we should encourage them to enter into the junk business.

Alderman Bishop:—There are two of the applications and two only on which the Committee has disagreed—Shriberg and Miskella.

Taking up the Shriberg case first. The alderman from Ward 3 presented his case most fairly, but I think there is perhaps something which only those of us who have some personal acquaintance with Judge Kennedy and with the method with which he conducts his Court and the ability he displays there, which gives us insight into this question. Shriberg has never been convicted of any offence. There has, however, been an odor of smoke about him. He has been in the police court and has been acquitted, but as the Alderman from ward 7 said, he was morally guilty, and Judge Kennedy knows him better than any other official in the City of Newton, how he appears, the story which he tells, and a man in Judge Kennedy's position knows when a man of that character is telling the truth. Now, why did Judge Kennedy refuse to issue to Shriberg his final papers? Because he thought he was not a proper man to become a citizen of the United States and Shriberg had to go to Boston and get his papers there. If Judge Kennedy refused to give Shriberg his final papers is not that enough for us when we are considering the quality of man who comes before us for a junk license. Now that brings me up to what I think is the main question, the reason why we are opposed to junk licenses, the reason why we have a desire to cut down the number.

Two or three years ago the number of junk licenses ran up to twenty, last year the number was in the vicinity of twenty and this year we have granted twelve thus far. You have heard very little complaint from citizens, from your neighbors, as to junk men, the expression of opinion that junk licenses should be cut down has come from members of this Board and that feeling has spread from the Franchise committee itself. We have heard of complaints which have been made in the police court of the violations of these licenses and it has come from one class of the junk dealers. Among the number licensed we have two of American parents, the others are foreign born. It is a disagreeable matter to discriminate, but it is a marked fact that all complaints have come from junk dealers of one nationality. The junk business in itself is not illegal and it is certainly reputable and honest and as decent as any business. That being so, what is the objection? The objection comes from the violations of the law from those who have heretofore held licenses. That is the real reason, we have too many men of an irresponsible class in the business. As the Chairman told you, we have adopted certain rough rules, in applying those rules, I think we should look to reason.

Taking up the case of Miskella, he was born in New Hampshire, came here when he was young, he is thoroughly imbued with all the ideas of a citizen, an upright member of the community, he worked for one concern, the Stanley Dry Plate Company, for twelve years, until they moved away from the City. He owns his property, he lives in a community where the effect of another junk license would have no bearing on the value of the property, he is next door to a mill where there is always more or less refuse and he is the very type of man, who if you are going to elevate the junk business you want to get into it, and if you see a gleam of light in this whole question I think you should grant the license to Miskella.

Alderman Beck:—Having known something of this man, Shriberg, I fully agree with this last gentleman who has spoken and also with Alderman Weston.

Alderman Cabot:—I should like to ask if it was decided that there should not be more than twelve, if you made any rule?

Alderman Palmer:—There has been no hard and fast rule made as yet, I hardly think we felt like making a definite number, and as far as the Board is concerned we do not know what action they might take upon our report, some of those we grant leave to withdraw the Board might see fit to grant licenses. We have made no definite number.

Alderman Cabot:—I am very glad to hear from the chairman of the license committee such a statement, I think it was fair and to the point. But if no rule has been made that we shall license but twelve men in the City of Newton, it seems to me that if there is a man who has applied who has all the qualities that have been spoken of for him here, there is no reason why we should not grant him a license.

Alderman Webster:—I would like to ask the last alderman if he would be willing to vote for ten or twelve more if they had the same qualifications?

Alderman Cabot:—I would say that we have very few men come here with the character that this one has. We have formerly had twenty men but it seems to me that here is a chance to license a man who might be continued in the business. As the chairman of this Committee knows, I have spoken in favor of Hoffman having a hearing. I have been interviewed by him and others in his behalf and all I asked for that he be given a hearing and I think the Committee was perfectly able to decide the case which they did. In regard to Shriberg there is a division of the Committee and a question. And in reply to Alderman Webster I certainly would not vote for half a dozen more men unless he wanted some in his Ward.

Alderman Webster:—It is a very good thing for the alderman to be very particular about the kind of men we have for junk dealers, and I wish they were as particular about some other licenses we grant. I do not think anyone can accuse me of getting a man a junk license if it can be avoided. I believe the punishment we are giving, leave to withdraw, is the harshest kind of treatment. Those men have six to eight children, especially in the case of Hoffman, he has been in business about eight years, there has never been a complaint against this man. Those people are all of foreign nationality, they are very excitable, and you let an officer under the same conditions come into your yard and you would act guilty. This man Hoffman was brought into Court and convicted because he could not understand what was wanted and the officer searched around the place and found some sheet copper about three or four pounds. The only offence the man has been guilty of, Alderman Hunt has traded with him for years and considers him a thoroughly honest man. Mr. Speare of Newton Highlands came before the Committee and stated that he knew this man to be an honest trustworthy man, and we as a Board of Aldermen say he shall be punished his business taken away from him, his carts and horses he now has made useless, and his family and children injured for an offense he was not guilty of. He immediately told where he got the material, told who the party was and the officer went for the party and he was convicted, this man was forty years old. I think it is wrong in the case of Hoffman to take his license away from him.

Now in the case of the gentleman who wants a new license for buying junk. I agree with the chairman of the committee that if it was a question of giving only him I would be the first voting for it. It is immaterial how good qualifications a man has, because when we grant one we are under moral obligations to give that man a junk license from year to year and for that reason I have always been in favor of reducing the number.

Alderman Doherty:—I did not intend to take up the case of the dealers whose applications had been rejected by unanimous consent of the Committee, but inasmuch as the alderman from Ward 5 has spoken in regard to Hoffman, I think it is only fair that Greenwood should be discussed. With the exception that Hoffman bought his from one other than a minor the cases are identical. Greenwood has a small family and the conditions under which he was brought into Court are like Hoffman. He bought this junk, a small amount, from minors, eighteen cents he paid him, it was left at his place on Friday after sundown and according to the custom of his people they do not do any business after that hour until Sunday or until sundown the following day. In this case the pipe was brought up to his room. He claims that he knew the boys and it was his intention to call the attention of the police to the fact that he had this lead pipe, in order that they could take whatever steps they saw fit. He claims that on a former occasion he brought some junk in West Newton and brought it to police headquarters and was told by the Chief of Police that he had done just right in bringing the junk to headquarters and he was told that if an owner could not be found for the property it would be turned over to him. We were unanimous in dealing with this case and it was not my intention to make any statement regarding Greenwald, but if Hoffman is entitled to a license I firmly believe the other man is.

Alderman Cabot: I want to say in regard to Hoffman that he came to see me and wished I would intercede for him. I told him I had nothing to do with granting a license and that all he could do was to make his application and go before the Committee. I was in sympathy with Hoffman as much as the Alderman from Ward 5, but there have been certain things come out of the hearing that have cast a little light reflection on him and I appreciate how easy it is for a man like him to get confused before a Judge and not be able to tell a story as he would tell it to the Committee. I cannot see where his case is so very different from that of Greenwald's.

Alderman Bishop: I think Mr. Hoffman's case should be considered by itself. He made an excellent appearance in many ways before the Committee. The facts as related by the Police Department were these: Some sheet lead and some sheet copper had been stolen from the roofs of one or two buildings, a large coil of copper wire had also been stolen from the Newton Club. These were reported to the Police Department. They sent postal cards to all the dealers notifying them that this property had been stolen and asking them if they had it in their possession. In the course of six or eight days after they commenced to search among the various junk dealers. Officer Butler went to Hoffman's house and asked him if he had any sheet copper or sheet lead or copper wire and Hoffman, who can speak excellent English, stated that he did not. Early the next morning, Officer Butler who had become suspicious went there with another officer and Hoffman came down, threw on his clothes hastily, and they went out on to the barn and went all through the barn, finally they went up into a loft and they got to a wash boiler and turned that out and there they found the copper and the lead. Now there was a large sheet of lead and there may have been some misconception in Hoffman's mind in regard to the sheet lead and copper, but if Hoffman had used common sense he would have known that the wire had been procured from some place where an Italian was not likely to get it honestly. Now his explanation of the postal card is that he has a little girl and she mislaid the postal card and he forgot about it. But there is one redeeming point,—that he told the police who sold him the junk, of course he did, he was pinched, he was caught with the goods, to save himself he had to tell the man's name. It seems to me that Hoffman was aware he stole the goods and acted as a man with stolen goods in that he hid them.

Alderman Palmer: I believe the committee weighed the testimony that was brought before them and I believe we all feel still that the punishment is very severe, I believe that each and every one of us are in the same class as far as their testimony is concerned, I suppose they are clearly guilty. It is for the Board to say whether the punishment is too great for the crime, I am inclined to think so myself, and if I had supposed that it was well for the City I should have entered a plea for these, it is hard to withstand their request and I should like from one standpoint to grant their licenses, but as chairman of the Franchise Committee, for the best interests of the City, I will stand by the report that has been made and by the explanation I have made of it.

Alderman Doherty: I move they all be acted upon separately.

Alderman Webster: I think it would be unfair if it was not stated what the evidence was in one other case—Shelman. I think it was the most pitiable case, a man who could hardly understand English, he appeared honest and truthful and it was on this evidence that he was convicted: it seems that a Chinaman gave a boy a stove grate and the boy took it to the junk dealer and he asked the boy where he got it, he said he got from the Chinaman, and he asked the Chinaman and the Chinaman said he gave it to the boy, and the junk dealer bought it of the boy and he thought if he had the consent of the party who gave the grate he had a right to buy it, and I think so myself. He made a very decent appearance and the evidence seemed to me to be hardly sufficient to merit the punishment he received. I would like to ask if I have given that evidence correctly.

Alderman Palmer: One of the strongest points of it all was that these parties had been convicted in Court before the Judge.

Alderman Doherty: Shelman we all sympathized with him, our reason for not granting him a license was that he had been in the City but two years and had not become a citizen.

Alderman Holmes: The fourth man, Meilman, the evidence for or against him has not been stated.

Alderman Palmer: That man has had a license for about two years, he is not a citizen, H. Meilman is his name.

Alderman Holmes: I was asking for personal information, I believe with the chairman of the Committee that it is a hardship to take away a man's license, if we acted on each individual case I think I should vote that the recommendations of the Committee should be followed, for without the evidence I do not see how I could pass judgment. I should rather they be kept all together than voted on separately.

Alderman Doherty: I withdraw my motion and substitute a motion that we act on these four together.

Alderman Holmes: In making that suggestion I did not want to oppose anyone else, it is hard for one to pass on these unless they were in the Committee.

The report granting leave to withdraw to Shelman, Greenwald, Hoffman and Meilman was accepted.

The report in favor of granting Shriberg a license was not accepted, seven voting in favor and seven against. This license is therefore refused. The report of leave to withdraw on Miskella was also negatived, by a vote of 8 to 6. This license was then granted, Aldermen Beck, Bishop, Burr, Doherty, Holmes, Stone, White and President Carter voting in favor, Aldermen Bosson, Cabot, Ellis, Palmer, Webster and Weston in opposition.

Alderman Weston questioned the order for $750 for improving the grounds of the Thompsonville school and the matter was tabled. The Alderman also criticized the order for $1000 for Care of Contagious Sick, asking if this amount could not be obtained by transfer rather than by a direct charge to the tax levy. Alderman Bosson replied that the money was absolutely necessary and should be charged as the committee recommended. Alderman Weston voted against the order, which thereby failed of passage, 14 votes being necessary.

Orders were adopted for $445 for a water main in Pulsifer st and for laying out and altering Norwood ave.

On motion of Alderman White the Mayor was requested to arrange with the Town of Needham for adequate police protection on the banks of the Charles River, the Alderman stating that some action was necessary in order to protect our water supply from contamination from the foreign population who commit all kinds of nuisances on the city's land.

On motion of Alderman Weston the Board of Health was requested to furnish the board with the items of expenditure for the Care of Contagious Sick, and the board at 9.40 adjourned.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—The vaudeville program announced from Keith's theatre for the week commencing May 28 is one which is sure of appealing strongly to the tastes of all amusement seekers. Katie Barry, the diminutive little English comedienne, who scored a tremendous hit in "Fantana" and "The Chinese Honeycomb" by her original and clever acting, is to be the featured attraction of the bill. Miss Barry appears in the half cockney, half celestial costume which she originated in "The Chinese Honeycomb", and in her own inimitable fashion finds the shortest road into the good graces of her audience. Many of her lively songs have been whistled from one end of the country to the other already. The surrounding show is a notable one, evenly balanced between the comedy and interesting and includes W. C. Field, late of "The Ham Tree", popular and eccentric juggling comedian, William Simms, the well-known character comedian, assisted by Edith Conrad in "Things I have Seen on the Stage"; the Four Fords, brothers and sisters, in the greatest dancing exhibition ever seen in the varieties; Jules and Ella Garrison, in their mirth-provoking travesty, "An Ancient Roman"; George B. Snyder and Harry Buckley, in the musical comedy specialty, "Blatz Wants a Drink"; Ed Gray, "The Tall Tale Teller"; the Tenji troupe of Oriental wonder workers and magicians; Ethel Clifton and company, in a comedy sketch and St. John and LeFevre, in a singing and dancing specialty. Prelle's dogs, the greatest canine act in the varieties, have been specially engaged for the juveniles. The kinetograph will show an entire new list of comedy and interesting motion pictures.

Tremont Theatre—At the Tremont Theatre for the Spring and Summer season, Mr. Henry W. Savage is to present that unique comedian, Harry Bulger, in a striking musical comedy, "The Man From Now," and it is promised that it will be one of the most complete and elaborate productions ever made in Boston. The book and lyrics of the new play are by John Kendrick Bangs, one of the foremost of American humorists, and Vincent P. Bryan, than whom there is no more versatile writer of lyrics in this country. The music which is said to be unusually whistleable, is by Manuel Klein, who has contributed all the music for the New York Hippodrome since its opening two years ago, and also provided the score for that very popular comic opera, "Mr. Pickwick." He is said to have arrived at a new strain in popular music, as his collaborators have in their story and the lyrics incidental to the operation of "The Man From Now." Harry Bulger in the stellar role will undoubtedly be particularly acceptable to patrons of the Tremont Theatre, who learned to best appreciate him by his unusually clever work in Mr. Savage's "Woodland," which was one of the Tremont successes. The part given to Mr. Bulger is most congenial and no doubt he will score new successes by his delineation of the role. In his support will be found other deservedly popular Boston favorites, including Helen Hale, Walter Lawrence and Charles Meyers, all of the "Woodland" organization, Frances Demerest, John Keefe, George O'Donnell, Lucy Tonge, and an unmatchable singing and dancing chorus. The story of "The Man From Now," will be told in a prologue and two acts and most of the time the scenes are laid a thousand years ahead of the present day and the adventures which befall a man from "Now" who ventures into a realm in that far distant day. The production will be mounted and staged with the characteristic completeness which marks all of Mr. Savage's productions and another success should fall to him.

The ceremony took place at the bride's home in Joplin, Missouri. Mr. Spooner and family were former residents of Newton Centre and Newton Highlands.

—On the lawn of Mrs. John Lowell on Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, next Monday and Tuesday open air theatricals will be given by the Ben Greer's Woodland Players. "As You Like It," will be presented Monday afternoon; "The Tempest," Monday evening and Tuesday afternoon; and "Midsummer Night's Dream," Tuesday evening. In case of storm the performances will be transferred to Jordan Hall, Boston. The proceeds will be given to the St. Monica's Home for Colored Women and Children, and the Massachusetts Infant Asylum. Some twenty ladies prominent in educational and social circles, are the patronesses.

Miss Maria S. Kezar.

Miss Maria S. Kezar passed away at the home of her nephew, Mr. Edward H. Faxon on Langley road, Newton Centre, last Friday. She was a native of Shirley, Mass., and was 84 years of age. Services were held from the house Monday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. E. M. Noyes officiating, and the remains were taken to Nashua, N. H., where the funeral was held in the Chapel at Woodbury cemetery. Rev. William R. Bolster was in charge and the burial followed in the Langley lot.

Correspondence

Editor of the NEWTON GRAPHIC:

Dear Sir:

At a recent trial of a gentleman in the Newton police court for overspeeding his automobile, Judge Kennedy in summing up the evidence, took occasion to "point with pride" to the leniency of his court or the police, towards persons accused of speeding, and made a statement that there had been but fourteen convictions in a year. It is not to be believed that this is due to any failure to administer justice on the part of the court; it must be attributed only to an exceedingly lax conception of their duties on the part of the police. I think any resident living in the vicinity of Linwood Avenue or Crafts St., Newtonville, would testify that at least fifty convictions a day could be made. It is a notorious speedway for dealers and others, day and night, and the dust and other annoyances are unbearable and continuous with no apparent check from the police, or courts. Tempering justice with mercy is all right in its place, but suffers on Crafts and Walnut Streets, feel that they are deserving of some consideration from the city.

Woman's World

Annual Meeting of the Massa- chusetts State Federation.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation was held in the Congregational Church, Melrose, on Thursday, May 17. The meeting was called to order soon after ten o'clock by Miss Helen A. Whittier, president. Mrs. Anna J. B. Adams, president of the Melrose Woman's Club, as hostess, welcomed the Federation to Melrose, to which the president of the Federation responded. This annual meeting is the clearing house for the Federation work and the whole session was given over to the reports of the officers and chairmen of committees.

Mrs. Julia R. Aldrich, Clerk of the Federation, in the fourteenth Annual Report said that the Federation was now composed of 223 clubs with a total membership of 33,844, a gain of 744 since last year. That nine invitations for entertaining the Federation had been received and four accepted. The subjects considered at these meetings were along the lines of Civics, Education, Pure Food, and the Industrial Condition of Women and Children.

The Federation Bulletin has increased in size and circulation until it is now over three times the size and has more than four times the circulation of last year. It is the official organ of the State Federations of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York and also of the Executive Board of the General Federation.

A Bazaar held in Horticultural Hall, Boston, on March 14 to 17, netted over $5000.

A most attractive badge in the form of a pin has been procured by a committee appointed for that purpose and is now on sale to club women.

The treasurer reported that there is in the treasury the substantial balance of $5722 partly as a result of the Bazaar held in March.

After these reports followed the report of the General Federation Secretary Mrs. May Alden Ward:

"In the statistics given by the General Federation Secretary, Massachusetts has a very good record. There are forty-one clubs and one City Federation that hold direct membership in the General Federation with a combined membership of 8276. This is the largest number of club women credited to any state. We do not, however, stand first on the list so far as the number of clubs is concerned, Colorado, Mississippi, Illinois, Ohio, Iowa, Kansas, California and Texas stand above us in this respect."

"In no state, however, is the work of the clubs more in harmony with the work of the General Federation than in our own. The standing committees of the State Federation are identical with those of the General Federation and many clubs have complied with Mrs. Decker's request to revise their committees in order to make them correspond to those of the Federation."

"We have asked for the privilege of entertaining the General Federation in 1908 and if this request is granted we shall expect great results from the inspiration of this gathering. We are looking forward eagerly to a Biennial in Boston."

May Alden Ward.

After this came the President's Address:

The thirteenth year of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs closes today, and in no sense has it been an unlucky year. Growth in numbers and in financial resources, increasing loyalty and a closer unity, the constant broadening of the scope of our work, these have marked our progress.

The reports of our officers show a steady gain in numbers, the eleven new clubs this year bringing more members than the eighteen clubs admitted last year. Among these eleven clubs, four are located in towns where the Federation has never been represented before. The objects of all these clubs show high ideals and a sense of responsibility for community betterment.

Our numerical gain, although most encouraging, has been far outstripped by our financial advance. With about six thousand dollars to our credit, we soar at once to a lofty pre-eminence in the club world.

How we antass this astonishing wealth is now a twice-told tale. The Federation Bazaar has justified itself, not only by the handsome net proceeds, but even more by its less tangible results; the quickening of club loyalty and the broadening of good-fellowship.

With our full treasury comes the added responsibility of so administering this fund that all the Federation interests shall receive new impetus, and such new projects shall be undertaken from time to time as come within our scope. We owe a debt of gratitude to a few public spirited women who have contributed so freely of their time and money in carrying out the Federation plans, which must have halted without their gifts, and we rejoice that for a time at least our own treasury may be drawn upon for some of the important work which has been begun. The reports of our standing committees will show the necessity for this work, what has been accomplished and what remains to be done. In the name of the whole State Federation I wish to thank each and every club for its loyal aid in establishing this much needed fund.

I also wish to thank you for the prompt and generous response to the call for aid for the California sufferers. For all these excellent reasons our Woman's Club Relief Fund is not as large as it might easily be, but the sum of $1400 which we have sent to Kidder, Peabody & Co., up to the present time, is well worth the effort. $800 has been contributed by 45 clubs and $600 by individuals.

The vote taken at the last meeting in holding the General Federation to hold the Ninth Biennial in Boston in 1908, is a most important step. If the invitation is accepted the next two years will be busy ones for the Massachusetts Federation. The effort of preparation will however be far outweighed by the inspiration that we shall receive and a Boston Biennial will mean a great forward step for our State Federation.

The suggestion made one year ago that Clubs appoint committees corresponding to those of the State and General Federation has been received with favor in several clubs. While less than ten per cent of the clubs have responded, the result of this first year's experiment should be considered fairly satisfactory. Interest in Federation work is certainly more widespread than ever before, and in this connection it is significant to note that 112 Clubs have sent replies this year to the questions of our Standing Committees, a gain of 100 per cent over any previous year.

Again we must repeat the Federation Bulletin should be more widely circulated among the Club women of Massachusetts if they desire to know what the earnest, thoughtful women of the country are doing for the new philanthropy and the new education.

We hope that this coming year more clubs will adopt these two methods of co-operation with the Federation; first, to appoint certain committees to work with Federation Committees; second, to subscribe for the Federation Bulletin for as many club officials and committees as possible.

Our Standing committees are working on live up-to-date questions which directly affect our welfare as individuals, the safety of our homes and the integrity of our beloved Commonwealth. They will give food for thought and be distinctly educational, and will arouse discussion, which will often be continued at home and will do its part in educating public opinion.

"Woman's sphere is the home." Everybody tells us this, and we have always known it. Being a sphere it follows that an allround knowledge of the conditions that make the ideal home, is essential to the woman who has ambition to really fill the sphere—to the woman who is not content to shiver in a self-centered stem, unresponsive to the opportunities that surround her. And what are some of the conditions that make the ideal home? On the physical side we are confronted at once by the care for the family health, which includes the consideration of proper food values, sanitary and scientific cookery, and the whole pure food question, the safe sanitation of the house and its surroundings, and all the health precautions as enjoined by modern science. As no family can live to itself alone, these precautions should be extended to the public schools by medical inspection and to the community at large by the visiting nurse, anti-tuberculosis education and abolition of the sweat shop. The Domestic Service crisis which is imminent, leads us to the scientific study of the sources of supply of domestic workers, making the immigration question a subject of vital importance when we consider what precious interests are entrusted to our maids and nurses.

The aesthetic value of the home and its surroundings as a contributing factor in character building is determined by the amount of intelligent study which we give to the principles of appropriate and artistic home furnishing and decoration and the broader subject of outdoor art. We are inevitably led to the conclusion that civic improvement work in its sanitary and in its aesthetic phases is well included in the sphere of home interests.

The path from the home to the school, trodden daily by thousands of little feet, should not be unfamiliar to the parents who, for so many hours a day, delegate their responsibility to the teacher. All the problems of education will enlist the earnest thought of the true home maker.

In this partial review of woman's legitimate home interests we recognize that our Federation Committees are guiding us along these very lines: Household Economics, Pure Food, Industrial Conditions, The Consumer's League, Civics, the Public Health, Medical Inspection, District Nursing, Village Improvements, Forestry, Arts and Crafts, Education.

It is the distinctive glory of the Federation movement that in the gradual evolution of its program taking the family for the center, it has led the Club-woman to realize that her own home interests really include the civic welfare of the community and the standards of good government in the State and the Nation; it has led her to realize that the practical application of the merit system is not a question of politics, but that it means better homes, better schools, better cities, better care for the defective and dependent, and that the responsibility for the enactment and enforcement of righteous laws, rests in part upon the women of the Commonwealth.

We should see to it that not only our homes but our schools should provide such ethical training that the business man of the future shall have a clear vision of what is true honesty and shall stand firmly on the principles of the Golden Rule.

Our children may be drilled to salute the flag and declare their allegiance to it in a given formula but we must give them some more practical training in civic virtue if their entrance into public life is to raise the standard of good citizenship.

Let us as Club women, as mothers, as good citizens, keep our eyes fixed on the highest ideals of home, of education and of public service, remembering the words of the ancient wisdom book, "Where there is no vision, the people perish."

Two new clubs have been admitted to the Federation since the last meeting, the Marlboro Woman's Club and the Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government. Mrs. L. H. Tourtelotte, the president of the former, spoke of the work and scope of her organization, Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, the president of the other was present upon the platform and received the greetings of the audience, while Mrs. Charles G. Ames told most entertainingly the aim of this club.

The chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. Nella I. Daggett, presented the following list of officers for the new year, which was elected almost unanimously.

President, Miss Helen A. Whittier. Vice-presidents, Miss George A. Bacon, Woman's Club, Worcester; Mrs. Mary Morton Kellogg, Women's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston; Mrs. Adelaide A. Calkins, Women's Club, Springfield; Mrs. Anna T. Bush, Woman's Club, Melrose.

Clerk, Mrs. Julia R. Aldrich, Heptarean Club, Somerville.

Assistant Clerk, Mrs. Effie S. Nowers, Woman's Club, Winthrop.

Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Mary I. Wren, New England Women's Club, Boston.

Treasurer, Mrs. Katharine E. Flagg, Women's Club, Brockton.

Directors (term expires 1909), Miss Elizabeth Foster, Woman's Auxiliary of the Massachusetts Civil Service Reform Association, Boston; Mrs. Anna T. Bates, Woman's Club, Athol; Mrs. Maria L. Souther, Tuesday Club, Jamaica Plain; Mrs. Susan A. Weeks, Friday Club, Everett; Mrs. Louise M. Wood, Current Events Club, Hyde Park.

Nominating Committee, Mrs. Clara M. L. Smith, Women in Council, Roxbury; Miss Emily C. Fisher, Woman's Club, Norwood; Miss Frances E. King, Alden Club, Franklin; Mrs. Flora P. Little, Ousemequin Club, Bridgewater; Miss Mary C. Sweet, Woman's Club, Lawrence.

Luncheon was served under the supervision of the hostess club to three hundred and fifty and the club is to be congratulated upon its fine quality and the excellent service.

An organ recital was given during the half hour preceding both sessions. The reports of the Standing Committees occupied the afternoon and the only criticism to make upon them was their length. If a time limit had been fixed and abided by, it would have prevented somewhat the slight restlessness which was noticeable during the afternoon. It was surely not a lack of interest in the subject matter, for they were full of interest, but a session of nearly three hours on a warm afternoon following one in the morning of a similar length is rather more than the majority of persons can attend profitably. A condensed report submitted at the meeting and given in full in print in a subsequent number of the Federation Bulletin would accomplish the same result much more effectively.

An outline of the various reports will be given below.

Arts and Crafts Committee.

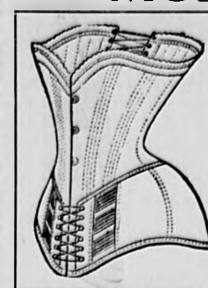

The Clubs are urged not to confuse their interest in beautiful things with the real issue in the Arts and Crafts Movement. The issue briefly is this:—since beautiful things can be made in no other way than by the free effort of an independent individual, it is plainly the first duty of a beauty-loving people to see that economic and industrial conditions are such that an individual can work independently and at the same time receive an adequate return for his labor.

Under present conditions this is well nigh impossible. Therefore it is urged upon the Clubs that they bend their energies toward such social and industrial reforms as will make a true development of the arts and crafts possible. A seemingly beautiful result is sometimes attained under wrong conditions but this should not blind our eyes to the fact that it is in spite of the conditions and not because of them.

being developed through the spirit of cooperation. The Civic Department of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, presents this report with the same belief that has made the Ulysses spirit: "Some work of noble note may yet be done"—"Strong in will to strive; to seek; to find."

The Stamp Savings System has proved to be an institution of permanency and growing usefulness in the communities where money moves rapidly. No failures have been reported in this work and more than twelve additional clubs have installed the working of the system during the past season.

The Health Department of the Civic Committee, has developed most important lines of work. The Traveling Health Library has been sent to many towns and a special library has been presented to the State. Tuberculosis exhibits in Boston, Baltimore and other places. Health Bulletin No. 1, has been prepared and circulated and through the indefatigable work and generosity of the health chairman there have been presented to one hundred libraries in the state, three hundred half tone pictures representing out door cure for consumption.

The Civic Committee urgently request that each club devote one number of its program next year to the consideration of public health. Will each club interest itself to aid in extending the work of Visiting or District Nurse until all communities are supplied?

A special series of Mothers' Meetings is commended for the consideration of the methods of presenting to children the spirit of citizenship: the relation of the individual to home as an element in human life, to the public school, church, occupations, money, government, municipal properties: public library, town hall, playgrounds, parks, roads, lights, postal system, and the various other modes of expressing social life.

The Civic Committee believes that a closer unity of work would follow in each club by grouping all civic work as a sub-committee of the Civic Committee;—Social Service, Village Improvement, Library, Public School Committee, Mothers' Meetings, Consumers' League, Stamp Savings, Health Associations, Press Committee, Philanthropy Committee, Municipal Leagues, Street Committee, Instructive Sanitary Inspectors of Tenement and spaces.

The effective mode of work of massing all these committees in conference for discussion of local details is commended.

Emily Curtis Fisher, Chairman, Civic Department of Mass. State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Civil Service Reform.

The work of Civil Service Reform has extended its scope throughout every state and territory in the Union. In reply to questions sent out statistics show that fifty-one clubs have appointed committees on this matter, while three have referred the subject to other committees. Fifty-seven meetings have been held to consider "The Merits System." Nine clubs have introduced civil service literature into the public schools. Five have organized study classes. If all clubs should do as much as has been done by a few, public office would soon be a public trust. Let us do what we can to bring about a higher consciousness and a higher life.

Gertrude A. Bacon, chairman.

Education Committee.

Again the federated clubs of Massachusetts report active work for the improvement of their public schools as well as many meetings where subjects of local educational interest have been treated. Several clubs have given pictures and casts for school buildings, others have had school yards beautified, while school gardens have been established in some places at the expense of the woman's club. One club is trying to secure a public playground for the city. A number continue to support alone, or contribute to the supporter, vacation schools, in which manual training is an important feature. Some have had classes conducted in the public schools at their expense or have succeeded in having annual training introduced as a part of the regular course. One raised the money needed to continue such classes but the School Board refused to have the work carried on. One has secured a room in a new building for manual training and the subject will be introduced when the building is finished.

Medical inspection of school children has been largely discussed, clubs have cooperated with the Civic League in trying to secure the passage of the present bill making medical inspection compulsory, some have been influential in having their towns appoint physicians for regular school visitation even before the enactment of a general law. One club has supported a visiting nurse. An attempt to double the number of members on a school board was defeated, the election of two worthy candidates to the school board was brought about in another place largely by the efforts of the club women. A full course in sloyd for girls has occupied another community at the suggestion of the club Mothers' meetings have been held in many places and parents' associations formed with the cooperation of teachers and clubwomen. As for several years scholarships have been maintained.

The School City Committee, Mrs. Margaret E. Chase, Chairman, has just brought out a most valuable publication, a pamphlet embodying the experience of teachers in the Normal School at New Paltz, New York, with student participation in school government. Those who are thinking of introducing the School City into their schools should have this pamphlet. The committee has arranged for many meetings of teachers where the School City has been discussed and five schools have recently been organized under its direction. Results must not be expected too soon, but the committee is greatly encouraged by what has been accomplished and feels that Massachusetts is making a definite contribution to the better teaching of citizenship through practice as well as precept. In twenty-three towns one or more schools use the School City or some modification of this plan. Superintendents have in many cases expressed the greatest interest and desire to establish the system in their schools. But the committee exercises supervision over the cities when started and has undertaken only what it can manage satisfactorily. It has availed itself of the services of Mr. Ralph Albertson in organizing and visiting the various school cities.

Caroline Stone Atherton, Chairman.

Forestry.

Mrs. Cora C. S. Jones, Chairman of the Forestry Committee said in part: In regard to the National Forest Reservations east of the Mississippi, Gifford Pinchot said, "The voice of the people must be heard." Club women have made a mighty effort to send the voice of New England in clear and certain tones to Washington. Six thousand women have signed petitions, hundreds of letters have been written.

The majority of clubs have forestry committees, their programs include one or more forestry days, nature study classes or organized departments of forestry. Circulars asking the condition and healthfulness of trees have been educational, and branches of trees, exhibited at club meetings, showing proper and improper pruning, have given needed instruction. Talks on birds, insects, and tree life, have aroused a deeper interest in protecting native birds. Forestry talks and literature have assisted the Superintendent of one Reform School, where nature study has demonstrated its power in moral reform. School gardens and tree nurseries have been successfully introduced.

Moth pests are laying waste the forests of Massachusetts. Cut and burn, paint and kill, continue to be the watch words. Cans of creosote and tree pruners are placed in public buildings and loaned. Women have distributed literature, held mass meetings, and given prizes in the interests of moth extermination. The plan of having the police distribute warnings by the Board of Health, and leaflets, telling the law, was originated by one club. A strong appeal was made to the Boston Board of Health to pronounce the moth a public nuisance. Superintendents of schools, tree wardens, town officials, and hundreds of school children have been guests on forestry days. Appropriations for the control of pests, have been made by several towns as direct results of club meetings. Teachers and pupils are always responsive to appeals for cooperation. Librarians have been requested to arrange books on forestry, on separate shelves. A circulating library will come into existence when the department can afford the sum needed.

The forestry program and illustrated circular has been placed in the Forest Service Bureau at Washington, D. C. Members have attended meetings of the legislative committee, and hearings at the State House, and planned to secure in 1907 an appropriation for Arbor Day observance. A synopsis of laws relating to trees have been made. Three hundred petitions favoring national forest reservations have been circulated. The cooperation of granges has been solicited, and a campaign of education in western Massachusetts has sounded the alarm on tree pests in non-infested districts. Land owners in West Upton and Orange have been influenced to develop and plant forest and waste land.

The most important work of 1905-6 has been the publication of an Arbor Day Annual by the State Board of Agriculture at the request of this department. It is to be used in the public schools. It is a valuable contribution to forestry, literature for children and the cordial cooperation of the State Board of Agriculture and the State Board of Education has been a gratifying close to our years work.

Consumer's League.

Mrs. May Alden Ward, chairman of the Committee on Industrial Conditions of Women and Children, reported that ninety-three clubs had co-operated with the work of the Consumer's League. That they had worked toward the securing of uniform laws regulating Child Labor. The General Federation is going to ask a national appropriation for the investigation of industrial conditions. Mrs. Ward spoke particularly of the work of classes of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union and urged the club women to keep in touch with reports of the Commission on Industrial Conditions.

Legislative Affairs.

The so-called "Indecent advertising bill" has probably received the largest share of attention from the clubs, but several other bills, notably that to regulate Assignment of Wages, have received very important help from a good many of the clubs.

A series of questions has been issued by the Federation Committee and sent to each club. The answers show a definite gain in interest over that of last year, but it is evident that more intensive work on the part of the Federation Committee, the individual Clubs and their legislative committees would give much better results.

The year's experience leads the chairman of the Federation Committee to suggest: That each club appoint a legislative committee, and send the name of its chairman to the Federation chairman, before July first;

That one meeting in February be devoted to a discussion of the bills endorsed, that the plans of the legislative committee can be outlined at this meeting and the cooperation of the members be secured;

That the legislative committee be supplied with a copy of the legislative bulletin;

That the clubs be represented at the hearings;

That the senators and representatives in the district in which a club is located be kept informed of the club's continuing interest in the bills;

That the legislative committee keep its club informed as to the progress of the bills;

That club members be encouraged to create public sentiment in favor of these measures.

Caroline J. Cook,

Chairman of Legislative Committee.

Library Extension.

Mrs. Sara T. S. Leighton, Chairman. The Committee has worked along the same lines as in the three preceding years, though the work has been less extensive. Three new travelling libraries, in regular cases, have been sent out, making fifty in circulation. Many cases of books have been sent to various stations to form the nucleus of local libraries and to rural schools.

Tennessee.

The Tennessee settlement which the Massachusetts State Federation has undertaken began its work in June, 1905. Miss Post, a graduate of Maryville College, went as chief worker and Miss McCurley, an undergraduate of Maryville, as her assistant. The settlement is in a remote part of the Tennessee Mountains, called The Happy Valley. Here our two workers made a home in two rooms of one of the few frame dwellings in the valley, and for three months lived among and did much helpful work for the people. The settlement work will begin this year in Happy Valley early in June.

Georgia.

The Georgia Model School re-opened in January, in the unfinished building which is not yet completed. The school was in session four months, with good attendance, doing very good work under great disadvantages. It closed April 26, and will re-open in July for two months. In May and June the children are busy in the field and with the cotton, and so are unable to be regular in attendance at school.

Pure Food.

The Pure Food Committee is glad of an opportunity to thank The Massachusetts State Federation for its loyal support.

Forty-two (42) clubs have held Pure Food Meetings, seventeen (17) of which have been open to the general public. At most of these meetings resolutions endorsing the national Pure Food Bill were passed and forwarded to the Massachusetts Senators. We have circulated over four thousand (4000) pamphlets. The interest aroused has been enthusiastic and sustained.

Pure Food Committees have been appointed in nineteen (19) clubs, and in a number of other clubs the subject has been assigned to already existing committees.

We have done our part in moulding public opinion, and in making this opinion felt. If in our efforts we have met with some ridicule it has done us more good than harm. We may take it as a sure proof that we are stirring the slothful, and vexing those whose habits do not bear investigation. The gad fly's methods were not disdained by Socrates, although never calculated to gain popularity.

If the National House of Representatives does not concur with the Senate in passing the Pure Food Bill at the present session, this committee begs each club to make a personal appeal by means of a delegation to its Congressional Representative during the summer vacation.

With the growing sense of the importance of clean, pure and wholesome food to the family well-being, it is too much to ask that each club should appoint one member to receive the Monthly Bulletin of the Massachusetts Board of Health, and to read and abstract for the benefit of the club its reports of food adulteration?

The Bulletin can be obtained free on application to Dr. Charles Harrington, Secretary of the Board of Health, State House Boston.

Elizabeth Foster Chairman.

Reciprocity Committee.

Clara B. Adams Chairman. Clubs known to have observed Reciprocity Day.....33 Clubs introducing reciprocity features into regular programs.....14 Papers loaned from Bureau.....2 Number of times stereoscopic lecture on "Village Improvement" loaned.....2 Visiting club women taking part in reciprocity meetings, over.....76 Reciprocity Committee formed by Clubs.....13

The report is one of progress the outlook one of promise.

At the close of the reports the president stated that there had been present two delegates from the most distant club, that at Great Barrington, and that they had brought with them an invitation from the Federation to hold its next annual meeting at that place. This invitation will probably be accepted and if so the sessions will very likely extend over a longer time, possibly two days, when the committees will have more adequate opportunity for presenting the work accomplished.

With a vote of thanks to the Melrose Woman's Club for its delightful hospitality the meeting adjourned.

The Massachusetts State Federation official train for the Biennial at St. Paul will leave South Station, Boston, at two o'clock on May 28.

No. 31194

CITY OF NEWTON

To the Honorable Board of Aldermen of the City of Newton:—

Respectfully represents your petitioner, the Board of Directors of the Newton and Boston Street Railway Company, that public convenience and necessity require the re-location of three poles of the company at Newton Highlands Square, in said City of Newton, the change in the location of the poles being required on account of the change of grade crossing of the Boston and Albany Railroad at that point.

Your petitioner, therefore, respectfully requests that your Honorable Board will grant it a location for the re-location of said poles, all as shown on plan filed herewith, dated November 28th, 1905.

Also the right to erect such poles and to place upon them such necessary overhead wires and other devices as may be necessary for the operation of its road by the Overhead Single Trolley System.

Dated this 12th day of May, 1906.

Respectfully submitted,

The Board of Directors
